Kennedy Wants Name Off Ballot In Florida

By United Press International

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a steadfast non-candidate, was one of a dozen Democrats whose names were entered Tuesday in the March 14 Florida primary. Kennedy promptly announced he would demand that his name be withdrawn.

The Florida secretary of state, Richard Stone, said he placed the names on the primary ballot because each was recognized by the press as a candidate, and "the press continually keeps Sen. Kennedy in the forefront of the candidates" despite his repeated disclaimers.

A Kennedy spokesman said the senator would file an affidavit declaring his non-candidacy to have his name withdrawn before the final Florida ballot is published Jan. 18. Stone said the affidavit must contain a "pretty strong oath" that the person withdrawing is not a candidate and will not be one at his party's nominating convention.

Others on the tentative Florida list of Democratic candidates are Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, Maine; Hubert H. Humphrey, Minn.; George S. McGovern, S.D.; Henry M. Jackson, Wash., and Vance Hartke, Ind.; Mayors John V. Lindsay of New York and Sam Yorty of Los Angeles; Reps. Wilbur D. Mills, Ark., and Shirley Chisholm, N.Y.; former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, Minn., and Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, with whom Stone spoke privately on two occasions.

On the tentative Republican ballot are President Nixon and Reps. Paul N. McCloskey, Calif., and John Ashbrook of Ohio.

Hartke opened his Florida campaign Tuesday pledging to end unemployment by creating more government jobs, including work on the $5.5 billion space shuttle recently given a go-ahead by Nixon. He criticized Muskie and Humphrey for not offering specific solutions to unemployment and the Vietnam war.

Jackson, in New York, denied published reports that he courted the segregationist vote during a recent campaign through the pro-Wallace Florida Panhandle.

Jackson, who said he opposes both segregation and mass pupil busing, told newsmen that "I have a civil rights record second to none" and that "what I say in Florida I say in New York."

Muskie, who is campaigning in Wisconsin, won an endorsement Tuesday from Joseph Duffey, former national chairman of Americans for Democratic Action and a leader of the 1968 McCarthy for president campaign.

In other developments:

—Former Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, the Texas Democratic liberal who was defeated in the 1970 primary, announced he would try again for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate seat held by John G. Tower, R-Tex.

—Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP, said that "in my estimation of the mood of the country, Mr. Muskie is right" in his controversial observation that a ticket with a black vice presidential candidate could not be elected.

JUDGE IS DISBARRED

Superior Court Judge Edward J. DeSaulnier Jr., left, was disbarred by the Massachusetts Supreme Court Tuesday and Superior Court Judge Vincent R. Brogna, right, was censured. The action came after an inquiry into bribery charges implicating them after DeSaulnier had been named in testimony by convicted stock swindler Michael J. Raymond of New York City. Raymond had testified before a U.S. Senate subcommittee and Brogna later identified himself as another judge referred to, but not named by Raymond.

Hanoi Troops Seize Plateau

Saigon (AP) — North Vietnam's big winter offensive drove Laotian troops from the strategic Bolovens Plateau in southern Laos on Tuesday and tightened a grip around an army base in the northern sector.

At the same time, Cambodian forces abandoned Krek, in eastern Cambodia 10 miles from the South Vietnamese border, before the advance of elements of three North Vietnamese divisions.

Despite a U.S. aerial pounding of the Ho Chi Minh Trail to halt supplies and reinforcements, there was no sign of abatement in what U.S. sources call the enemy's most intensive ground offensive ever launched in Laos.

The North Vietnamese have been beefing up their antiaircraft defenses along the trail and two surface-to-air (SAM) missiles were fired Monday at a U.S. attacking plane in southern Laos. It was the first time in nine months that a SAM was fired from positions that far south. The U.S. Command said the plane was not hit.

The North Vietnamese took over the whole of the Bolovens Plateau after driving a 1,000-man Laotian force from the town of Ban Nhik, in the plateau's western reaches.

Military sources in Vientiane, the Laotian administrative capital, said the government forces suffered 200 casualties in the retreat.

The offensive in the south is aimed at giving the North Vietnamese alternate supply routes across the plateau west of the heavily bombed Ho Chi Minh Trail. It also provides a buffer against Laotian raids on the trail itself.

The military sources said the North Vietnamese moved so close in on the Laotian positions that U.S. planes were unable to attack for fear of hitting government troops.

In the north, the North Vietnamese kept up their pressure on the army base at Long Cheng, 78 miles north of Vientiane. They poured 60 rounds of 130mm artillery fire on Long Cheng, damaging the airstrip and igniting a rocket dump, field reports said.

Two Red States Recognize Bangladesh

By United Press International

East Germany and Bulgaria granted diplomatic recognition to Bangladesh Tuesday, raising to four the number of countries that have accepted the existence of the former province of East Pakistan as an independent nation.

The Bulgarian announcement of recognition followed by several hours that by East Germany. An official announcement issued in Sofia said that "following the principle of self-determination, the Bulgarian government decided to recognize the new state and its government."

The East German announcement was made by the official ADN news agency in Berlin and also by Foreign Minister Otto Winzer, who is visiting in New Delhi.

India and the small Himalayan kingdom of Bhutan on India's northern border are the only other nations that have recognized Bangladesh.

India, meanwhile, was preparing a substantial economic assistance program for Bangladesh to help put the new nation on its feet following its nine-month struggle for independence which reached a climax last month when India fought and defeated West Pakistani forces in a two-week war.

In other capitals Tuesday, Bangladesh President Sheikh Mujibur Rahman met with his cabinet in Dacca for the first time, and West Pakistani President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto made a brief trip to the neighboring kingdom of Afghanistan.

A foreign office spokesman in Islamabad gave no reason for Bhutto's trip, saying only that he left for the Afghanistan capital of Kabul about midday and immediately began conferences with King Mohammad Zahir Shah and other officials. Bhutto returned to Islamabad several hours later.

Law On Aid To Church Schools Is Ruled Invalid

New York (AP) — A New York law providing $33 million a year in state aid to church schools was ruled unconstitutional Tuesday by a special three-judge federal court.

The unanimous decision said the law passed by the 1971 New York Legislature violated the constitutional ban on laws respecting the establishment of religion.

The court likened the case to ones in Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Connecticut, where similar statutes were held unconstitutional last year.

The New York law passed the legislature by wide margins—108-41 in the Assembly and 44-11 in the Senate.

It provided funds to non-public schools on a per-pupil basis, specifying that they be used for "secular educational services" and not for religious instruction.

What Do You Say To A Bald Lady?

Chicago (AP) — What do you say to a baldheaded lady?

You tell her she looks nice in her wig, says a dermatologist who posed the question.

To the balding lady, you say maybe she wouldn't shed so much hair if she didn't roll it so tightly.

Dr. Willard D. Steck, a Cleveland, Ohio, dermatologist, discussed the problem of female balding at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Dermatology.

Only One Solution

Steck said that no effective therapy is known for bladness and that a wig is about the only solution. But these rare women need to be reassured that they do indeed look nice in their hairpiece.

Balding ladies, Steck said, should be told:

—They will not become completely bald.

—To wash their hair frequently with castile shampoo.

—To brush regularly but gently with a soft brush.

—To avoid stretching the hair tightly on rollers or other setting devices.

Many Causes

There are many causes of excessive hair loss in women, the dermatologist said. And one which can be remedied is that related to traction from roller-type hair-setting devices.

This type of hair loss also results, Steck said, from pulling the hair tightly into a ponytail, bun, chignon, or tight braids. The hair loss appears excessive at the point in the scalp from which the hair is drawn.

Steck said, "During the past 15 years women have favored a variety of hair styles — short and curly, bouffant, beehive, or long and lank — but all of them seem to have depended upon the use of rollers — plastic rollers, wire rollers, brush rollers, sponge rubber rollers, even beer cans."

Women often fail to recognize that rollers cause their hair loss problem which worries them, steck said, and are reluctant to stop using them.

Steck said the tension on the hair need not be severe or greatly prolonged to produce hair loss, and that some women are more senitive to its effect than others.

He also reminded his fellow dermatologists that some women roll their hair wet and the hair stretches, then shrinks and creates tension as it dries.

The tension, or traction, causes some hairs to quit growing and later to fall out, he said. The hair follicle then goes into a resting condition prematurely, probably because traction on the hair caused some interference with the blood supply to the hair root, he said.

RACIST LODGES SET BACK

White-Male Fraternal Group Income Held Not Tax-Exempt

. . . Status Of Discriminatory Private Clubs Upheld

©The New York Times

Washington — The Treasury Department was told Tuesday by a three-judge federal district court here that it may no longer grant tax exemptions to fraternal organizations that exclude blacks as members.

As a consequence any income earned by these orders will be taxed, and persons who donate money or property to such clubs can no longer deduct the amounts from their taxable income, the court said.

The court ruled, however, that private nonprofit clubs, such as country clubs and other social groups that are exempted from income taxation by federal law, do not lose their tax-exempt status if they bar blacks.

The key to the decision was the special tax status granted to fraternal orders that invest portions of their funds for charitable purposes and to support the lodges and provide insurance benefits for their members.

Amounts To Benefit

According to the court, this amounts to a benefit granted by the government to the club members, and thus means that the government is "supporting and encouraging" the clubs' discriminatory actions. Because the federal government is prohibited by the Fifth and 14th Amendments to the Constitution from discriminating on grounds of race, the court concluded that this makes the favored status of discriminatory fraternal orders unconstitutional.

Tuesday's decision was on a suit brought by Clifford V. McGlotten, a black, who was denied membership in local Lodge 142 of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in Portland, Ore. In a suit handled by the American Civil Liberties Union, he sued Treasury Secretary John B. Connally and other government officials, demanding that the lodge's tax exemptions be cancelled.

His suit will affect other fraternal orders as well, as he asked that all of them that discriminate by denied tax exemptions. The decision will therefore apparently affect all 2,164 Elks lodges, plus the 3,860 lodges of the Loyal Order of Moose and the 1,600 lodges of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

All three groups have provisions in their national charters that limit membership to white males. There are 1.5 million Elks, 1.1 million Moose and 825,000 Eagles.

After McGlotten filed his suit, the government moved to dismiss it, saying it was not involved in any racial discrimination that the clubs might practice.

The decision, written by Chief Judge David L. Bazelon of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, dismissed the suit as it applied to the exemptions granted to nonprofit clubs. But it upheld McGlotten's charge that the internal revenue code's exemptions to fraternal orders cannot be granted to those that discriminate.

'No Illusion'

"We have no illusion that our holding today will put an end to racial discrimination or significantly dismantle the social and economic barriers that may be more subtle, but are surely no less destructive," Judge Bazelon wrote. But he said that the decision would help to "quarantine racism" by eliminating an involvement of the government in racism.

The other two judges were Federal District Judges Aubrey E. Robinson Jr. and Barrington D. Parker.

At some point, the decision will have to be followed by a full-scale trial, to determine what money received by fraternal orders amounts to "income" that will become subject to taxation.

John A. Straitt, a Portland lawyer who represented McGlotten, said in a telephone interview that this might include such substantial amounts as proftis made at lodge bars and returned to the members in the form of low-cost meals, and the interests from the orders' huge investment funds.

The court held that the revenue code's exemption from taxation of nonprofit clubs does not involve the government in the clubs' discrimination because the clubs are granted no benefits by the government.

The government has merely decided that the money generated by club members' dues and their patronage of facilities is not income, the court held, because the money "has simply been shifted from one pocket to another, both within the same pair of pants."

STUDENTS . . . watch Miss Josephson's dance movements.

Students Dancing Through Lessons

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Finding a bit of dance tucked away in the midst of a lesson in mathematics, are or literature may not be the usual approach to school work.

But then, when a school has an "artist-in-residence," even for a few days, that isn't very usual either.

That's just what's been happening this week, however, at Lincoln's Culler Junior High, where students have found themselves comparing mathematics symbols and dance symbols, or lines on paper with lines in space — and then acting them out, as well.

What brought the dance to Culler this week is a program funded through the Nebraska Arts Council.

And who brought it was Mary Rae Josephson, a ballet teacher from the Minneapolis Public Schools.

"It's a humanities approach," Miss Josephson said of the program.

She called it "an attempt to find the relationship, the uniqueness, the comparable ideas and thoughts that all humanities share."

And in the meantime, she added, "One big advantage is to reinforce learning."

So, in math classes, students compared mathematical symbols with symbols in movement — the basis of mime. Geometrical designs were related to the body's movement in space.

In art classes, students were asked to close their eyes and "feel the pressure points" as they sat in chairs.

Soon, the students were imagining the chairs as "designs in space," and lines on paper were transformed into imaginary lines in space — the movements of dance.

When students took time to actually "go through" their chairs during one sequence, Miss Josephson urged: "All you have to do is suggest."

"You can give the idea of going through" with a "suggestion of movement," she counseled.

The session ended with a brief look at the parallels between the movements the students had experienced and what they were doing in art courses.

In other schools around the state, students were working under the direction of musicians, writers, filmmakers and other professionals as a part of the program, which began in a teacher workshop last summer at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Teachers from across Nebraska participated in the workshop, designing interdisciplinary courses to attempt to tie togtther the various phases of the humanities.

This weekend, the teachers will gather here again to evaluate the work they've done this year.

"We hope the effect will be a lasting one," said Vaughn Jaenicke, NU professor of music education.

He said feedback already indicates it has brought together teachers from many academic disciplines that hadn't previously combined efforts.

The program, called an "arts education project," was funded through the Nebraska Arts Council with a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Dairy Farmers' Groups Donate $329,500 To GOP

(c) Washington Star

Washington — A trio of dairy farmers' political action groups contributed a reported $72,500 to the Republican Party during the last four months of 1971, boosting the known total of the milk producers' donations to the Republicans last year to $329,500.

Financial reports filed for public inspection with the clerk of the house show that $62,500, all but $10,000 of the money contributed during the September-December period, was channeled into 25 committees represented only by bank accounts at the Union Trust Co.

The reports cover a period during which the Republican administration first announced that there would be no increase in milk price support levels, then abruptly reversed itself less than two weeks later and established a higher guaranteed price for milk.

The three organizations raised their contributions through a "voluntary" check-off system involving small donations from thousands of dairy farmers throughout the country who benefitted directly from the decision to raise price supports.

Coordinating that campaign were these political action groups.

—The Agricultural and Dairy Educational Political Trust, or ADEPT, the fund-raising arm of Mid-America Dairymen, Inc., of Springfield, Mo.

—The Trust for Special Political Agricultural Community Education, or SPACE, affiliated with Dairymen, Inc., a Louisville, Ky., farmers' cooperative.

—The Trust for Agricultural Political Education, or TAPE, the political action unit of the Associated Milk Producers, Inc., of San Antonio, Tex., with more than 40,000 farmer-members in 20 states from Canada to the Gulf Coast.

State Fair Board May Drop Traditional 4-H Beef Auction

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

The Nebraska State Fair Board is giving serious consideration to dropping the traditional 4-H beef auction in favor of a program awarding cash prizes for the top animals in the live show with matching awards for the top cattle in the carcass contest.

Under the proposal the grand champion steer would receive $1,000, the reserve champion $500, the champion market heifer $300, the breed champions $200, the reserve breed champions and reserve market heifer $100, and purple ribbon animals $50 each.

The champion carcass would yield $1,000, the reserve $500, third place $250, fourth place $150, fifth place $100, sixth through fifteenth place $50 and sixteenth through twentieth $25 each.

Similar programs have been used for hog premiums for the past ten years. Sheep producers came under this type of program last year.

Dave Williams, extension livestock specialist at NU has designed a feeding manual for the program which he feels will result in a higher percentage of the cattle in the show grading choice or better.

"We are trying to get away from the calf that has been muzzled to keep him from eating or the calf that has been walked for miles in an effort to keep his weight down. This is not a good practice in the production of beef.

We want the program to be educational as well as an incentive for the youngster to participate in a 4-H program," Williams said.

Williams said the program has the support of the state's county agents and is supported financially by a group of fair sale supporters including the purple ribbon club.

The purple ribbon club is made up of businessmen, mostly from Lincoln and Omaha who support the sale with contributions of $100 or more. Additional support has been offered from most of the traditional champion purchasers, major hotel and restaurant chains and department stores.

Williams expects to get support for the carcass contest from the livestock feeding industry and packing companies.

Board members generally reacted favorably to the program but withheld approval for the present until they were sure of complete support for both the live and carcass show.

Williams suggested to the board that they consider paying the judge a premium if he managed to pick the champion steer in the live show that placed top in the carcass show.

Board members also agreed to revise the rule book in regard to the bee and honey show. The changes are designed to make the rules more easily understood by amateur and hobby beekeepers who are not acquainted with show rules and terms.

The changes were made at the request of the state entomologist Cliff Walstrom on behalf of the State Beekeepers Association.

(The fair board established priorities Tuesday for projects if funding becomes available. Story on Page 17.)

Federal Funding Said Available For Nursing Facility

. . . IF LEGISLATURE REMOVES CURRENT $1.7 MILLION LIMIT

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

University of Nebraska Medical Center Chancellor Cecil Wittson Tuesday told the Legislature's Appropriations committee he may be able to acquire two-thirds federal funding for a new School of Nursing facility.

But, Wittson said, the Unicameral would have to remove its current $1.7 million limit on a new nursing facility if he is to be successful.

The legislative limit "would make it impossible to get any federal money," Wittson said, because such a building would be "inadequate."

A $3.6 million structure could be financed with only $1.2 million in state tax support, he estimated.

The remainder of the financing probably can be provided through federal aid, he said.

Such a facility would provide for 700 nursing students at Omaha.

The Legislature had envisioned about $900,000 in state funding for the $1.7 million structure it approved in 1971. Some $54,000 in planning funds have been appropriated.

Wittson's testimony came during NU's presentation of its capital construction budget requests for fiscal 1972-73.

Included in the list of projects is a $3,470,000 library addition at the downtown Lincoln campus, a $4,300,000 classroom — office building at the University of Nebraska at Omaha, and $1,440,000 for a home economics building at Lincoln's East Campus.

The library addition shares top priority with a $750,000 request for land acquisition funds for UNO.

A $450,000 laid acquisition appropriation for the Medical Center carries second priority designation.

The UNO classroom building is ranked third; the home economics building is fourth, and the School of Nursing facility carries the fifth priority.

A $150,000 appropriation for planning funds for a new $6,250,000 life sciences building at Lincoln is ranked sixth, and a $100,000 planning grant for a new $5,500,000 library at UNO is the university's seventh priority item.

The eighth request is $100,000 in planning funds for a $5,815,000 outpatient clinic addition at the Medical Center.

A $2,950,000 construction appropriation for a new College of Law structure in Lincoln is the ninth item.

Other priorities, in order: UNO utility extension, $100,000; Ferguson Hall remodeling at Lincoln, $190,000; Lincoln land acquisition, $100,000; miscellaneous remodeling and renovation at Lincoln, $250,000, and at the Medical Center, $50,000.

Although the proposed new fieldhouse at Lincoln does not carry a priority designation, it is estimated to cost $11,599,819. The facility would seat approximately 18,000 persons, according to university documents, and would require 30 months to complete once funds are available to begin construction.

University President D. B. Varner told the committee it will hear "no complaints" from him on the scaled-down version of library expansion at Lincoln.

The institution once requested funds for a $7,250,900 addition, but Varner said he believes student needs can be met by the more modest $3.5 million facility.

If funds are made available, bids could be be taken by early to mid-summer, according to UNL Interim Chancellor C. Peter Magrath.

"This to me is the key project," Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings said.

Magrath said he hopes the committee might reconsider its earlier decision to budget the closure of several branch libraries at Lincoln.

SALT Delegates Deadlocked Over Sub Missiles

(c) New York Times News Service

Vienna — Soviet and American negotiators at the strategic arms limitation talks were reported Tuesday to be deadlocked over the issue of limiting submarine-based nuclear missles. Progress on other major issues has reportedly been sufficient enough for President Nixon to be able to sign some agreement when he visits Moscow next May.

Bangladesh Recognized

New Delhi — Bangladesh has been granted diplomatic recognition by East Germany. (More on Page 2.)

AID Builds Hotel Pool

Washington — In what officials of the Agency for International Development said was a loan designed to "promote tourism" in the Dominican Republic, the agency reportedly lent $126,422 to provide a swimming pool filter, a diving board, underwater lights and restaurant and bar equipment to a privately owned hotel in the Dominican Republic.

Discriminatory Lodges Hit

Washington — A federal district court ordered the Treasury Department to withdraw the tax-exempt status from fraternal organizations that bar Negroes. The court ruled, however, that private clubs, such as country clubs, would not lose their tax exempt status. As a consequence any income earned by orders such as the Elks would be taxable. New York — With the end of the dust storm on Mars, Mariner 9 has sent back to Earth the most detailed pictures of the Martian surface ever made public. (More on Page 3.)

Kennedy Wants Name Off Ballot

New York — Shortly after Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's name was entered in the Florida primary, a spokesman for the senator said Kennedy would sign an affidavit this week stating that he is not, and does not intend to be, a candidate for the 1972 Democratic nomination. (More on Page 2.)

Washington — Confidential documents obtained Tuesday revealed that $202 million in anti-hunger funds had been impounded by the Nixon administration. (More on Page 18.)

Student 'Invests' $200,000

New York — A 19-year-old college student, in what he said was an effort to show that the rules of the New York Stock Exchange are not properly enforced, revealed that he had opened accounts with six prominent brokerage houses and invested $200,000 in the stock market without putting up any cash or signing any papers to open an account. Kennedy Wants Name Off Ballot In Florida

By United Press International

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a steadfast non-candidate, was one of a dozen Democrats whose names were entered Tuesday in the March 14 Florida primary. Kennedy promptly announced he would demand that his name be withdrawn.

The Florida secretary of state, Richard Stone, said he placed the names on the primary ballot because each was recognized by the press as a candidate, and "the press continually keeps Sen. Kennedy in the forefront of the candidates" despite his repeated disclaimers.

A Kennedy spokesman said the senator would file an affidavit declaring his non-candidacy to have his name withdrawn before the final Florida ballot is published Jan. 18. Stone said the affidavit must contain a "pretty strong oath" that the person withdrawing is not a candidate and will not be one at his party's nominating convention.

Others on the tentative Florida list of Democratic candidates are Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, Maine; Hubert H. Humphrey, Minn.; George S. McGovern, S.D.; Henry M. Jackson, Wash., and Vance Hartke, Ind.; Mayors John V. Lindsay of New York and Sam Yorty of Los Angeles; Reps. Wilbur D. Mills, Ark., and Shirley Chisholm, N.Y.; former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, Minn., and Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, with whom Stone spoke privately on two occasions.

World News

On the tentative Republican ballot are President Nixon and Reps. Paul N. McCloskey, Calif., and John Ashbrook of Ohio.

Hartke opened his Florida campaign Tuesday pledging to end unemployment by creating more government jobs, including work on the $5.5 billion space shuttle recently given a go-ahead by Nixon. He criticized Muskie and Humphrey for not offering specific solutions to unemployment and the Vietnam war.

Jackson, in New York, denied published reports that he courted the segregationist vote during a recent campaign through the pro-Wallace Florida Panhandle.

Jackson, who said he opposes both segregation and mass pupil busing, told newsmen that "I have a civil rights record second to none" and that "what I say in Florida I say in New York."

Muskie, who is campaigning in Wisconsin, won an endorsement Tuesday from Joseph Duffey, former national chairman of Americans for Democratic Action and a leader of the 1968 McCarthy for president campaign.

In other developments:

—Former Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, the Texas Democratic liberal who was defeated in the 1970 primary, announced he would try again for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate seat held by John G. Tower, R-Tex.

—Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP, said that "in my estimation of the mood of the country, Mr. Muskie is right" in his controversial observation that a ticket with a black vice presidential candidate could not be elected.

JUDGE IS DISBARRED

Superior Court Judge Edward J. DeSaulnier Jr., left, was disbarred by the Massachusetts Supreme Court Tuesday and Superior Court Judge Vincent R. Brogna, right, was censured. The action came after an inquiry into bribery charges implicating them after DeSaulnier had been named in testimony by convicted stock swindler Michael J. Raymond of New York City. Raymond had testified before a U.S. Senate subcommittee and Brogna later identified himself as another judge referred to, but not named by Raymond.

Hanoi Troops Seize Plateau

Saigon (AP) — North Vietnam's big winter offensive drove Laotian troops from the strategic Bolovens Plateau in southern Laos on Tuesday and tightened a grip around an army base in the northern sector.

At the same time, Cambodian forces abandoned Krek, in eastern Cambodia 10 miles from the South Vietnamese border, before the advance of elements of three North Vietnamese divisions.

Despite a U.S. aerial pounding of the Ho Chi Minh Trail to halt supplies and reinforcements, there was no sign of abatement in what U.S. sources call the enemy's most intensive ground offensive ever launched in Laos.

The North Vietnamese have been beefing up their antiaircraft defenses along the trail and two surface-to-air (SAM) missiles were fired Monday at a U.S. attacking plane in southern Laos. It was the first time in nine months that a SAM was fired from positions that far south. The U.S. Command said the plane was not hit.

The North Vietnamese took over the whole of the Bolovens Plateau after driving a 1,000-man Laotian force from the town of Ban Nhik, in the plateau's western reaches.

Military sources in Vientiane, the Laotian administrative capital, said the government forces suffered 200 casualties in the retreat.

The offensive in the south is aimed at giving the North Vietnamese alternate supply routes across the plateau west of the heavily bombed Ho Chi Minh Trail. It also provides a buffer against Laotian raids on the trail itself.

The military sources said the North Vietnamese moved so close in on the Laotian positions that U.S. planes were unable to attack for fear of hitting government troops.

In the north, the North Vietnamese kept up their pressure on the army base at Long Cheng, 78 miles north of Veintiane. They poured 60 rounds of 130mm artillery fire on Long Cheng, damaging the airstrip and igniting a rocket dump, field reports said.

Two Red States Recognize Bangladesh

By United Press International

East Germany and Bulgaria granted diplomatic recognition to Bangladesh Tuesday, raising to four the number of countries that have accepted the existence of the former province of East Pakistan as an independent nation.

The Bulgarian announcement of recognition followed by several hours that by East Germany. An official announcement issued in Sofia said that "following the principle of self-determination, the Bulgarian government decided to recognize the new state and its government."

The East German announcement was made by the official ADN news agency in Berlin and also by Foreign Minister Otto Winzer, who is visiting in New Delhi.

India and the small Himalayan kingdom of Bhutan on India's northern border are the only other nations that have recognized Bangladesh.

India, meanwhile, was preparing a substantial economic assistance program for Bangladesh to help put the new nation on its feet following its nine-month struggle for independence which reached a climax last month when India fought and defeated West Pakistani forces in a two-week war.

In other capitals Tuesday, Bangladesh President Sheikh Mujibur Rahman met with his cabinet in Dacca for the first time, and West Pakistani President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto made a brief trip to the neighboring kingdom of Afghanistan.

A foreign office spokesman in Islamabad gave no reason for Bhutto's trip, saying only that he left for the Afghanistan capital of Kabul about midday and immediately began conferences with King Mohammad Zahir Shah and other officials. Bhutto returned to Islamabad several hours later.

Law On Aid To Church Schools Is Ruled Invalid

New York (AP) — A New York law providing $33 million a year in state aid to church schools was ruled unconstitutional Tuesday by a special three-judge federal court.

The unanimous decision said the law passed by the 1971 New York Legislature violated the constitutional ban on laws respecting the establishment of religion.

The court likened the case to ones in Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Connecticut, where similar statutes were held unconstitutional last year.

The New York law passed the legislature by wide margins—108-41 in the Assembly and 44-11 in the Senate.

It provided funds to non-public schools on a per-pupil basis, specifying that they be used for "secular educational services" and not for religious instruction.

EVENTS
IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

We rather doubt that any state agencies are doing any cartwheels in excitement over Gov. J James Exon's 1972-73 budget but the situation appears to be somewhat improved over a year ago Exon has fallen back on two things to provide a small growth in public services for the coming year.

His first batch of new funds comes from what appears to be an approximate $12.5 million natural increase in general fund revenue, coming from sales and income taxes. The revenue will increase for 1972-73 simply because the economy of the state has improved or expanded enough to raise more money in this fashion.

Secondly, the governor has fallen back on about $16 million that will be in state coffers at the end of the current fiscal year as a result of the recent hike in the cigarette tax Basically, he would divert $14 million of this into the general fund.

Also in the general fund out of cigarette tax income would be about $2 5 million to pay out in 1972-73 on a five-year bond program to finance a new fieldhouse for the University of Nebraska About $3 5 million of the natural increase from the sales and income tax would go into operational budgets

The governor nets out with about $25 million for capital improvements, local property tax relief, etc , including the first-year payment on the new fieldhouse The general fund situation would seem to be improved too, from another angle

Last year's general fund included about $6 million for aid to cities in construction of sewage treatment plants. This money has gone largely unused and little more, it any, appears to be appropriated for this purpose in 1972-73.

Thus. the general fund budgets are really some $6 million better off comparatively speaking than they were last year on the basis of that one item alone. This pushes the net general fund improvement to something in the neighborhood of $10 million for 1972-73

Despite this, there are a lot of very tight departmental budgets Exon is still operating on the theory that you set the tax limit first and then adjust the budget to that limit

He maintains that this is what the people of Nebraska want Maybe it is, but does it represent enlightened leadership on his part or the approach of an errand boy who does only what he is told to do?

The final budget document adopted by the Legislature will depend on many things For the sake of the budget, it behooves the Legislature to follow the recommendations of the governor If it does not, the budget will be even worse than it is

That means they will have to buy his switching of cigarette tax funds into the general fund and his gradual elimination of the personal property tax. This latter will take about $3 million out of the $25 million Exon's budget has available for property tax relief and capital construction.

Greater relief of the personal property tax would further reduce funds available for other purposes On this matter, we are inclined to think that the governor will win, that the Legislature will adopt his personal property tax proposal over the more generous proposal of Sen Jules Burbach.

A closer and more hard-fought battle is likely to be waged over the cigarette tax funds Eliminated at this time under Exon's proposal is a new state office building Thrown in is bond financing of the fieldhouse, although the fieldhouse would come about as quickly one way as another

A lot of senators will not buy this approach. But with it, Exon has managed to manipulate more funds for state needs in the year immediately ahead. Without this approach, senators will either have to cut his budget, a bad approach, or increase the sales and income taxes.

We doubt that senators would be any more inclined to raise the sales and income taxes than would the governor Thus, when they look at all the options, they may well conclude that Exon's program is far better for the state as a whole than any other possibilities that might exist.

'Have I Got Them All Now?'

New Legislation Recommended

Allowing that the federal government "has thus far failed miserably" in the area of placing limits on campaign spending, Gov. Exon in his address to the Legislature Monday said he would be offering an "election reform measure calling for new and realistic proposals for reporting of campaign contributions and expenditures at the state level and the establishment of ceilings for such expenditures"

The governor did not spell out details of his proposal and we don't know what he may come up with but he did ask the Unicameral to join him in developing "such model legislation for Nebraska" Exon did well in attaching priority to such a legislative endeavor. We hope the idea does not lie dormant.

Exon also touched on a number of proposals in the areas of safety and law enforcement during his morning appearance before the lawmakers

Among them, the governor called for repeal of 1971 legislation increasing speed limits on non-Interstate highways from 60 to 65 miles per hour during night-time hours. Exon said that after the limits were hiked Nebraska experienced a 46% increase in injury accidents and a 48% increase in fatal accidents compared with the same period the previous year

The sponsor of last year's legislation, Sen. C W. Holmquist of Oakland, opposes Exon's new recommendation "I defy the governor to show me proof that the increased speed limit has resulted in more accidents," Holmquist said

It may be that the dramatic and tragic increase in traffic accidents is not directly attributable to the increased speed limit, but it is still a fairly well accepted proposition that many accidents can be averted through a reduction in speed. The all-time traffic fatality record set last year illustrates that all that can be done to reverse the upward trend should be done

The governor might lack proof positive that the figures correlate, but his recommendation nevertheless is based on common sense.

Cause For Alarm?

We don't know exactly what to think about the report issued Tuesday by the House Armed Services investigating subcommittee that told of a civilian Cuban airliner that penetrated southern U S air defenses last fall Either there is genuine cause for alarm or the military establishment's propaganda machine is running at full tilt again

The commander of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) reportedly testified before the subcommittee that despite the fact that Havana had messaged the Miami air traffic controller almost four hours earlier with a flight plan, NORAD did not know that the Russian-built Cuban airliner headed toward New Orleans last Oct. 26 with 21 Cuban sugar conference participants on board had penetrated U S. defenses until it was informed the pilot had radioed the New Orleans tower for instructions a short time before landing

The Cuban flight demonstrated that any potential enemy possessing the capability could make a strike through our southern border to a high-priority target in the heart of the country with little risk of being detected in advance," the report said

The report called the existing American air defense system "virtually useless" and the subcommittee called on Defense Sec Melvin Laird to speed up lagging development of a new air defense system and for now install a sophisticated, new, over-the-horizon radar to cover Cuba and the Gulf of Mexico. The interim southern coverage has an estimated cost ranging from $70 million to $125 million

The fact that the Cuban airliner slipped through undetected from 90 miles away is disconcerting. But we have spent billions of dollars foolishly if any of America's potential enemies across the globe could plan an attack on the U S from the south and succeed by not being detected — if not from the moment the attack was initiated, at least in time for retaliation

The fact that the report was made public before the air defense system was shored up — if it needs to be — is an indication that the threat is not as grave as it is made out to be

Ducks, Drakes And Taps

NEW YORK — Once again, J. Edgar Hoover and Attorney General Mitchell have been playing ducks and drakes with the statistics they use to justify their reliance on wiretapping and bugging and their assertions that they are really doing something about the crime that plagues the country.

Hoover's most recent entry into the game of statistical con turned up in the annual F.B I. report, every year one of Washington's more imaginative documents. "Most of the 1,200 arrests under the organized crime control act," Hoover said, were "made possible" by electronic surveillance devices. Furthermore, convictions in the field of organized crime rose from 468 in 1970 to more than 650 in 1971, and according to the director, "much of the credit for these gains should go to court-approved electronic surveillance devices"

Baloney. For openers, even if most of those 1,200 arrests were "made possible" by tapping and bugging, arrests are not convictions; and in the field of organized crime, arrests don't too often result in convictions. More importantly, if organized crime convictions actually rose by nearly 200 in 1971, nothing in the historical record supports Hoover's claim that "much of the credit" was due to electronic surveillance.

For 1970, for instance, there is available a complete statistical study by Herman Schwartz of the State University of New York at Buffalo It shows that federal agents eavesdropped by court order on 10,260 people and 147,780 conversations, with the glorious result that they were able to arrest 613 people and convict 48, and of those convictions, none came in anything but gambling and drug cases

In fact, in 1970, federal officials eavesdropped on not a single murder or kidnap case, but rather in 119 gambling cases, 40 narcotic cases. 16 credit extortion incidents. and a few miscellaneous items The state record was little better; most state eavesdropping was aimed at gamblers, too, and altogether the state and federal snoops overheard 25,652 people but were able to convict only 151, just over one-half of one per cent.

There is no reason whatever to suppose that the record for 1971 is substantially better, although there may have been an increase in the number of devices installed, and some delayed arrests or convictions from 1970 eavesdropping. Besides, careful reading of Hoover's testimony shows that he offered no statistical or other evidence; he simply made self-serving claims, without a shred of justification.

Even his arrest figures, as it happens, are suspect. Time Magazine, scarcely a radical publication, recently charged that federal agents had been given quotas of arrests to make, in order to hype up the F.B.I. statistics for the coming election year.

But figure-juggling may ultimately backfire; if the director's statistics can't be trusted in one instance, how can any real value be given to the claim in his annual report — for example — to have "handled 6,995 investigations regarding civil rights and other related matters" last year? What are "related matters?" Do they include the infiltration and surveillance of black organizations that the F.B I is known to engage in?

But when it comes to scrambling statistics, Hoover may have met his match in Attorney General Mitchell Here is the most recent example Sen Edward Kennedy — using information actually supplied by the Justice Department — reported a rising number of national security surveillances (94 in 1969 and 113 in 1970) These are bugs and wiretaps that are undertaken without court order against anyone whom the Justice Department regards as a threat to the national security.

Replying to Kennedy on Dec. 16, 1971, Mitchell's Justice Department issued a statement claiming that national-security eavesdropping was declining, not rising. "On Feb. 8, 1961, for instance," the statement said, "there were 145 electronic devices in operation, 78 taps and 67 microphones, according to a department letter sent to Sen. Sam V. Ervin's committee . . . By comparison there were 32 taps and 4 microphones in operation today in connection with national security matters"

Again, the indefatigable Herman Schwartz charged into the breach. Exhuming the 1961 "department letter' referred to, he found that its author, Herbert J. Miller Jr., then an assistant attorney general, actually had told Ervin that there had been 78 taps on Feb. 8, 1960 — not 1961 — and that there were 67 microphones in place at the time of his letter, dated May 25, 1961.

Thus, the Justice Department, in its statement of Dec. 16, 1971, lumped together the taps of Feb. 8, 1960, and the bugs of May 25, 1961, and created them all to Feb 8, 1961 The comparison to 1970 would not have been valid even without this legerdemain, because the 32 wiretaps and 4 microphones reported in operation on Dec 15, 1971, were all placed on national security grounds, without court orders, whereas all taps and bugs in 1960 and 1961 were undertaken without court orders whether in criminal or security cases (court-ordered eavesdropping for criminal cases is the result of legislation not passed until 1968) In fact, the Miller letter actually informed Ervin that some of the taps and bugs it reported were placed 'with regard to organized crime"

Moral: Pay no attention to what we say; but watch what we do.

Sports Not Really Character-Molders

NEW YORK — Varsity football was abandoned this winter at our son's school (an all-male institution)—and not because the faculty thought it was irrelevant to the times.

It was the students themselves who lost interest in the old gridiron tradition Out of the entire over-14 student body, considerably fewer than the necessary 16 boys volunteered for the team

The alumni and parents of the Collegiate School, which was founded in 1638, the oldest private school in the land, and has long included the pigskin in its list of traditions, were surprised The first reaction was to be concerned that the high school-aged youths were feeling too many pre college pressures, an easy way to explain their disinterest in football, the second reaction was to wonder what kind of long-haired softies hath our school wrought'

It may be reassuring to these parents—and to others around the country, where competitive sports are becoming increasingly less attractive to students in institutions of higher learning—to read the report issued recently by two psychologists

The men, who tested 15,000 athletes on 27 professional athletic teams and hundreds of high school and college teams, came to the conclusion There is nothing to support the traditional idea that sports build character

"Indeed," the researchers said, "there is evidence that athletic competition limits growth in some areas . . ."

Dr Bruce C Ogilvie, director of the Counseling Center and psychology professor at San Jose State College (Calif), worked with Dr. Thomas A Tutko, another psych prof at the same school. Their research began with the counseling of 'problem athletes," but then extended to all levels of competitive sport The professors administered an "athletic motivation" test to the 15,000 competitors—both male and female

Their resulting 'broad-range value judgements" include the following

'It seems that the personality of the ideal athlete is not the result of any 'molding process,' but rather comes out of the ruthless selection process that occurs at all levels of sport

"Athletic competition has no more beneficial effects than has intense behavior in any other field Horatio Alger success — in sport or elsewhere — comes only to those who already were mentally fit, resilient and strong

Athletics, the researchers found, are changing with the times

"The cultural revolution has penetrated the last stronghold of the American myth—the locker room. Young athletes, having scaled new levels of consciousness, now challenge a long-standing article of faith—the belief that competition has intrinsic value.

These young athletes go into sport for their own personal aesthetic experience and to "enjoy the game They no longer accept the authoritarian structure of sports or the great emphasis on winning"

All this change is hard on most coaches, "who undoubtedly believe that the wars of England were indeed won on the playing fields of Eton

But the change, believe the psychologists, is good for the young people themselves

The day may at last have come when "sport" is just what its name implies—an enjoyable experience that one can win, or lose, with joy and without emotional pain

U.S. Warned India On Pakistani Arms Aid; Sea Rights A Matter Of Doubtful Dickering

WASHINGTON—Secret diplomatic cables demonstrate graphically how the United States used the threat of large-scale military aid to Pakistan as a phychological weapon against India during the recent South Asian war

The cables also show that, while direct U S arms shipments to Pakistan were ruled out from the start, the United States came within an ace of providing backdoor weapons assistance through several of Pakistan's Arab allies

The backdoor scheme was never adopted, but the cables show that the United States wanted India to continue to think the possibility was imminent, thus strengthening Pakistan's position

The most revealing of the cables was addressed to the American embassies in Saudi Arabia and New Delhi:

"In view of intelligence reports spelling out Indian military objectives in West Pakistan, we do not want in any way to ease GOI's (Government of India's) concern re help Pakistan might receive from outside sources.

"Consequently, embassy should give GOI no repeat no assurances re third country transfers." The secret cable was signed by Undersecretary of State John Irwin.

Another cable from Irwin to the U S embassy in Jordan shows that King Hussein was under heavy pressure from Pakistan for arms aid and that he, in turn, was putting the heat on the United States to help furnish it

You should tell King Hussein we fully appreciate heavy pressure he feels himself under by virtue of request from Pakistan" Irwin instructed U S Ambassador L Dean Brown

'We are nevertheless not yet in a position to give him definite response Whole subject remains under intensive review at very high level of USG (U S Government)

"We are fully alive to your delicate situation in not being able to give definite answer to King's urgent pleas. But we ask you to bear with us and put situtlon to Hussein in best light possible"

The big world powers have been greedily eyeing the vast mineral wealth on the ocean bottom But feckless United Nations attempts to settle the issue of ownership have all but collapsed

The confusion has now led the Defense Department into scheming with Russia to swap our rights to the mineral deposits for a shaky guarantee of total freedom of the seas.

These are among the alarming secret findings of an unusual two-man task force assigned to investigate the problem by Senate Interior Chairman Henry Jackson, D-Wash

Senator Jackson feared that the State Department might surrender U.S. sea bottom rights, so he dispatched two trusted Senate experts to the U.N. Seabed Committee in Geneva last summer.

The two aides, Charles Cook, a land and mineral law specialist, and Merrill Englund, the conservation-minded chief aide to Sen Lee Metcalf, D-Mont , have now readied their draft report on the subject

Entitled "The Law and the Seas Crisis," the nine-page draft agrees with the Nixon administration that the United States must guard its stake in the ocean's fish, minerals, gas, oil and other treasures

But while the administration is challenging the claims of Ecuador and Peru to sovereignty 200 miles offshore, the Senate observers recommend we consider adopting the 200-mile limit ourselves We presently claim a 12-mile limit.

The switch would cause consternation at the State Department, which is upholding the right of American tuna boats to fish inside Ecuador's 200 mile limit

Special criticism is reserved for the unusual dealings between the Defense Department and the Soviet Union over the ocean wealth

Alabama, known for its quickie divorces, has now developed a new legal racket. quickie auto registrations

To test how the racket works, a car was selected from a nationwide stolen-car alert The make, year and serial number, together with $30 were mailed to Probate Judge Leland Enzor of Andalusia, Ala

Fast as you can jump-wire a jeep Enzor sent back a registration and Alabama tags to a general delivery box in downtown Manhattan

We questioned Enzor's chief clerk, T Wayne Daughtry, about the quickie tags. He said two other Alabama judges also service out-of-state drivers. He says Enzor charges $2 a tag and handles a brisk 30 to 35 out-of-state registrations a day.

The FBI checks out suspicious applications, said Daughtry. Despite this, the mail-order service "by word of mouth has spread like wildfire."

To douse the wildfire, Rep. Bill Ryan, D-N.Y., has asked the Justice Department to help him draft a bill to end the registration-by-mail racket.

Voice Of Protest

Lincoln, Neb

Recent editorials supporting freeway expansion in Lincoln overlook at least two things First, Lincoln is overdeveloped to the east, as a team of consultants pointed out several years ago. Freeways spawn businesses (not in itself an undesirable effect) but a freeway on the east side of town will merely accelerate the deterioration of downtown of which the latest and most depressing system is the empty Sears store

It may well be, as The Star argues, that the people (whoever they are) want cars and therefore freeways, I am prepared to concede the first, but it doesn't lead by some inexorable logical process to the second I am not convinced that drivers going from Omaha to Beatrice are drastically inconvenienced by getting off Interstate 80 onto Ninth Street, a vast empty expanse except at rush hour If plans for the west freeway were supplemented by plans for making Ninth and 10th Streets attractive once more, I might be persuaded but somehow I have the strange feeling that that isn't in the cards, and that the new freeway will simply be superadded to the dreariness of that we already have

No, my real suspicion is that the will of the road lobby is once more being confused with the will of the people What is gradually disappearing, almost unnoticed and certainly almost unlamented, is a kind of urban attractiveness which some of us have long prided Lincoln on maintaining And something tells me what I don't like to hear That the voices of all those protestors at the public hearing aren't going to weigh very much

Buying Elections

Lincoln Neb

Money has been a corrupting force in recent election campaigns, dwarfing anything in American political history It is hardly an exaggeration to say that if an effective curb is not put on big spending, the system of free elections will be destroyed The major goal of Congress should be the passage of a bill limiting spending in political campaigns The President vetoed one measure on Oct 12 1970, even though 97 Republicans in the house, including virtually all the Republican leadership, voted for it Many people think this bill was needed as a start and question the wisdom of vetoing it

A Harris survey found that the American people have reached the point where they think campaign spending has gotten out of hand

John W Gardner, chairman of Common Cause and former secretary of health, education and welfare, said that most of America's political processes have become a vast game of barter and purchase and this involved campaign contributions, also appointments to high offices, business favors, favorable legal decisions and location of defense installations It is a game that is going on all the time at every level of government He said that everyone knows politics has its seamy side but the ordinary citizen doesn't know how enormous that seamy side is, nor does he know what a high percentage of his tax dollar goes to support it

This year Congress has been considering several methods to curb the big spending on election campaigns and passed one they consider the best. Under this plan, taxpayers could check a special box on his tax form to allow one dollar of his taxes to help pay the cost of presidential campaigning next yea This would provide $20 million for each major party, if nominee could decide not to use these funds but if he accepted federal money he would have to agree not to use any funds from other sources Perhaps a better financing scheme could be offered but this appears to be the best so far This plan should be made law before the big spending starts in the coming campaign

Let us not have a nation where elections are won by the ultra-rich with money they think of as a good investment Let us not have the buying of elections Let the people as a whole and not just a favored few run the country

One Solution

Lancaster County Commissioner William Grossman has proposed that an executive secretary be hired to handle the work for the county commissioners' office If a political crony could be avoided and someone could be hired on the basis of competence, this is a brilliant idea

A majority of the current board has already amply demonstrated their inability to handle county responsibilities Now if Commissioner Grossman wishes to carry his idea one step further in terms of value received for tax funds available, he will suggest that the $15,000 salary he recommends be provided by reducing each of the three commissioners' salaries by $5,000

Insurance Costs

Lincoln, Neb.

Just paid our dues for the first quarter of 1972 for our hospital insurance and we are sorry, indeed, to note a 16 per cent increase in the cost of same

Have been a member of this organization over 35 years and in these 35 years, had only one rather minor claim

The cost is getting prohibitive and especially for those of us in retirement who have to get along on fixed incomes

Hope the "powers that be" will soon do something to stop costs

In our opinion, anyone who had been a member in good standing for so many years, after he reaches retirement age and has to get along on a fixed income, his insurance costs should be frozen and his insurance policy should be uncancellable.

Knowledge Of Mars Being Greatly Changed

Pasadena, Calif. (AP) — Mariner 9 is rewriting the textbooks on Mars.

This is the assessment of scientists studying the latest pictures sent to earth by the tiny spacecraft from its orbit around the intriguing planet.

The Mars emerging from the Mariner data is a planet that, geologically speaking, quite recently was a living, breathing, evolving body.

Unlike the moon, which was born almost five billion years ago then quickly died in a fiery upheaval, Mars had a long life, scientists have decided. In fact, some Mariner skuyntists say, Mars still might be stirring internally, still undergoing geologic evolution.

"Clearly, Mars has presently active surface process . . . whereas before we weren't sure whether we were looking at a fossil surface like the moon," said Dr. Bruce Murray of the California Institute of Technology.

Geologic Episodes

"We could see geologic episodes on Mars but we couldn't distinguish if the episodes were taking place right now or happened millions of years ago. Now I can't imagine Mars as a fossil surface."

Mariner 9 scientists at Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory here where the spacecraft is being controlled don't agree on the interpretation of every photograph Mariner's two television cameras return.

But the consensus is that:

—Fiery volcanoes once burned over the planet, belching smoke and gas and playing a prominent role in shaping Mars. The fires, perhaps heavily banked by time, still may burn deep within Mars, further driving geological forces.

—Strong erosional forces have been at work, shaping some regions in manners strikingly similar to Earth. There are strong indications of erosion by gas, such as winds, and erosion by liquid, such as flowing water. But scientists hasten to add they have little data about what caused the erosion.

—Permanent dust storms may rage over certain regions of Mars and the entire planet may be dustier than a half-century of careful telescope observation from Earth indicated.

The scientists are unanimous on one point: The most exciting aspect of the Mariner 9 mission isn't what the photographs are confirming about Mars, but the new mysteries that are being opened. Mars., they are finding, is much more diverse than expected.

"The photographs are showing us a fantastic range of brand-new phenomena that no one ever suspected existed on Mars," said Dr. Carl Sagan, a Cornell University astronomer.

More such photographs were released Tuesday by JPL officials. More and more revealing photographs are being obtained now that a haze that has obscured the planet since Mariner 9 went into orbit Nov. 13 is lifting.

Pits, Hollows

The picture Tuesday showed a series of strange pits and hollows, some about two miles across, located about 500 miles from the Martian south pole.

"The process that might duplicate this type of pitted topography on earth is so out of phase with what we've thought about Mars that it's just amazing," said Dr. Robert Dharp, a Caltech geologist. "It means there are some very unusual conditions or events on Mars."

Sagan is intrigued by dark splotches or "ink blots" that have shown up in areas that didn't have the blotches two years ago when Mariner 6 and 7 flew by Mars snapping pictures.

"They appear to be some intrinsic change in surface albedo (reflectivity)," he said. "So the idea that they're connected with changes on the surface of Mars isn't a big extrapolation. But what they are and what is causing them is the exciting question."

Scientists hope such photographs will answer the decades—old mystery of what causes the seasonal "wave of darkening" on Mars—a darkening that spreads over the planet and seems connected with the season.

One Theory Undone

Sagan notes wryly that at least one speculative theory about Mars has been laid to rest by Mariner 9.

A Soviet astronomer proposed in the mid-1950s that Phobos, a tiny Martian moon orbitting the planet 3,750 miles above, might be an artificial satellite.

"We've now laid that idea to rest once and for all," Sagan said.

Pictures taken within several thousand miles of Phobos showed it to be a heavily cratered piece of planetary material about 16 miles long and 13 miles wide.

RILLES . . . are cracks on Mars' surface. These are part of a 1,100-mile-long system of parallel fissures.

STORY AT LEFT

MARS HOLLOWS . . . puzzle scientists. They are about 500 miles from Mars' south pole. Two basins at left are about 10 miles across.

Heartbeat Of Moon Is Weak, But Rhythmic

Space Center, Houston (AP) — The seismic heartbeat of the moon is weak, but regular, and there's "tantalizing" evidence of a recent volcanic eruption, a scientist reported Tuesday at the lunar science conference.

Another expert said a study of shock waves moving through the Moon argues against the existence of a blanket of ice or permafrost. Such a frozen layer has been speculated upon as a possible source of water.

"We came to the Moon with super stethoscopes to listen to her heartbeat and find that her heartbeat is feeble indeed," said Dr. Gary Latham, a Columbia University seismologist. "But the Moon is by no means dead geologically."

Rhythmic Quakes

Latham said sensitive seismometers left on the Moon by Apollo astronauts have detected a weak but rhythmic and regular system of quakes which shake the Moon with shivers so slight "they wouldn't even be noticed in California."

Careful study of the quake readings since the first seismometer was left on the Moon by Apollo 12 in 1969 indicates that most of them systematically occur whenever the moon approaches its orbit point nearest the earth, or once every 27.2 days.

"These quake signals show remarkable similarity to themselves," he said. "The source must be precisely at the same point on the Moon month after month."

Bordering Plain

Latham said epicenter for the most active of these quake systems is the southwest quarter of the Moon in highlands bordering a flat plain called the Sea of Clouds. The movement causing the quake is about 490 miles beneath the surface, he said.

The scientist said there are 600 to 800 quakes a year, most of them very small, and "clearly related to tides."

Schools Merger Is Given 30 Days

Richmond, Va. (AP) — The City of Richmond and suburban Henrico and Chesterfield Counties were givn 30 days by a federal judge on Tusday to "take all steps . . . necessary" to merge their school systems in September.

U.S. District Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr. entered the order as a followup to his landmark decision Monday directing the consolidation as a means of achieving "meaningful integration."

Tuesday's order gave the State Board of Education 30 days to name an administrative staff for the new, 104,000-pupil metropolitan school division and 90 days to submit a plan for its financial operation.

The two counties took initial steps to appeal the decision, which envisions the busing of 78,000 pupils to bring better racial balance to the schools of the three localities.

Richmond's 50,000 pupil system now is more than 60% black. Enrollment in both Henrico, with 34,000 pupils, and Chesterfield with about 20,000 is more than 90% white.

Only the Richmond School Board, which had sought the consolidation in arguments before Merhige last August over the opposition of City Council, seemed pleased at the decision among the officials involved.

Mrs. Hamilton Crockford, chairman of the board, said she believed most Richmond residents would agree with the ruling and that the board was "pleased, of course, to have won the case."

But Irvin G. Horner, chairman of the Chesterfield Board of supervisors, said Merhige's decision consisted of "personal opinions disguised as law," and was "outrageous."

"If the ruling sticks," Horner said, "this will be the end of public schools as we know them. They will become a black school system and the private schools will be white."

Burbach Says His Exemption Plan Will Work For The Benefit Of All'

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Milligan — Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton asserted here Tuesday night that his proposed exemptions in personal property taxes "will work for the benefit of all Nebraskans, not just farmers and businessmen."

Standing on the same platform where Gov. J. J. Exon dropped into the proposal just five nights ago, the veteran lawmaker in turn took his jokes at the governor. Close to 0 persons attended — approximately three fourths of last Thursday's crowd.

Burbach described his own plan as "sound, merchantable and equitable" while deriding Exon's. Both measures would cut taxes on business equipment and inventories, farm equipment and livestock, but by different formulas.

Burbach explained that his bill now before the Legislature would start with a 30% exemption the first year and escalate to 90% four years later. Exon has yet to present a bill but has spoken of a smaller cut with a maximum exemption of $10,000.

"There is no equity in this (Exon's limitation) and I'm sure it will never stand the test of constitutionality," the senator said.

Replying to the governor's criticism that the Burbach bill would force an increase in sales and income taxes, the senator predicted that much of the lost revenue would be offset by industrial growth.

He noted that the city of Denver generated 10,500 new jobs within two years after a partial exemption was enacted there.

Twenty-six states have already made "steps in this direction," he added.

He accused Sen. John DeCamp of "misleading" in a comparison the Neligh senator had made Thursday in supporting Exon's plan.

Using a crowd of 200 as an example, DeCamp had said 102 persons would receive no tax relief under Burbach's plan while seven would receive $2,007 each. The other 91 would get back an average $64 each although all 400 would have to pay $100 in increased sales and income taxes.

"I absolutely would never mislead and that's exactly what he was doing," Burbach stated.

Nine other senators, most of them fellow members of the interim tax study committee on which Burbach served, spoke in behalf of his proposal.

Sen. Richard Maresh of Milligan was responsible for both meetings.

Insurance Cost Must Be Cut For Bumpers

Austin, Tex. (AP) — The State Insurance Board ruled on Tuesday that car insurance companies must reduce collision premiums for 1972 cars with crash-absorbing bumpers.

Premiums for earlier modtl ars also can be lowered if they are equipped with bumpers certified by independent tests.

The order signed Tuesday requires a 20% discount on collision coverage for cars that can sustain a 5-miles-per-hour crash, front and rear, against a stationary barrier without damage.

Cars that could take a5 mph front-end crash and a 2> miles-per-hour rear-end collision without damage would receive a 15% discount.

If a car could take a 5 miles an-hour front-end crash and a crash without damage to safety equipment, it would be entitled to a 10% reduction.

BN Claims Gretna, Chalco Depots Causing Big Losses

Wahoo (UPI) — The Nebraska Railway Commission was told Tuesday the Burlington Northern Railroad is suffering a $20,600 annual financial loss by maintaining depots at Gretna and Chalco.

State Railway Commissioner Erick Rassmussen of Fairmont received the testimony from Burlington officials during a hearing in Wahoo.

Rassmussen indicated the commission will rule on the proposal within two months. He said a Millard area shipper has objected to the move contending shippers in the area would be hurt if the depots were removed.

The railroad has said it would replace the depots in Gretna and Chalco with a mobile facility in Wahoo.

EVENTS
IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

We rather doubt that any state agencies are doing any cartwheels in excitement over Gov. J. James Exon's 1972-73 budget but the situation appears to be somewhat improved over a year ago. Exon has fallen back on two things to provide a small growth in public services for the coming year.

His first batch of new funds comes from what appears to be an approximate $12.5 million natural increase in general fund revenue, coming from sales and income taxes. The revenue will increase for 1972-73 simply because the economy of the state has improved or expanded enough to raise more money in this fashion.

Secondly, the governor has fallen back on about $16 million that will be in state coffers at the end of the current fiscal year as a result of the recent hike in the cigarette tax. Basically, he would divert $14 million of this into the general fund.

Also in the general fund out of cigarette tax income would be about $2.5 million to pay out in 1972-73 on a five-year bond program to finance a new fieldhouse for the University of Nebraska. About $3.5 million of the natural increase from the sales and income tax would go into operational budgets.

The governor nets out with about $25 million for capital improvements, local property tax relief, etc., including the first-year payment on the new fieldhouse. The general fund situation would seem to be improved, too, from another angle.

Last year's general fund included about $6 million for aid to cities in construction of sewage treatment plants. This money has gone largely unused and little more, if any, appears to be appropriated for this purpose in 1972-73.

Thus, the general fund budgets are really some $6 million better off comparatively speaking than they were last year on the basis of that one item alone. This pushes the net general fund improvement to something in the neighborhood of $10 million for 1972-73.

Despite this, there are a lot of very tight departmental budgets. Exon is still operating on the theory that you set the tax limit first and then adjust the budget to that limit.

He maintains that this is what the people of Nebraska want. Maybe it is, but does it represent enlightened leadership on his part or the approach of an errand boy who does only what he is told to do?

The final budget document adopted by the Legislature will depend on many things. For the sake of the budget, it behooves the Legislature to follow the recommendations of the governor. If it does not, the budget will be even worse than it is.

That means they will have to buy his switching of cigarette tax funds into the general fund and his gradual elimination of the personal property tax. This latter will take about $3 million out of the $25 million Exon's budget has available for property tax relief and capital construction.

Greater relief of the personal property tax would further reduce funds available for other purposes. On this matter, we are inclined to think that the governor will win, that the Legislature will adopt his personal property tax proposal over the more generous proposal of Sen. Jules Burbach.

A closer and more hard-fought battle is likely to be waged over the cigarette tax funds. Eliminated at this time under Exon's proposal is a new state office building. Thrown in is bond financing of the fieldhouse, although the fieldhouse would come about as quickly one way as another.

A lot of senators will not buy this approach. But with it, Exon has managed to manipulate more funds for state needs in the year immediately ahead. Without this approach, senators will either have to cut his budget, a bad approach, or increase the sales and income taxes.

We doubt that senators would be any more inclined to raise the sales and income taxes than would the governor. Thus, when they look at all the options, they may well conclude that Exon's program is far better for the state as a whole than any other possibilities that might exist.

'Have I Got Them All Now?'

New Legislation Recommended

Allowing that the federal government "has thus far failed miserably" in the area of placing limits on campaign spending, Gov. Exon in his address to the Legislature Monday said he would be offering an "election reform measure calling for new and realistic proposals for reporting of campaign contributions and expenditures at the state level and the establishment of ceilings for such expenditures."

The governor did not spell out details of his proposal and we don't know what he may come up with, but he did ask the Unicameral to join him in developing "such model legislation for Nebraska." Exon did well in attaching priority to such a legislative endeavor. We hope the idea does not lie dormant.

Exon also touched on a number of proposals in the areas of safety and law enforcement during his morning appearance before the lawmakers.

Among them, the governor called for repeal of 1971 legislation increasing speed limits on non-Interstate highways from 60 to 65 miles per hour during night-time hours. Exon said that after the limits were hiked Nebraska experienced a 46% increase in injury accidents and a 48% increase in fatal accidents compared with the same period the previous year.

The sponsor of last year's legislation, Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland, opposes Exon's new recommendation. "I defy the governor to show me proof that the increased speed limit has resulted in more accidents," Holmquist said.

It may be that the dramatic and tragic increase in traffic accidents is not directly attributable to the increased speed limit, but it is still a fairly well accepted proposition that many accidents can be averted through a reduction in speed. The all-time traffic fatality record set last year illustrates that all that can be done to reverse the upward trend should be done.

The governor might lack proof positive that the figures correlate, but his recommendation nevertheless is based on common sense.

Cause For Alarm?

We don't know exactly what to think about the report issued Tuesday by the House Armed Services investigating subcommittee that told of a civilian Cuban airliner that penetrated southern U.S. air defenses last fall. Either there is genuine cause for alarm or the military establishment's propaganda machine is running at full tilt again.

The commander of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) reportedly testified before the subcommittee that despite the fact that Havana had messaged the Miami air traffic controller almost four hours earlier with a flight plan, NORAD did not know that the Russian-built Cuban airliner headed toward New Orleans last Oct. 26 with 21 Cuban sugar conference participants on board had penetrated U.S. defenses until it was informed the pilot had radioed the New Orleans tower for instructions a short time before landing.

"The Cuban flight demonstrated that any potential enemy possessing the capability could make a strike through our southern border to a high-priority target in the heart of the country with little risk of being detected in advance," the report said.

The report called the existing American air defense system "virtually useless" and the subcommittee called on Defense Sec. Melvin Laird to speed up lagging development of a new air defense system and for now install a sophisticated, new, over-the-horizon radar to cover Cuba and the Gulf of Mexico. The interim southern coverage has an estimated cost ranging from $70 million to $125 million.

The fact that the Cuban airliner slipped through undetected from 90 miles away is disconcerting. But we have spent billions of dollars foolishly if any of America's potential enemies across the globe could plan an attack on the U.S. from the south and succeed by not being detected — if not from the moment the attack was initiated, at least in time for retaliation.

The fact that the report was made public before the air defense system was shored up — if it needs to be — is an indication that the threat is not as grave as it is made out to be.

TOM WICKER

Ducks, Drakes And Taps

NEW YORK — Once again, J. Edgar Hoover and Attorney General Mitchell have been playing ducks and drakes with the statistics they use to justify their reliance on wiretapping and bugging and their assertions that they are really doing something about the crime that plagues the country.

Hoover's most recent entry into the game of statistical con turned up in the annual F.B.I. report, every year one of Washington's more imaginative documents. "Most of the 1,200 arrests under the organized crime control act," Hoover said, were "made possible" by electronic surveillance devices. Furthermore, convictions in the field of organized crime rose from 468 in 1970 to more than 650 in 1971, and according to the director, "much of the credit for these gains should go to court-approved electronic surveillance devices."

Baloney. For openers, even if most of those 1,200 arrests were "made possible" by tapping and bugging, arrests are not convictions; and in the field of organized crime, arrests don't too often result in convictions. More importantly, if organized crime convictions actually rose by nearly 200 in 1971, nothing in the historical record supports Hoover's claim that "much of the credit" was due to electronic surveillance.

For 1970, for instance, there is available a complete statistical study by Herman Schwartz of the State University of New York at Buffalo. It shows that federal agents eavesdropped by court order on 10,260 people and 147,780 conversations, with the glorious result that they were able to arrest 613 people and convict 48; and of those convictions, none came in anything but gambling and drug cases.

In fact, in 1970, federal officials eavesdropped on not a single murder or kidnap case, but rather in 119 gambling cases, 40 narcotic cases, 16 credit extortion incidents, and a few miscellaneous items. The state record was little better; most state eavesdropping was aimed at gamblers, too, and altogether the state and federal snoops overheard 25,652 people but were able to convict only 151, just over one-half of one per cent.

There is no reason whatever to suppose that the record for 1971 is substantially better, although there may have been an increase in the number of devices installed, and some delayed arrests or convictions from 1970 eavesdropping. Besides, careful reading of Hoover's testimony shows that he offered no statistical or other evidence; he simply made self-serving claims, without a shred of justification.

Even his arrest figures, as it happens, are suspect. Time Magazine, scarcely a radical publication, recently charged that federal agents had been given quotas of arrests to make, in order to hype up the F.B.I. statistics for the coming election year.

But figure-juggling may ultimately backfire; if the director's statistics can't be trusted in one instance, how can any real value be given to the claim in his annual report — for example — to have "handled 6,995 investigations regarding civil rights and other related matters" last year? What are "related matters?" Do they include the infiltration and surveillance of black organizations that the F.B.I. is known to engage in?

But when it comes to scrambling statistics, Hoover may have met his match in Attorney General Mitchell. Here is the most recent example: Sen. Edward Kennedy — using information actually supplied by the Justice Department — reported a rising number of national security surveillances (94 in 1969 and 113 in 1970). These are bugs and wiretaps that are undertaken without court order against anyone whom the Justice Department regards as a threat to the national security.

Replying to Kennedy on Dec. 16, 1971, Mitchell's Justice Department issued a statement claiming that national-security eavesdropping was declining, not rising. "On Feb. 8, 1961, for instance," the statement said, "there were 145 electronic devices in operation, 78 taps and 67 microphones, according to a department letter sent to Sen. Sam V. Ervin's committee . . . By comparison there were 32 taps and 4 microphones in operation today in connection with national security matters."

Again, the indefatigable Herman Schwartz charged into the breach. Exhuming the 1961 "department letter' referred to, he found that its author, Herbert J. Miller Jr., then an assistant attorney general, actually had told Ervin that there had been 78 taps on Feb. 8, 1960 — not 1961 — and that there were 67 microphones in place at the time of his letter, dated May 25, 1961.

Thus, the Justice Department, in its statement of Dec. 16, 1971, lumped together the taps of Feb. 8, 1960, and the bugs of May 25, 1961, and credited them all to Feb. 8, 1961. The comparison to 1971 would not have been valid even without this legerdemain, because the 32 wiretaps and 4 microphones reported in operation on Dec. 15, 1971, were all placed on national security grounds, without court orders; whereas all taps and bugs in 1960 and 1961 were undertaken without court orders, whether in criminal or security cases (court-ordered eavesdropping for criminal cases is the result of legislation not passed until 1968). In fact, the Miller letter actually informed Ervin that some of the taps and bugs it reported were placed "with regard to organized crime."

Moral: Pay no attention to what we say; but watch what we do.

Letters To The Editor

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetitious matter will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by writer's true name but may be submitted for publication under a pen name or initials. However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

Voice Of Protest

Lincoln, Neb.

Recent editorials supporting freeway expansion in Lincoln overlook at least two things. First, Lincoln is overdeveloped to the east, as a team of consultants pointed out several years ago. Freeways spawn businesses (not in itself an undesirable effect), but a freeway on the east side of town will merely accelerate the deterioration of downtown, of which the latest and most depressing system is the empty Sears store.

It may well be, as The Star argues, that the people (whoever they are) want cars and therefore freeways, I am prepared to concede the first, but it doesn't lead by some inexorable logical process to the second. I am not convinced that drivers going from Omaha to Beatrice are drastically inconvenienced by getting off Interstate 80 onto Ninth Street, a vast empty expanse except at rush hour. If plans for the west freeway were supplemented by plans for making Ninth and 10th Streets attractive once more, I might be persuaded, but somehow I have the strange feeling that that isn't in the cards, and that the new freeway will simply be superadded to the dreariness of that we already have.

No, my real suspicion is that the will of the road lobby is once more being confused with the will of the people. What is gradually disappearing, almost unnoticed and certainly almost unlamented, is a kind of urban attractiveness which some of us have long prided Lincoln on maintaining. And something tells me what I don't like to hear: That the voices of all those protestors at the public hearing aren't going to weigh very much.

Buying Elections

Lincoln, Neb.

Money has been a corrupting force in recent election campaigns, dwarfing anything in American political history. It is hardly an exaggeration to say that if an effective curb is not put on big spending, the system of free elections will be destroyed. The major goal of Congress should be the passage of a bill limiting spending in political campaigns. The President vetoed one measure on Oct. 12, 1970, even though 97 Republicans in the house, including virtually all the Republican leadership, voted for it. Many people think this bill was needed as a start and question the wisdom of vetoing it.

A Harris survey found that the American people have reached the point where they think campaign spending has gotten out of hand.

John W. Gardner, chairman of Common Cause and former secretary of health, education and welfare, said that most of America's political processes have become a vast game of barter and purchase and this involved campaign contributions, also appointments to high offices, business favors, favorable legal decisions and location of defense installations. It is a game that is going on all the time at every level of government. He said that everyone knows politics has its seamy side but the ordinary citizen doesn't know how enormous that seamy side is, nor does he know what a high percentage of his tax dollar goes to support it.

This year Congress has been considering several methods to curb the big spending on election campaigns and passed one they consider the best. Under this plan, taxpayers could check a special box on his tax form to allow one dollar of his taxes to help pay the cost of presidential capaigning next year. This would provide $20.1 million for each major party. A nominee could decide not to use these funds, but if he accepted federal money, he would have to agree not to use any funds from other sources. Perhaps a better financing scheme could be offered but this appears to be the best so afr. This plan should be made law before the big spending starts in the coming campaign.

Let us not have a nation where elections are won by the ultra-rich with money they think of as a good investment. Let us not have the buying of elections. Let the people as a whole and not just a favored few run the country.

One Solution

Lincoln, Neb.

Lancaster County Commissioner William Grossman has proposed that an executive secretary be hired to handle the work for the county commissioners' office. If a political crony could be avoided and someone could be hired on the basis of competence, this is a brilliant idea.

A majority of the current board has already amply demonstrated their inability to handle county responsibilities. Now, if Commissioner Grossman wishes to carry his idea one step further in terms of value received for tax funds available, he will suggest that the $15,000 salary he recommends be provided by reducing each of the three commissioners' salaries by $5,000.

AMERICUS NEBRASKUS

Insurance Costs

Lincoln, Neb.

Just paid our dues for the first quarter of 1972 for our hospital insurance and we are sorry, indeed, to note a 16 per cent increase in the cost of same.

Have been a member of this organization over 35 years and in these 35 years, had only one rather minor claim.

The cost is getting prohibitive and especially for those of us in retirement who have to get along on fixed incomes.

Hope the "powers that be" will soon do something to stop costs.

In our opinion, anyone who had been a member in good standing for so many years, after he reaches retirement age and has to get along on a fixed income, his insurance costs should be frozen and his insurance policy should be uncancellable.

Sports Not Really Character-Molders

NEW YORK — Varsity football was abandoned this winter at our son's school (an all-male institution)—and not because the faculty thought it was irrelevant to the times.

It was the students themselves who lost interest in the old gridiron tradition. Out of the entire over-14 student body, considerably fewer than the necessary 16 boys volunteered for the team.

The alumni and parents of the Collegiate School, which was founded in 1638, the oldest private school in the land, and has long included the pigskin in its list of traditions, were surprised. The first reaction was to be concerned that the high school-aged youths were feeling too many pre-college pressures, an easy way to explain their disinterest in football; the second reaction was to wonder what kind of long-haired softies hath our school wrought!

It may be reassuring to these parents—and to others around the country, where competitive sports are becoming increasingly less attractive to students in institutions of higher learning—to read the report issued recently by two psychologists.

The men, who tested 15,000 athletes on 27 professional athletic teams and hundreds of high school and college teams, came to the conclusion: There is nothing to support the traditional idea that sports build character.

"Indeed," the researchers said, "there is evidence that athletic competition limits growth in some areas . . ."

Dr. Bruce C. Ogilvie, director of the Counseling Center and psychology professor at San Jose State College (Calif.), worked with Dr. Thomas A. Tutko, another psych prof at the same school. Their research began with the counseling of "problem athletes," but then extended to all levels of competitive sport. The professors administered an "athletic motivation" test to the 15,000 competitors—both male and female.

Their resulting "broad-range value judgements" include the following:

"It seems that the personality of the ideal athlete is not the result of any 'molding process,' but rather comes out of the ruthless selection process that occurs at all levels of sport.

"Athletic competition has no more beneficial effects than has intense behavior in any other field. Horatio Alger success — in sport or elsewhere — comes only to those who already were mentally fit, resilient and strong.

Athletics, the researchers found, are changing with the times.

"The cultural revolution has penetrated the last stronghold of the American myth—the locker room. Young athletes, having scaled new levels of consciousness, now challenge a long-standing article of faith—the belief that competition has intrinsic value.

These young athletes go into sport for their own personal aesthetic experience, and to "enjoy the game. They no longer accept the authoritarian structure of sports or the great emphasis on winning."

All this change is hard on most coaches, "who undoubtedly believe that the wars of England were indeed won on the playing fields of Eton.

But the change, believe the psychologists, is good for the young people themselves.

The day may at last have come when "sport" is just what its name implies—an enjoyable experience that one can win, or lose, with joy and without emotional pain.

U.S. Warned India On Pakistani Arms Aid; Sea Rights A Matter Of Doubtful Dickering

WASHINGTON—Secret diplomatic cables demonstrate graphically how the United States used the threat of large-scale military aid to Pakistan as a phychological weapon against India during the recent South Asian war.

The cables also show that, while direct U.S. arms shipments to Pakistan were ruled out from the start, the United States came within an ace of providing backdoor weapons assistance through several of Pakistan's Arab allies.

The backdoor scheme was never adopted, but the cables show that the United States wanted India to continue to think the possibility was imminent, thus strengthening Pakistan's position.

The most revealing of the cables was addressed to the American embassies in Saudi Arabia and New Delhi:

"In view of intelligence reports spelling out Indian military objectives in West Pakistan, we do not want in any way to ease GOI's (Government of India's) concern re help Pakistan might receive from outside sources.

"Consequently, embassy should give GOI no repeat no assurances re third country transfers." The secret cable was signed by Undersecretary of State John Irwin.

Another cable from Irwin to the U.S. embassy in Jordan shows that King Hussein was under heavy pressure from Pakistan for arms aid and that he, in turn, was putting the heat on the United States to help furnish it.

"You should tell King Hussein we fully appreciate heavy pressure he feels himself under by virtue of request from Pakistan," Irwin instructed U.S. Ambassador L. Dean Brown.

"We are nevertheless not yet in a position to give him definite response. Whole subject remains under intensive review at very high level of USG (U.S. Government).

"We are fully alive to your delicate situation in not being able to give definite answer to King's urgent pleas. But we ask you to bear with us and put sitution to Hussein in best light possible."

The big world powers have been greedily eyeing the vast mineral wealth on the ocean bottom. But feckless United Nations attempts to settle the issue of ownership have all but collapsed.

The confusion has now led the Defense Department into scheming with Russia to swap our rights to the mineral deposits for a shaky guarantee of total freedom of the seas.

These are among the alarming secret findings of an unusual, two-man task force assigned to investigate the problem by Senate Interior Chairman Henry Jackson, D-Wash.

Senator Jackson feared that the State Department might surrender U.S. sea bottom rights, so he dispatched two trusted Senate experts to the U.N. Seabed Committee in Geneva last summer.

The two aides, Charles Cook, a land and mineral law specialist, and Merrill Englund, the conservation-minded chief aide to Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., have now readied their draft report on the subject.

Entitled "The Law and the Seas Crisis," the nine-page draft agrees with the Nixon administration that the United States must guard its stake in the ocean's fish, minerals, gas, oil and other treasures.

But while the administration is challenging the claims of Ecuador and Peru to soverignty 200 miles offshore, the Senate observers recommend we consider adopting the 200-mile limit ourselves. We presently claim a 12-mile limit.

The switch would cause consternation at the State Department, which is upholding the right of American tuna boats to fish inside Eucador's 200 mile limit.

Special criticism is reserved for the unusual dealings between the Defense Department and the Soviet Union over the ocean wealth.

Alabama, known for its quickie divorces, has now developed a new legal racket: quickie auto registrations.

To test how the racket works, a car was selected from a nationwide stolen-car alert. The make, year and serial number, together with $30 were mailed to Probate Judge Leland Enzor of Andalusia, Ala.

Fast as you can jump-wire a jeep. Enzor sent back a registration and Alabama tags to a general delivery box in downtown Manhattan.

We questioned Enzor's chief clerk, T. Wayne Daughtry, about the quickie tags. He said two other Alabama judges also service out-of-state drivers. He says Enzor charges $2 a tag and handles a brisk 30 to 35 out-of-state registrations a day.

The FBI checks out suspicious applications, said Daughtry. Despite this, the mail-order service "by word of mouth has spread like wildfire."

To douse the wildfire, Rep. Bill Ryan, D-N.Y., has asked the Justice Department to help him draft a bill to end the registration-by-mail racket.

Burbach Says His Exemption Plan 'Will Work For The Benefit Of All'

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Milligan — Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton asserted here Tuesday night that his proposed exemptions in personal property taxes "will work for the benefit of all Nebraskans, not just farmers and businessmen."

Standing on the same platform where Gov. J. J. Exon ripped into the proposal just five nights ago, the veteran lawmaker in turn took his pokes at the governor. Close to 200 persons attended — approximately three fourths of last Thursday's crowd.

Burbach described his own plan as "sound, merchantable and equitable" while deriding Exon's. Both measures would cut taxes on business equipment and inventories, farm equipment and livestock, but by different formulas.

Burbach explained that his bill now before the Legislature would start with a 30% exemption the first year and escalate to 90% four years later. Exon has yet to present a bill but has spoken of a smaller cut with a maximum exemption of $1,000.

"There is no equity in this (Exon's limitation) and I'm sure it will never stand the test of constitutionality," the senator said.

Replying to the governor's criticism that the Burbach bill would force an increase in sales and income taxes, the senator predicted that much of the lost revenue would be offset by industrial growth.

He noted that the city of Denver generated 10,500 new jobs within two years after a partial exemption was enacted there.

Twenty-six states have already made "steps in this direction," he added.

He accused Sen. John DeCamp of "misleading" in a comparison the Neligh senator had made Thursday in supporting Exon's plan.

Using a crowd of 200 as an example, DeCamp had said 102 persons would receive no tax relief under Burbach's plan while seven would receive $2,007 each. The other 91 would get back an average $64 each although all 400 would have to pay $100 in increased sales and income taxes.

"I absolutely would never mislead and that's exactly what he was doing," Burbach stated.

Nine other senators, most of them fellow members of the interim tax study committee on which Burbach served, spoke in behalf of his proposal.

Sen. Richard Maresh of Milligan was responsible for both meetings.

Insurance Cost Must Be Cut For Bumpers

Austin, Tex. (AP) — The State Insurance Board ruled on Tuesday that car insurance companies must reduce collision premiums for 1972 cars with crash-absorbing bumpers.

Premiums for earlier modtl ars also can be lowered if they are equipped with bumpers certified by independent tests.

The order signed Tuesday requires a 20% discount on collision coverage for cars that can sustain a 5-miles-per-hour crash, front and rear, against a stationary barrier without damage.

Cars that could take a5 m.p.h. front-end crash and a 2* miles-per-hour rear-end collision without damage would receive a 15% discount.

If a car could take a 5 miles an-hour front-end crash and a crash without damage to safety equipment, it would be entitled to a 10% reduction.

Petitions Readied For Referendum In Scotts Bluff Co.

Scottsbluff (AP) — Petitions seeking to place the three Scotts Bluff County Commissioners and the county tax assessor on a referendum ballot are scheduled for circulation beginning Jan. 17, a spokesman for Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter reported Tuesday.

Carpenter initiated the petition drive over a controversy involving property reappraisals last summer.

At least 2,000 signatures will be needed on each petition seeking referendum elections for commissioners William Nicholls, Fred Lockwood, and Harold Leddingham and tax assessor Marjorie Kliest.

Sherer To Move

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon announced that he will nominate Albert W. Sherer Jr., of Chicago as ambassador to Czechoslovakia from his post as ambassador to Guinea.

BN Claims Gretna, Chalco Depots Causing Big Losses

Wahoo (UPI) — The Nebraska Railway Commission was told Tuesday the Burlington Northern Railroad is suffering a $20,600 annual financial loss by maintaining depots at Gretna and Chalco.

State Railway Commissioner Erick Rassmussen of Fairmont received the testimony from Burlington officials during a hearing in Wahoo.

Rassmussen indicated the commission will rule on the proposal within two months. He said a Millard area shipper has objected to the move contending shippers in the area would be hurt if the depots were removed.

The railroad has said it would replace the depots in Gretna and Chalco with a mobile facility in Wahoo.

Meeting Slated To Discuss Possibilities For Westview

A meeting between county officials and State Health Director Dr Henry Smith is scheduled Thursday to consider possibilities for Westview, it was learned Tuesday at the Lancaster County Welfare Board meeting.

Lancaster County Welfare Director J. Earle Trabert said that if an agreement can't be reached on issuing a license for the county home that legislation will be introduced to attempt to get a new classification of home somewhere between board and room and nursing facilities.

Dr George Underwood, Lancaster County Health Director, said that whether the federal government would participate in providing funds for another classification will also need to be investigated

Commissioner Robert Colin asked what it would take to license Lancaster Manor as a skilled nursing facility rather than as a moderate care facilty for which it is now licensed

When informed that the facility would have to provide 24-hour registered nursing care to be licensed as a skilled facility, he suggested that steps be taken to get the additional nursing staff necessary for the license.

Commissioner William Grossman said he agreed that steps should be taken to license the facility for skilled care but that it wouldn't be feasible until after remodeling is completed so that an additional 50 beds could be categorized as a skilled area

He and Dr Underwood pointed out that it would be costly to have skilled nursing care facilities if there weren't a sufficient number of residents requiring that type of care

Grossman said none of those at Lancaster Manor now are classified as skilled patients and to provide skilled care for them would only cost the county money since it would not be reimbursed for a classification of care beyond what the patient requires.

In noting that the average hospital stay for county patients in hospitals is about seven days — about two days above that of regular patients — Dr Underwood said that having a skilled nursing facility available would cut this average and save the county money in that particular area

Retirement Plan Poses 'Problems'

By United Press International

The Nebraska Attorney General's office held Tuesday there are 'serious constitutional problems" in either establishing a new retirement system for state senators or including them in the existing one

The opinion was requested by State Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland and was authored by Assistant Attorney General Ralph Gillan The opinion was released at Holmquist's request

Specifically he had asked whether there would be any constitutional difficulties in the establishment of a new system or including the senators in the present state employe system

It is our conclusion that there are serious constitutional problems in establishing such a retirement system and that there is also a very serious constitutional question as to the propriety of state senators participating in the present retirement system ' Gillan wrote

In reaching his conclusion the attorney noted the Nebraska constitution states the senators would receive $400 a month plus expenses directly related to the job

But, Gillan noted, the constitution also says members of the Legisature "shall receive no compensation other than their salary or per diem "

Holmquist had rtquested the opinion in view of several suggestions that retirement be added to the list of benefits for the lawmakers

Beerman Reports Political Parties Agree On Delegate Selections Plan

Omaha (AP) — Spokesmen for the Republican and Democratic parties have determined how Nebraska delegates and alternates will be named to the national presidential nominating conventions, Secretary of State Allen Beerman said Tuesday.

Beerman told a news conference a bill now before the legislature will be amended to have delegates elected by congressional districts, apportioned on the basis of the vote in the last presidential election.

Approval of the measure would mean alternates will be selected at state party conventions.

Previously, delegates and alternates were elected, some by congressional districts and some on a statewide basis

Republicans would elect six delegates from the 1st Congressional District for the primary; four from the 2nd District; and six from the 3rd District, Beerman reported.

He said Democrats would elect eight from the 1st District; eight from the 2nd District and six from the 3rd District

The Democratic national committeewoman and committeeman also get convention votes

Names of candidates to appear on the Nebraska presidential preference ballot will be announced Feb. 9, Beermann reported.

Municipal and school board elections will be conducted on May 9, the date of the general primary, instead of in April Beerman reported

Only the Omaha Public Power and Nebraska Public Power Districts will have primary elections for seats on their boards of directors Beerman said In the other 35 power districts. only general elections will be held

For the first time in Nebraska, constitutional amendments will be on the primary ballot.

Until this year, the state limited voting on amendments to the general election

POSTCARD

by Stan Delaplane

We came into the buoyed channel at Panama at sundown A dozen ships of many flags lay at anchor, awaiting their turn to transit the Canal.

Every cruise ship has its Cassandra. We have ours. A complaining Cassandra to boot. She nailed the Canal Zone inspector as soon as he came aboard. She told him her troubles

"And we did not land in the San Blas Indian islands. Though it says plainly on the folder that we do stop there And I'm sure we've broken a stabilizer But nobody will admit it to me But we rolled and rolled—"

The Inspector did not know Suzie like we know Suzie When we see her coming, we run He was polite. And she nailed him to the cross.

The Panama tourist bureau is anxious to pour some of the rich Caribbean tourist money on the country. The Panama-South America share of the multi-billion world's travel money is only two per cent.

(Poor little Portugal does better than that)

The tourist people had a fleet of cars on the dock at Cristobal We got in and started for Panama City on the Pacific side

On the hour-and-a-half drive, a lady explained why Panama should be a tourist haven. A nice hotel. El Panama. It had gambling. There were fishing islands off the coast, now being developed Big developments.

It sounded like another Waikiki on the way. God help Panama—I thought it, but I didn't say it. When the tourist bureau walks among stars, don't tug at its feet.

When I was polishing brass for our waterborne commerce, we came to Panama every three months bearing cargoes of apes peacocks and ivory Well actually coffee—but those were romantic days

We spent our money for beer in Kelley's Ritz The Submarine The Blue Goose.

Today's merchant seamen are better paid. They were spending their money in the bar of Hotel El Panama. The bar has an old theater organ—"The Mighty Wurlitzer"—that used to play background music for silent drama.

Organs put me in mind of weddings and funerals. Both sobering events. But Panama is very proud of the organ.

"It is one of the two left in the world," said the tourist board lady.

The El Panama is a big and elegant hotel Hilton used to run it and it has Conrad's legacy.

They gave us rooms big as basketball courts And in the morning when I woke, a loud band was playing in the patio below A bunch of girls in native costumes were doing native dances

("Native dancing is one of the attractions on your itinerary," said the tourist boahr lady the night before)

We went down and got a rum punch The native dancers danced until they got tired — or they ran out of union hours — and they went away.

In the bar, the Mighty Wurlitzer began to groan and huff and puff

The bar still had a bunch of seamen. A few melon-skinned hustlers sat on the stools, waiting for Mr. Right — Mr. Right Away — to come along.

There is a gambling casino in the hotel It was doing a lot of business. Slots whirring. Dice rolling. Cards falling on the blackjack tables

It seemed to be mainly tourist trade — a half dozen big cruise ships are in.

The seamen in the bar let the gambling go They sat in groups. Drinking beer and (I'm sure) telling each other what the Old Man said to them. And what they said to the Old Man

And, except for the location, not much has changed since I walked down Front Street Faded jeans, a cap on the back of my head $20 in my foxy pocket and three weeks to spend it

Guess what? The last session of the Nebraska Legislature recognized that 18-year-olds can play bingo. You stated in the column last Wednesday that only those at age 20 and above could play. -19 year-old Lincolnite

ACTION LINE: You are correct. According to a letter received by ACTION LINE from the State Tax Commissioner, LB314, which became effective Aug. 27, 1971, amended State Statute 9-108 and allows 18-year-olds to legally play bingo.

While there was no publicity at the time of passage of the bill, says the Tax Commissioner, all of the bingo licensees are aware of the change.

So, many others are bingo players and now you, too, can B-1.

How much are the Republicans to pay for renting the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Coliseum? How much are the Democrats paying to rent Pershing Auditorium? Can anyone rent these facilities? —Mrs. Frank Olson, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The Nebraska Republican Party is to pay $2,000 for renting the UNL Coliseum. The necessary resolution was passed by the NU Board of Regents last Saturday. The decision on who rents the coliseum is made by the UNL athletic director and there is no legal restraint as to who can apply for rental privileges, according to a Regent's official.

The Democratic Party of Nebraska has contracted to pay $600 for rental of Lincoln's Pershing Municipal Auditorium, says manager Ike Hoig. Anyone with a legitimate function can rent the auditorium, he says.

In the Radisson Cornhusker Hotel, I picked up a brochure prepared by the State Roads Dept. on the corridor public hearing of the U.S. Hwy. 77 bypasses. This made me wonder why they were placed in a hotel where Lincoln citizens would not normally see them. Along with this, I also want to know the total number printed, cost and the distribution points.
—Taxpayer, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Stan Peters, corridor engineer at the State Roads Dept., says his office did not place hotels and motels on the list of distribution points, but that Lincoln organizations interested in the hearing could have placed them there. Distribution points were local banks, shopping centers, etc., and offices frequently visited by the public.

Peters say 5,000 of the brochures were printed at a cost of $144. At least 600 persons turned out for the Jan. 6 hearing at East High School.

I have seen renderings of the new design for the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Fieldhouse in the university basketball programs. How can this be when the architects for the final design have not been selected? —David Stone, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: According to NU Regent Ed Schwartzkopf, the design on the basketball programs is merely a sketch to provide citizens with a general idea of how the fieldhouse will appear and it is not the final design.

The design you see on the programs came from preliminary plans unveiled by UNL Athletic Director Robert Devaney July 2, 1971, and drawn by the architect firm of Davis and Clark Associates of Lincoln. A final decision on what architectural firm will be used has not been made by the State Building Commission.

Planetarium Slates Preview Of 1972 Activities Of Stars

A preview of the activities of the stars and planets throughout the coming year, entitled "Skywatch 72", will be the new show starting Saturday at Mueller Planetarium at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Sky shows in the Planetarium are given each Saturday afternoon at 2:45 and on Sunday afternoons at 2:30 and 3:45. Mueller Planetarium is located in the University of Nebraska State Museum at 14th and U.

Of particular interest this year will be two eclipses, one of the moon and another of the sun. The moon eclipse on Jan. 30 will be a total eclipse and may be observed over most of North America.

The eclipse starts at 2:02 a.m., lasting 5 hours and 44 minutes. The totality begins at 4:35 a.m. and ends at 5:12 a.m.

An eclipse of the moon is caused by the moon entering the earth's shadow. Because the moon will just barely make it into the shadow, this eclipse may produce an interesting "diamond-ring effect." As totality is complete, the moon will be lighted only by reflected light.

The eclipse of the sun will be on July 10.

Meeting Slated To Discuss Possibilities For Westview

A meeting between county officials and State Health Director Dr. Henry Smith is scheduled Thursday to consider possibilities for Westview, it was learned Tuesday at the Lancaster County Welfare Board meeting.

Lancaster County Welfare Director J. Earle Trabert said that if an agreement can't be reached on issuing a license for the county home that legislation will be introduced to attempt to get a new classification of home somewhere between board and room and nursing facilities.

Dr. George Underwood, Lancaster County Health Director, said that whether the federal government would participate in providing funds for another classification will also need to be investigated.

Commissioner Robert Colin asked what it would take to license Lancaster Manor as a skilled nursing facility rather than as a moderate care facility for which it is now licensed.

When informed that the facility would have to provide 24-hour registered nursing care to be licensed as a skilled facility, he suggested that steps be taken to get the additional nursing staff necessary for the license.

Commissioner William Grossman said he agreed that steps should be taken to license the facility for skilled care but that it wouldn't be feasible until after remodeling is completed so that an additional 50 beds could be categorized as a skilled area.

He and Dr. Underwood pointed out that it would be costdy to have skilled nursing care facilities if there weren't a sufficient number of residents requiring that type of care.

Grossman said none of those at Lancaster Manor now are classified as skilled patients and to provide skilled care for them would only cost the county money since it would not be reimbursed for a classification of care beyond what the patient requires.

In noting that the average hospital stay for county patients in hospitals is about seven days — about two days above that of regular patients — Dr. Underwood said that having a skilled nursing facility available would cut this average and save the county money in that particular area.

Retirement Plan Poses 'Problems'

By United Press International

The Nebraska Attorney General's office held Tuesday there are "serious constitutional problems" in either establishing a new retirement system for state senators or including them in the existing one.

The opinion was requested by State Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland and was authored by Assistant Attorney General Ralph Gillan. The opinion was released at Holmquist's request.

Specifically, he had asked whether there would be any constitutional difficulties in the establishment of a new system or including the senators in the present state employe system.

"It is our conclusion that there are serious constitutional problems in establishing such a retirement system, and that there is also a very serious constitutional question as to the propriety of state senators participating in the present retirement system," Gillan wrote.

In reaching his conclusion, the attorney noted the Nebraska constitution states the senators would receive $400 a month plus expenses directly related to the job.

But, Gillan noted, the constitution also says members of the Leiglsature "shall receive no compensation other than their salary or per diem."

Holmquist had rtquested the opinion in view of several suggestions that retirement be added to the list of benefits for the lawmakers.

Apartment Construction Big Gainer

Weary Lincoln apartment hunters should take note that they are not being forgotten — if the number of building permits issued during the past year are any indication.

Over three times as many permits were issued for apartment units last year compared to 1970, according to figures compiled by the Building Inspections division.

During 1971 a total of 127 building permits were taken out for apartment complexes, totaling 1,395 units, compared to 1970 when 33 permits were issued, totaling 445 apartment units.

Overall twice as many permits were issued for housing units during 1971 compared to the previous year. A grand total of 2,271 permits were taken out for single family dwellings, duplexes and apartments during 1971 compared to 1,071 permits issued in 1970.

Increases were also noted in the number of building permits issued for single family residences, with 804 granted last year compared to 582 in 1970. Building permits issued during 1971 for duplexes rose to 36 from 22 issued the previous year.

Beerman Reports Political Parties Agree On Delegate Selections Plan

Omaha (AP) — Spokesmen for the Republican and Democratic parties have determined how Nebraska delegates and alternates will be named to the national presidential nominating conventions, Secretary of State Allen Beerman said Tuesday.

Beerman told a news conference a bill now before the legislature will be amended to have delegates elected by congressional districts, apportioned on the basis of the vote in the last presidential election.

Approval of the measure would mean alternates will be selected at state party conventions.

Previously, delegates and alternates were elected, some by congressional districts and some on a statewide basis.

Republicans would elect six delegates from the 1st Congressional District for the primary; four from the 2nd District; and six from the 3rd District, Beerman reported.

He said Democrats would elect eight from the 1st District; eight from the 2nd District and six from the 3rd District.

The Democratic national committeewoman and committeeman also get convention votes.

Names of candidates to appear on the Nebraska presidential preference ballot will be announced Feb. 9, Beermann reported.

Municipal and school board elections will be conducted on May 9, the date of the general primary, instead of in April Beerman reported.

Only the Omaha Public Power and Nebraska Public Power Districts will have primary elections for seats on their boards of directors, Beerman said. In the other 35 power districts, only general elections will be held.

For the first time in Nebraska, constitutional amendments will be on the primary ballot.

Until this year, the state limited voting on amendments to the general election.

Grossman Is Elected To Head Board

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County Commissioner William Grossman was elected chairman of the board for the coming year, succeeding Kenneth Bourne, who was named vice chairman.

Bourne was also named chairman of the welfare board.

Commissioner Robert Colin, who has just completed his first year on the board, suggested that the board members appointed to various committees be rotated just as the officers of the board are to give each member a broader scope of county operations.

Grossman, who indicated he would appoint the committees next week, said he felt that suggestion had some merit.

Colin also brought up numerous other items including corrections to the minutes of last week's meeting and adjournment of meetings.

Objections Aired

Colin contended that the minutes of the previous meeting showed that he was not voting on a motion to approve hiking the salaries of the commissioners from $8,000 to $10,000 per year and that they also did not reflect his list of objections to the salary hike.

County Clerk Carl Hartman said that if Colin voted "no" as he contended Tuesday, the vote was not heard.

He also said that if Colin would furnish him a copy of the objections, they would be included in the minutes but otherwise only the actions of the board are included.

Colin also made a motion that the County Board discontinue the practice of "recessing" meetings and that any unfinished business be held over until the next week.

Bourne said that many times it is necessary to hold the meetings open in order to get further information to act on a matter and "It's been that way for years."

Grossman said he didn't feel holding the meetings open was an abuse or that there were any other problems with it.

When that motion was lost for want of a second, Colin made another motion to announce when the board will reconvene so that the public and press will be informed.

Grossman said he thought the procedure was within the "discretion" of the board and that he didn't feel the board "should be tied down."

Colin said he had been told by the county attorney and he had read the law himself that all business of the county board must be done at an open meeting.

Grossman and Bourne both asked Colin to provide examples when the board had conducted business in the "back office" as Colin alleged.

'Will From Now On'

Colin said he didn't keep notes on times and dates "but I will from now on, I assure you."

The commissioners also delayed for one week the signing of applications to the State Crime Commission for federal funds for construction of a Juvenile Detention Center.

Bill Janike, chief juvenile probation officer, told the commissioners that the applications have been drafted on a 75%-25% request which need the commissioner's approval before submitting them.

He said this would mean that the county would pay $67,000 while $201,000 would be financed by federal funds if approved.

Commissioner Grossman said that he understood the state was also considering making application for construction of its own detention center.

He said he wondered if the county could utilize the facilities if this were the case and suggested this be checked before the county submits its application.

Lancaster Manor Bedspread Issue Is Settled With Acceptance Of Bid

The controversial issue of bidding on bedspreads for Lancaster Manor was apparently finally settled Tuesday with the awarding of the contract for the bedspreads to Medline Industries which submitted the low bid of $765.45.

In recommending that the board accept the low bid, Rex Earl of Colonial Homes which operates Lancaster Manor for the county, noted that this was the same bid the firm had originally submitted.

He also pointed out that each of the three firms which submitted a bid in answer to the county's most recent advertisement for bids had submitted the bid for Morgan-Jones "Buttons and Bows" bedspreads and none had presented a bid for another spread of "equal quality."

'Limits' Protested

When Earl had presented the bids of suppliers to the board earlier, Commissioner Robert Colin said he had had several calls from suppliers who claimed they had not been contacted about the bidding for the bedspreads and concerning specifications calling for a certain product which "limits who can bid."

He said he didn't think it was right to "pin it down to one manufacturer because you're going to eliminate a lot of bidders."

For this reason, the board decided to readvertise for bids and include a clause in the specifications that the spreads could be the "Buttons and Bows" spread "or equal."

Earlier, in answer to the criticism of Colin for specifying one manufacturer, Earl said that the brand was specified because it is the best type of bedspread for the intended use.

Earl said Tuesday that the Medline Industries bid was low and the same as the previous price he had on the spreads.

Initial bids on the bedspreads were received in answer to a published advertisement at the same time bids were received on drapes. The board awarded the contract for drapes but rejected the bedspread bids because they didn't feel the money was available at that time.

At that time Colin indicated he was sure more people were interested in bidding than submitted bids and that perhaps they should be contacted to see if they were interested in bidding.

At a later time, Earl presented bids from persons who had been contacted making the total bids submitted nine, but because of the alleged lack of uniformity in the specifications and confusion in the bidding, the board had decided to advertise again before awarding a contract.

Commissioners Decide To Demand That City Return Six Parking Stalls

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday voted to demand six parking stalls back from the City of Lincoln so that county officials could be accommodated in the lot.

Commissioner Robert Colin said that he felt in light of the fact that the public defender's office had no space and other space was needed by the county and the city was using its area to park junk cars, the county should do something about the situation.

Board Chairman Kenneth Bourne said that the County-City Building Committee had discussed the problem and a list of names for whom the county needed the stalls had been submitted to the mayor.

He said the mayor still wants to go over the list, and Commissioner William Grossman said that the city just doesn't want to give up any of the 37 stalls the county provided them on a temporary basis.

It was pointed out earlier that Public Defender T. Clement Gaughan and his deputies had no parking stalls but had been parking in the public lot and validating the tickets they received.

However, Gaughan reported that the City of Lincoln had notified him that it would not honor the validations on some of the parking tickets.

It has been the practice at the County-City Building parking lots that when a ticket is issued for parking more than an hour in the public area, the ticket may be validated in a city or county office in which the person was doing business while the car was parked.

In other business, the board, on the suggestion of Grossman, agreed to set up a committee to study the problem of housing in the jail individuals scheduled for mental hearings until the hearing.

Grossman said the matter had been brought up a few weeks ago and he felt it was unfair treatment to have these persons kept in jail.

Sheriff Merle Karnopp told the board that he had just received forms from the Lincoln Regional Center whereby these persons can be taken there rather than to jail.

Grossman said he still felt a study of the situation should be made and the other commissioners agreed.

Street Closing Is Announced

The Traffic Engineer's office announced Tuesday the closing of 20th St. between J and G Sts. until Jan. 13th for sanitary sewer repairs.

Alpha St. between 27th and 28th Sts. is now open for traffic.

Exon Announces 2 Appointments

Appointments to the State Higher Education Facilities Commission and the State Electrical Board were announced Tuesday by Gov. J. James Exon.

Dr. Gene A. Budig, director of public affairs for the University of Nebraska, was named to the facilities commission. He replaces Dr. Joseph Soshnik.

Ralph Crowl of Omaha was named to a five-year term on the electrical board. He succeeds Harry N. Anderson of Millard.

County Board Allows Retroactive Pay Hikes

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday unanimously approved retroactive pay increases for county employes back to when the President's wage freeze went into effect. However, it was approved on the condition that it has the county attorney's approval.

Commissioner Robert Colin said that he understood there might be some question on the time element since the pay increases actually were approved Aug. 24 after the wage freeze went into effect Aug. 15.

He said that County Attorney Paul Douglas had stated that budget approval of raises constitutes a contract but that he (Douglas) was unavailable Tuesday and Chief Deputy County Attorney William Blue advised the board to take no action until the matter is checked further.

Last week the commissioners agreed that they felt the county employes should not be penalized when other branches of government are granting the retroactive wage hikes but also were concerned that granting them might defeat the purpose of the freeze.

County Attorney Paul Douglas had informed the board about two weeks ago that it is legal to grant the back pay increases in a lump sum but told the commissioners at last week's meeting that it was a board decision and that it might do as it chose in granting or not granting back pay.

The other action, the commissioners presented guidelines to the committee appointed to study the operations of the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation (LOMR).

The committee members, who were appointed in response to criticism and concern about changes in LOMR programs, were present at the board meeting and requested some staff assistance.

Committee Member John Angle said the committee would need some staff assistance for transcripts of testimony and any other assistance needed.

He said since no one knows how large a project this may be, "it is difficult to know how much assistance we will need."

The commissioners indicated that something could be worked out with the possible need to hire someone part-time to aid in the project.

Grossman Is Elected To Head Board

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County Commissioner William Grossman was elected chairman of the board for the coming year, succeeding Kenneth Bourne, who was named vice chairman.

Bourne was also named chairman of the welfare board.

Commissioner Robert Colin, who has just completed his first year on the board, suggested that the board members appointed to various committees be rotated just as the officers of the board are to give each member a broader scope of county operations.

Grossman, who indicated he would appoint the committees next week, said he felt that suggestion had some merit.

Colin also brought up numerous other items including corrections to the minutes of last week's meeting and adjournment of meetings.

Objections Aired

Colin contended that the minutes of the previous meeting showed that he was not voting on a motion to approve hiking the salaries of the commissoners from $8,000 to $10,000 per year and that they also did not reflect his list of objections to the salary hike.

County Clerk Carl Hartman said that if Colin voted "no" as he contended Tuesday, the vote was not heard.

He also said that if Colin would furnish him a copy of the objections, they would be included in the minutes but otherwise only the actions of the board are included.

Colin also made a motion that the County Board discontinue the practice of "recessing" meetings and that any unfinished business be held over until the next week.

Bourne said that many times it is necessary to hold the meetings open in order to get further information to act on a matter and "It's been that way for years."

Grossman said he didn't feel holding the meetings open was an abuse or that there were any other problems with it.

When that motion was lost for want of a second, Colin made another motion to announce when the board will reconvene so that the public and press will be informed.

Grossman said he thought the procedure was within the "discretion" of the board and that he didn't feel the board "should be tied down."

Colin said he had been told by the county attorney and he had read the law himself that all business of the county board must be done at an open meeting.

Grossman and Bourne both asked Colin to provide examples when the board had conducted business in the "back office" as Colin alleged.

'Will From Now On'

Colin said he didn't keep notes on times and dates "but I will from now on, I assure you."

The commissioners also delayed for one week the signing of applications to the State Crime Commission for federal funds for construction of a Juvenile Detention Center.

Bill Janike, chief juvenile probation officer, told the commissioners that the applications have been drafted on a 75%-25% request which need the commissioner's approval before submitting them.

He said this would mean that the county would pay $67,000 while $201,000 would be financed by federal funds if approved.

Commissioner Grossman said that he understood the state was also considering making application for construction of its own detention center.

He said he wondered if the county could utilize the facilities if this were the case and suggested this be checked before the county submits its application.

Lancaster Manor Bedspread Issue Is Settled With Acceptance Of Bid

The controversial issue of bidding on bedspreads for Lancaster Manor was apparently finally settled Tuesday with the awarding of the contract for the bedspreads to Medline Industries which submitted the low bid of $765.45.

In recommending that the board accept the low bid, Rex Earl of Colonial Homes which operates Lancaster Manor for the county, noted that this was the same bid the firm had originally submitted.

He also pointed out that each of the three firms which submitted a bid in answer to the county's most recent advertisement for bids had submitted the bid for Morgan-Jones "Buttons and Bows" bedspreads and none had presented a bid for anorther spread of "equal quality."

'Limits' Protested

When Earl had presented the bids of suppliers to the board earlier, Commissioner Robert Colin said he had had several calls from suppliers who claimed they had not been contacted about the bidding for the bedspreads and concerning specifications calling for a certain product which "limits who can bid."

He said he didn't think it was right to "pin it down to one manufacturer because you're going to eliminate a lot of bidders."

For this reason, the board decided to readvertise for bids and include a clause in the specifications that the spreads could be the "Buttons and Bows" spread "or equal."

Earlier, in answer to the criticism of Colin for specifying one manufacturer, Earl said that the brand was specified because it is the best type of bedspread for the intended use.

Earl said Tuesday that the Medline Industries bid was low and the same as the previous price he had on the spreads.

Initial bids on the bedspreads were received in answer to a published advertisement at the same time bids were received on drapes. The board awarded the contract for drapes but rejected the bedspread bids because they didn't feel the money was available at that time.

At that time Colin indicated he was sure more people were interested in bidding than submitted bids and that perhaps they should be contacted to see if they were interested in bidding.

At a later time, Earl presented bids from persons who had been contacted making the total bids submitted nine, but because of the alleged lack of uniformity in the specifications and confusion in the bidding, the board had decided to advertise again before awarding a contract.

Commissioners Decide To Demand That City Return Six Parking Stalls

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday voted to demand six parking stalls back from the City of Lincoln so that county officials could be accommodated in the lot.

Commissioner Robert Colin said that he felt in light of the fact that the public defender's office had no space and other space was needed by the county and the city was using its area to park junk cars, the county should do something about the situation.

Board Chairman Kenneth Bourne said that the County-City Building Committee had discussed the problem and a list of names for whom the county needed the stalls had been submitted to the mayor.

He said the mayor still wants to go over the list, and Commissioner William Grossman said that the city just doesn't want to give up any of the 37 stalls the county provided them on a temporary basis.

It was pointed out earlier that Public Defender T. Clement Gaughan and his deputies had no parking stalls but had been parking in the public lot and validating the tickets they received.

However, Gaughan reported that the City of Lincoln had notified him that it would not honor the validations on some of the parking tickets.

It has been the practice at the County-City Building parking lots that when a ticket is issued for parking more than an hour in the public area, the ticket may be validated in a city or county office in which the person was doing business while the car was parked.

In other business, the board, on the suggestion of Grossman, agreed to set up a committee to study the problem of housing in the jail individuals scheduled for mental hearings until the hearing.

Grossman said the matter had been brought up a few weeks ago and he felt it was unfair treatment to have these persons kept in jail.

Sheriff Merle Karnopp told the board that he had just received forms from the Lincoln Regional Center whereby these persons can be taken there rather than to jail.

Grossman said he still felt a study of the situation should be made and the other commissioners agreed.

Street Closing Is Announced

The Traffic Engineer's office announced Tuesday the closing of 20th St. between J and G Sts. until Jan. 13th for sanitary sewer repairs.

Alpha St. between 27th and 28th Sts. is now open for traffic.

Exon Announces 2 Appointments

Appointments to the State Higher Education Facilities Commission and the State Electrical Board were announced Tuesday by Gov. J. James Exon.

Dr. Gene A. Budig, director of public affairs for the University of Nebraska, was named to the facilities commission. He replaces Dr. Joseph Soshnik.

Ralph Crowl of Omaha was named to a five-year term on the electrical board. He succeeds Harry N. Anderson of Millard.

County Board Allows Retroactive Pay Hikes

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday unanimously approved retroactive pay increases for county employes back to when the President's wage freeze went into effect. However, it was approved on the condition that it has the county attorney's approval.

Commissioner Robert Colin said that he understood there might be some question on the time element since the pay increases actually were approved Aug. 24 after the wage freeze went into effect Aug. 15.

He said that County Attorney Paul Douglas had stated that budget approval of raises constitutes a contract but that he (Douglas) was unavailable Tuesday and Chief Deputy County Attorney William Blue advised the board to take no action until the matter is checked further.

Last week the commissioners agreed that they felt the county employes should not be penalized when other branches of government are granting the retroactive wage hikes but also were concerned that granting them might defeat the purpose of the freeze.

County Attorney Paul Douglas had informed the board about two weeks ago that it is legal to grant the back pay increases in a lump sum but told the commissioners at last week's meeting that it was a board decision and that it might do as it chose in granting or not granting back pay.

The other action, the commissioners presented guidelines to the committee appointed to study the operations of the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation (LOMR).

The committee members, who were appointed in response to criticism and concern about changes in LOMR programs, were present at the board meeting and requested some staff assistance.

Committee Member John Angle said the committee would need some staff assistance for transcripts of testimony and any other assistance needed.

He said since no one knows how large a project this may be, "it is difficult to know how much assistance we will need."

The commissioners indicated that something could be worked out with the possible need to hire someone part-time to aid in the project.

Solons Advance Bill To End Student Fee For NU Papers

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Unicameral Tuesday gave first round approval to a bill to cut out compulsory student fee support of the student newspapers at the University of Nebraska's Lincoln and Omaha campuses.

The measure passed 27 to 18 after an attempt by Neligh Sen. John DeCamp to indefinitely postpone LB70 went down in a 21 to 27 defeat.

DeCamp and his cohorts claimed the move to ax student funds from under UNL's "Daily Nebraskan" and UNO's "Gateway" would financially suffocate the two papers out of existence.

That portion of LB70 reads: "The University cash fund shall not be used to pay the expenses of editing, printing or distributing of a University newspaper."

Estimates are that student activity fees for the support of the "Daily Nebraskan" amounted for fall semester of 1971 to $26,250 — or $1.25 per student per semester. This accounts for roughly one-half of the paper's income.

As it stands now, the bill would force the student papers to rely on subscriptions, street sales and advertising for revenue sources.

The bill passed in its original form after an amendment to the bill led to considerable confusion on the part of sponsor Terry Carpenter.

The amendment forwarded by Carpenter would have stipulated an advisor be named to supervise the publication of the newspapers. The amendment passed unanimously.

However, after passage Carpenter learned that the amendment struck out the clause pulling out student fee support for the papers. The veteran Scottsbluff lawmaker then moved the amendment be repealed and the bill accepted in its original form.

Reacting to Carpenter's maneuvers, Omaha Sen. Ernie Chambers called the measure "childish" and "beneath this Legislature's dignity."

"This is an attempt to crush opposing views," Chambers said.

Two former newsmen now serving as senators, however, disagreed on whether to cut off the funds or not.

Omaha Sen. Duke Snyder termed the two papers "not good examples of journalism."

"I don't think you'll find that those people who have taken over the campus paers will find jobs in journalism after they graduate. They're not good journalists — they've taken over by default," Snyder said.

DeCamp, also an ex-newsman, disagreed with Snyder's evaluation saying, "I myself don't agree with the student papers most of the time. But just because you don't agree doesn't mean they shouldn't exist. This bill will widen the gulf which exists between the young people and this Legislature."

Swanson Wants Law Prohibiting Ticket Scalping

Lincoln Sen. William F. Swanson introduced a bill in the Nebraska Legislature Tuesday designed to prohibit the "scalping" of tickets to public entertainment events.

Swanson introduced the bill, LB1244, noting tickets, especially to sporting events, have demanded premium prices during the last few years.

The measure would require that no ticket could be sold for more than the price printed on its face.

Violation of the pricing measure would result in a fine of up to $1,000 and-or a jail term of up to one year.

Last year, Swanson was one of the lawmakers who asked if some controls could be imposed on ticket prices, primarily tickets to University of Nebraska football games.

2 Natural Resource District Measures Advance

By The Associated Press

The Legislature Tuesday gave first round approval to a pair of measures which would make major alterations in the state's Natural Resource District (NRD) program adopted by the 1969 Legislature.

Advanced Tuesday from general file were LB542 and LB543, two of the five bills facing the current session which deal with the NRD program.

The other three bills all received first round approval Monday.

LB542 as written and amended Tuesday would replace the current State Soil and Water Conservation Commission with a natural resources board to implement the NRD program and would provide a three-year, two-stage phaseout of the current commission.

Beginning next January, the 14-member commission would give way to the Natural Resources Board, composed of virtually the same members as now form the State Soil and Water Conservation Commission.

However, in 1975, the board would be enlarged to 15 members, including a dozen representatives for the state's 13 river basins.

Tuesday's action was taken amid some confusion among legislators as to the effect of the bills, and Sens. Jules Burbach of Crofton, the sponsor of LB542 and LB543, and Maurice Kremer of Aurora, one of the major backers of the NRD program, spent much legislative time explaining provisions of the measures.

Before LB543 was advanced, Kremer won 28-13 approval to amend the measure to provide for mandatory transfer of duties from the local soil and water conservancy districts to the NRD's.

Exon, Two Senators Discuss Cigarette Tax Use

Nebraska's cigarette tax and its relation to the University of Nebraska fieldhouse project was the subject of a conference Tuesday among J. James Exon and two state senators who have had leadership roles in the legislation.

Sens. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln and Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff traded views with Exon, and Luedtke said he was "pleased with our session."

"I think we are on the road to developing something," Luedtke said.

He said each of the three, in effect, had a different plan for applying revenue from the five-cent cigarette tax increase—to 13 cents a package — which took effect last year. Presently revenue is split between the proposed NU fieldhouse-coliseum and a proposed state office building.

In his budget message to the Legislature Monday, Exon proposed that the $7 million a year revenue from the added tax go into the general fund, that bond financing be used to build the fieldhouse, and that the state office building project be shelved until the fieldhouse has been paid for.

Luedtke said Sen. Carpenter's alternative would earmark one-third of the money for the fieldhouse, and one-third for the state office building, with the remaining one-third going into a capital construction sinking fund.

Luedtke's proposal would proceed with the fieldhouse project either via bond financing or earmarked accumulations, with the remainder to be spent in whatever priority order the Legislature might determine.

State Urged To Intervene In OPPD Power Plant Dispute

Sen. Terry Carpenter Tuesday requested the Legislature to direct the State of Nebraska to intervene in pending litigation involving the construction of the Omaha Public Power District (OPPD) nuclear power plant at Fort Calhoun.

The Scottsbluff legislator sponsored a resolution which would have the state intervene "in order that the public interest shall be fully protected."

The resolution was laid over.

The OPPD plant is being constructed by Peter Kiewit Sons' Co and a lawsuit over a payment to Kiewit is now pending in the Douglas County District Court.

Carpenter is chairman of a Legislative Council Study Committee on Public Power and the resolution said committee hearings have "disclosed apparent irregularities on the part of Peter Kiewit Sons' Co., one of the major contractors, in its claims against Omaha Public Power District for additional compensation . . ."

"On June 12, 1970, the board of directors of Omaha Public Power District attempted to pass a resolution which in effect would have amended its fixed price contract No. 759 to provide for payment to Peter Kiewit Sons' Co. on a cost plus basis of additional compensation of approximately $7 million, contrary to the laws of the State of Nebraska," the resolution said.

The Douglas County District Court has issued a temporary injunction to block the payment. Carpenter's resolution said.

"I want it understood this resolution is sponsored by me and not the committee," Carpenter said.

Bill Would Provide Citizens Pollution Complaint Process

Individual citizens would be provided a method of complaining about polluters under terms of a bill introduced in the Legislature Tuesday by Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha.

Proud's LB1247 would provide a method of petitioning the State Department of Environmental Protection.

Under terms of the bill, any citizen could petition the department about an alleged pollution source and the department would, within 10 days, either have to initiate corrective action or a refusal of the petition.

Upon receipt of such refusal, according to the bill, the citizen could then take the matter to district court.

Proud sponsored another bill, LB1251, which would limit the state's homestead exemption program only to persons 65 years old or older.

A similar bill has been introduced by Sen. Orval Keyes of Springfield.

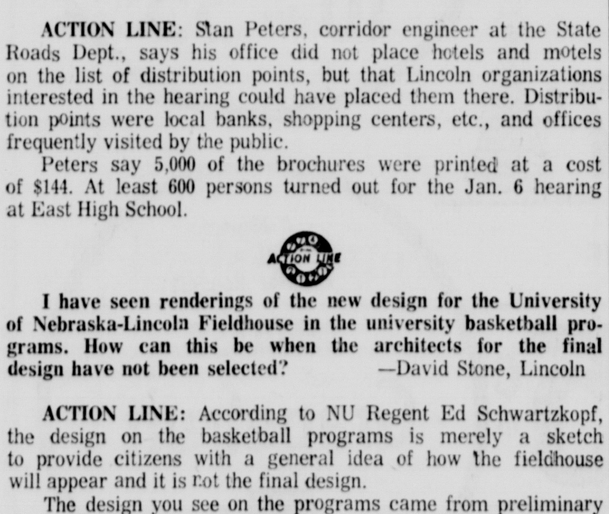
Guess what? The last session of the Nebraska Legislature recognized that 18-year-olds can play bingo. You stated in the column last Wednesday that only those at age 20 and above could play. —13-year-old Lincolnite

ACTION LINE: You are correct. According to a letter received by ACTION LINE from the State Tax Commissioner, LB314, which became effective Aug. 27, 1971, amended State Statute 9-108 and allows 18-year-olds to legally play bingo.

While there was no publicity at the time of passage of the bill, says the Tax Commissioner, all of the bingo licensees are aware of the change.

So, many others are bingo players and now you, too, can B-1.

How much are the Republicans to pay for renting the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Coliseum? How much are the Democrats paying to rent Pershing Auditorium? Can anyone rent these facilities? —Mrs. Frank Olson, Lincoln



ACTION LINE: The Nebraska Republican Party is to pay $2,000 for renting the UNL Coliseum. The necessary resolution was passed by the NU Board of Regents last Saturday. The decision on who rents the coliseum is made by the UNL athletic director and there is no legal restraint as to who can apply for rental privileges, according to a Regent's official.

The Democratic Party of Nebraska has contracted to pay $600 for rental of Lincoln's Pershing Municipal Auditorium, says manager Ike Hoig. Anyone with a legitimate function can rent the auditorium, he says.

In the Radisson Cornhusker Hotel, I picked up a brochure prepared by the State Roads Dept. on the corridor public hearing of the U.S. Hwy. 77 bypasses. This made me wonder why they were placed in a hotel where Lincoln citizens would not normally see them. Along with this, I also want to know the total number printed, cost and the distribution points.
—Taxpayer, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Stan Peters, corridor engineer at the State Roads Dept., says his office did not place hotels and motels on the list of distribution points, but that Lincoln organizations interested in the hearing could have placed them there. Distribution points were local banks, shopping centers, etc., and offices frequently visited by the public.

Peters say 5,000 of the brochures were printed at a cost of $144. At least 600 persons turned out for the Jan. 6 hearing at East High School.

I have seen renderings of the new design for the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Fieldhouse in the university basketball programs. How can this be when the architects for the final design have not been selected? —David Stone, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: According to NU Regent Ed Schwartzkopf, the design on the basketball programs is merely a sketch to provide citizens with a general idea of how the fieldhouse will appear and it is not the final design.

The design you see on the programs came from preliminary plans unveiled by UNL Athletic Director Robert Devaney July 22, 1971, and drawn by the architect firm of Davis and Clark Associates of Lincoln. A final decision on what architectural firm will be used has not been made by the State Building Commission.

I have read about two organizations that deal in adoptions and would like their addresses: Council on Adoptable Children and Adoption Resource Exchange of North America.
—Anne Gordon, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Write the Adoption Resource Exchange at the Child Welfare League of Americ, Inc., 44 East 23rd St., New York, N.Y. 10010; contact the other group at 1205 Olivia, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48104.

Locally, you might want to work through the Family Service Assn., Catholic Social Service Bureau, Lutheran Family Services or the State Division of Family and Children's Services. Adoption Resource Exchange of North America services are available to any public or licensed voluntary adoption agency, but not to private individuals.

Planetarium Slates Preview Of 1972 Activities Of Stars

A preview of the activities of the stars and planets throughout the coming year, entitled "Skywatch 72", will be the new show starting Saturday at Mueller Planetarium at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Sky shows in the Planetarium are given each Saturday afternoon at 2:45 and on Sunday afternoons at 2:30 and 3:45. Mueller Planetarium is located in the University of Nebraska State Museum at 14th and U.

Of particular interest this year will be two eclipses, one of the moon and another of the sun. The moon eclipse on Jan. 30 will be a total eclipse and may be observed over most of North America.

The eclipse starts at 2:02 a.m., lasting 5 hours and 44 minutes. The totality begins at 4:35 a.m. and ends at 5:12 a.m.

An eclipse of the moon is caused by the moon entering the earth's shadow. Because the moon will just barely make it into the shadow, this eclipse may produce an interesting "diamond-ring effect." As totality is complete, the moon will be lighted only by reflected light.

The eclipse of the sun will be on July 10.

Legislature Rejects Request For Lid On State Spending

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Tuesday rejected Gov. J. James Exon's suggestion that it join him in a pledge not to take any action this session which would increase sales and income tax rates

The issue was presented to senators in the form of Resolution 13, authored by Sens. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff and Eugene Mahoney and William Skarda, both of Omaha.

After a brief discussion, Sen Ernest Chambers of Omaha moved to kill the proposal It died on a 29-15 count.

Acceptance Urged

Exon had urged lawmakers to adopt the resolution when he appeared before the Legislature Monday to present a budget tailored within the confines of current sales and income tax rates

But a number of senators argued Tuesday that the Unicameral should not tie its hands in advance on such issues as personal property tax exemptions and increased state aid to the public schools

Substantial funding for either project could increase sales-income tax rates

'Not The Spenders'

"We're not the spenders," Sen Herb Nore of Genoa suggested

The Appropriations Committee's operational budget recommendations will be below those offered by the governor, he predicted.

LR13 is sly politics," Nore said

State government is more stingy than thrifty, Chambers said

'Basically Regressive'

But a graduated income tax system is needed to equitably finance state spending, he suggested The present taxing method is "basically regressive" Chambers said

"We shouldn't set the budget by resolution," Sen. John Savage of Omaha contended. "We should set it by need."

Sen Roland Luedtke of Lincoln said the resolution was "politically inspired and intended to box in the Legislature"

It may sound like "beautiful music" to the taxpayers, Luedtke said, but "it offers precious little leadership either from the governor's office or the Legislature"

Sen Jerome Warner of Waverly said approval of LR13 would represent endorsement of an "inequitable" property tax structure

Reduction Try Planned

Carpenter said he will attempt to reduce both the governor's budget and the recommendations yet to come from the Appropriations Committee

But, he said, he will favor implementation of personal property tax exemptions for farm and business equipment and inventories, and he considers Exon's recommendations in that field to be "not sufficient"

Carpenter invited the governor to hold tax rates at their current levels by pursuing a policy of "veto, veto, veto."

Here is the vote on the Chambers motion to kill LR13:

For: Barnett, Burbach, Carsten, Chambers, Craft, Elrod, Epke, Hasebroock, Holmquist, Johnson, Keyes, Kremer, Lewis, Luedtke, Maresh, Nore, Proud, Savage, Schmit, Simpson, Snyder, Stahmer, Stromer, Stull, Swanson, Waldo, Waldron, Warner, Ziebarth.

Against: Carpenter, Clark, DeCamp, Duis, Goodrich, Kennedy, Klaver, Kokes, Mahoney, Marvel, Morgan, Moylan, Pfister, Skarda, Syas.

Not Voting: Carstens, Kime Orme, Whitney, Wiltse.

Bill To Solve Title I Dispute Overwhelmingly Advanced

In an overwhelming 36 to 0 vote the Nebraska Unicameral advanced a constitutional amendment Tuesday to allow the state to distribute federal Title I funds for handicapped children to parochial schools

The bill is intended to resolve Title I disputes such as the one between Lincoln public school superintendent John Prasch and Catholic school superintendent Fr James Dawson. Dawson has maintained that the eligible children enrolled in Catholic schools were not receiving their fair share.

Meanwhile, the attorney general and Prasch held that under Nebraska's rigid church-state separation such funding was not permissable

Currently, since the roughly $8 million federal funds come into the state's treasury before disbursement, they are considered to fall under the prohibition

The bill, LB656 was moved from general file to enrollment and review for legal polishing before the senators can agree finally to put the issue on the ballot

As it now stands, the bill, if it gets the needed 40 votes, would go before the voters in the May primary election. Originally, the bill would have gone on the November general election ballot. However, Lincoln Sen. Wally Barnett moved to have the bill changed to the primary "so the voters can decide on this matter without the passage of another school year."

Sponsoring Sen Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff emphasized to the legislators that the constitutional amendment would in no way alter the distribution of state funds.

"Our constitution is so strict" Carpenter said, "that these federal funds cannot go where they were intended

"It is only hurting our own economy. I can see no reason why you people would not want to put this on the ballot."

Barnett backed Carpenter's motion saying "For the past several years the superintendents of the parochial and public schools have been fighting over this matter The issue must be settled by the voters It's very important that we get it on the ballot"

TRAILER PARK NEEDED . . .

Priorities Listed For Fairground

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

The Nebraska State Fair Executive Board has established a list of priorities for changes at the fairgrounds in the event that the money becomes available to construct a new University of Nebraska field house.

The first project to be completed will be a new 150-lot trailer park for use during the fair and the horse racing season. Construction will also include a new vehicle bridge across Antelope Creek and a new pedestrian bridge across Salt Creek to permit people at the campgrounds to reach the fairgrounds.

The second project will be demolition of the present hog barn and campgrounds, which must be done before the new field house can be built on the hog barn site. No firm decision has been made on where the new hog barn will be built. Several board members objected to locating it near the dairy and FFA barns because of odor problems.

The third project listed by the board is a hard-surfaced parking area for approximately 5,000 cars, to be used by fairgoers, the University and persons attending athletic events held at the field house.

Total cost of the program would be paid out of the state cigaret tax, which also funds the new field house.

The fairgrounds improvements would add $2.5 million to the projected cost of $12 million for the field house, or a total of $14.5 million for the joint project.

The cost figure includes lights, sidewalks and storm sewers deemed necessary to complete the 30-acre parking lot, as well as all costs related to the changes.

Board members also reviewed plans, made in 1967, for remodelig the grandstand. The 1967 board was authorized to issue bonds for the project but decided not to undertake it.

"We are approaching the time when we must do something," said Board President Don Thompson. "The amount of profit from the racing season is dropping. The public is demanding an improved facility. We would much rather build a new building and track, but we want to refresh our memories on these plans."

The remodeling project, which carried an estimate of $709,000 in 1967, would cost more than $1 million now, according to Fair Manager Henry Brandt. He said a new track and grandstand might cost $4 million.

FATALITY SCENE . . . wrecker tows away part of camper in which Mrs. Emond was killed when it was struck by van.

Woman Dies In I-80 Crash At Lexington

Lexington (AP) — Cynthia R. Emond, 20, Cleveland, Ohio, was killed and her 2-year-old son, Jean Paul, injured in the collision of a moving van and a camper on Interstate 80 about two miles west of the Lexington interchange Tuesday, Dawson County Atty. Willard Weinhold said.

Weinhold said the westbound moving van, driven by James W. Pokojski of Orchard Park, N.Y., struck the camper while it was parked at the side of the highway. Pokojski escaped injury.

Mrs. Emond's husband, Gary, was thrown clear of the accident and escaped apparent injury, Weinhold said.

Weinhold said the boy was hospitalized here for treatment of lacerations. He said he was not seriously injured.

Federal Highway Fund Use Said Extremely Successful

Democratic state chairman Hess Dyas Tuesday commented on earlier statements by Republican state chairman Milan Bish concerning Nebraska's use of federal highway funds.

Dyas called Bish's statement "obviously a desperate attempt to criticize an extremely successful and popular Democratic state administration."

He said the department of roads under state engineer Thomas Doyle has shown a far greater ability to produce than under the former Republican administration.

For example, Dyas said, for the first two quarters of fiscal 1971 (July 1 until Dec. 31, 1970), when Republicans were in office, $12.4 million in federal funds were obligated. For the same quarters of fiscal 1972, the present administration has obligated $14 million in federal funds for highways, he said.

Dyas said during these same six-month periods, the present administration awarded contracts totaling $29.9 million compared to $21.2 million for the Republican administration.

He said regarding Interstate construction, "Nebraska continues not only to be far out in front of the national average, but during the present administration has accelerated that lead:

—"as of June 30, 1971, Nebraska had spent 60.4% of the estimated completion cost of the Interstate system. The national average was 42.6%;

—"as of Sept. 30, 1971, Nebraska had spent 73.3% of the estimated completion costs. The national average was 49.6%. Only North Dakota, of the surrounding states, surpassed Nebraska's average with 62% in June and 73.9% in September;

—"as of June 30, 1971, Nebraska had all but 19.3% of its authorized Interstate completed to full standards. The national average was 36.8%.

—"as of Sept. 30, 1971, Nebraska had all but 18.7%. The national average was 35.9%. Only Wyoming, of the surrounding states, surpassed our average with 17.2% to complete for both dates."

Dyas said, "Included in the Republican shotgun attack was criticism of state engineer Doyle's hiring practices, in one case a 24-year-old former student. I salute the efforts of the Exon administration to bring qualified young people into state government."

Philip F. Werner

Contractors Tab Werner President

Philip F. Werner of Hastings was elected Tuesday as 1972 president of the Nebraska Highway-Heavy chapter of Associated General Contractors of America.

Werner, who succeeds James Gerhold of Columbus, was named by the board of directors during the state group's 45th annual convention in Lincoln.

Elected vice presidents were James Baldwin of Grand Island, Arthur Dobson of Lincoln and Ed Miller Jr. of Omaha.

D. James Costins of Lincoln was re-elected treasurer and James Critchfield was re-appointed executive director.

State Engineer Thomas Doyle is scheduled to address a Wednesday luncheon meeting of the convention.

Forest To Be Dedicated In Honor Of McKelvie

By Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Nenzel — The Nebraska National Forest division near here will be dedicated in honor of the late Gov. Samuel R. McKelvie in a ceremony sometime in April, according to the National Forest Service.

The national forest division, formerly known as the Niobrara Division, was renamed the Samuel R. McKelvie Division by act of Congress last October in honor of Nebraska's 19th governor.

McKelvie, a rancher born in Clay County and a later resident of Lincoln and Valentine, was a Republican governor from 1919 to 1923. During his terms the new state capitol was built in Lincoln and the first state park was established in Chadron. McKelvie pushed for the establishment of a game and forest station commission and initiated the gubernatorial practice of submitting an annual budget to the Unicameral.

He died in 1956 at the age of 74.

The legislation changing the name of the Niobrara Division was introduced by 3rd District Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb. Martin originally proposed that the entire Nebraska National Forest (consisting of divisions at Chadron, Nenzel and Halsey) be changed to the Samuel R. McKelvie National Forest. However, opposition from private citizens in Halsey and Thedford prompted the amendment to rename only one division.

The Forest Service is completing work on the new 23-unit Steer Creek campground in the forested area of the McKelvie division, and hopes to have it ready for opening in conjunction with the dedication, according to Bessey district ranger Laverne Schultz.

Murder Warrant Filed Against John Johnson

Omaha (AP) — A second-degree murder warrant has been filed against a man sought in connection with the fatal shooting of another man Tuesday.

Deputy County Atty. Sam Cooper said.

Charged on the warrant is John Lee Johnson, 24, no known address, Cooper said. He is accused of shooting Willie James Johnson, 32, of Omaha, in the victim's home, police said.

Police said it is not known whether the two men are related, but a witness said they may have been cousins.

Cooper said a warrant charging Bertha Hastings, also known as Bertha Springer, 28, Omaha, with being an accessory after the fact also has been filed. Police said witnesses told them she left the victim's home with the suspect after the shooting.

Board Election Planned By Big Blue Basin Group

Seward (UPI) — Residents of the Big Blue River Basin will meet at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 20 to elect a board of directors for the newly-formed Big Blue Basin Citizens for Water Management.

Lowell Rochester, manager of the Crete Chamber of Commerce and temporary chairman of the group, said the meeting will primarily be informational.

Jim Childe of Vision-17 Inc., will host the meeting at the Seward Civic Center. Child said the Vision-17 advisory board will attend to discuss the new organization's purpose and structure, review pending legislation, and discuss areas of concern and possible solutions.

University of Nebraska Agricultural Extension Division figures show more than $2.5 million in flood damage occurs annually in the basin.

Rochester also said although there are three million acres of tillage land in the basin of which 1.5 million is suitable for irrigation, only 740,000 acres are presently being irrigated.

The group was formed following a survey of residents who had attended a series of meetings held with the Bureau of Reclamation and the U.S. Corps of Engineers.

Of those who responded to the survey, 77% indicated they felt an organization was needed through which public views on water management in the basin could be expressed.

Cigarette Tax Increase Brings In $5 Million

By United Press International

State Tax Commissioner William Peters said the nickel a pack cigaret tax hike approved by the Unicameral last year has so far yielded $5,022,647.

The hike was approved as a means of funding three building projects — a recreation building at the Beatrice State Home, a University of Nebraska field house and a state office building.

The tax commissioner reported the $695,000 for the Beatrice facility has already been turned over, thus leaving a balance of $4,327,647 in the fund for the other two projects.

It had been estimated that by the end of the next fiscal year, the hike will have yielded some $16 million. The commissioner agreed with that estimate.

Gov. J. J. Exon, however, asked the Legislature Monday to rechannel the revenue from the hike into the general fund and finance the field house under a lease-purchase agreement.

He requested that the office building be held off at least 5½ years until the fieldhouse has been paid for.

The tax hike, Peters noted, has been collected from Nebraska smokers since April 28, 1971.

Kansas Legislator Proposes The Merger Of Four States

Topeka, Kan. (AP) — Creation of a commission to study the possible merger of the states of Oklahoma, Nebraska, Colorado and Kansas was proposed Tuesday in a bill introduced in the Kansas Legislature.

The bill was one of nearly 50 introduced during the opening session of the Kansas House.

Rep. Fred Linde, R-Wichita, author of the measure, said the four states have similar geographical size, populations and economies, share their water resources and form a natural unit.

He said the residents of the four states have similar backgrounds, customs, attitudes and traditions and think in regional rather than state terms.

"The costs of all governments are high and a growing burden upon all people," Linde said. "Economies are slight and the cost of maintaining four separate governors, four separate administrations, four separate court systems, four separate legislatures and houses of separate agencies in the four states is repsonsible for much extra expense."

Linde proposed a Kansas Commission on State Mergers be created by the appointment of one member each by the governor, the chief justice of the Kansas Supreme Court, each U.S. senator, and the senior member of the state's delegation to the U.S. House of Representatives.

2 Long-Time Omaha Firms Halt All Or Part Of Operation

Omaha (AP) — Two long-time Omaha firms announced Tuesday that they plan to halt all or parts of their operations soon.

The companies are Aulabaugh Furs, Inc., which has been in Omaha since 1890, and the John Deere Co., which has had Omaha offices since 1899.

Mrs. G. N. Aulabaugh, principal owner of the firm company, said the operation will close by the end of January.

Willard D. Hosford Jr., vice president and general manager of the John Deere Co. offices, said the administrative sales functions of the company will be transferred to three other cities over the next several months. Locally, this part of the company will be closed about June 1, he said.

Hosford said about 64 persons from a work force of 185 persons will be laid off. Of the total work force, about 68 will be transferred and 13 are expected to return. About 40 employes will remain in the firm's parts depot and whole goods distribution operations in Omaha.

Hosford said the administrative sales operations are being transferred to sales branches in Kansas City, Minneapolis and East Moline, Ill.

Court Okays Base Pay Plan For Teachers

By Associated Press

The $6,600 base pay offered teachers by the Falls City School District for this year has been approved by the Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations, court records showed Tuesday.

The Falls City Education Assn., which had sought a $6,700 base, appealed to the court after an impasse developed in negotiations.

The court held that the offered wage was "comparable to the prevalent wage rates paid by other comparable school districts," including Auburn, Syracuse, Crete, Fairbury, Plattsmouth and Nebraska City.

The court also approved increments of 4% for experience and hours of college credit, Blue Cross Blue Shield coverage at $11.60 per month per teacher, disability insurance at $6 per month per teacher, and 15c per mile for school travel.

Teachers had sought full premium payment on both health and income protection and 5% increments above base pay.

School System Appeals Teacher Salary Ruling

The Nebraska Supreme Court was told Tuesday the State Court of Industrial Relations has overstepped its bounds in its decisions on teacher salary cases.

The statement was made in a brief filed with the high court by the Fremont School System, asking that it be allowed to become a part of an appeal involving another school system.

That case centers on a suit filed by the Seward Education Association, representing the teachers, against its respective board of education.

The Fremont district told the supreme court a decision in the Seward case would have an effect on an action which it is involved in now being considered by the industrial court.

In the Seward case, the industrial court ruled the district must pay salaries developed from evidence presented during trial.

The Fremont district contended a decision by the high court to uphold that ruling would "establish the right of that (industrial) court to regulate teachers' salaries and conditions of employment."

That kind of power, the Fremont district said, is "inconceivable," the district said, and far beyond the powers given to the court by the Legislature.

"The court of Industrial Relations has exceeded both its constitutional and legislative authority in attempting to establish rates of pay and conditions of employment of teachers and its advice should be reversed," the district said.

Survey Claims Drug Abuse Low In Nebraska City

Nebraska City (AP) — According to a survey done by a University of Nebraska-Lincoln English professor, drug abuse among students in the Nebraska City public schools system is very low.

David Hibler told the board of education that generally speaking, students have an unsympathetic attitude toward drugs and that rumor and speculation far exceeds actual usage.

Hibler said he will present the survey Tuesday to the Nebraska Legislature's subcommittee on drugs and propose that his guideline be used across the state in creating other surveys.

Hibler said the survey could fall in line with a bill passed by the 1971 legislature requiring Nebraska schools to administer some type of drug information program.

Sen. John De Camp of Neligh has promised support for the proposal, Hibler said.

Solons Advance Bill To End Student Fee For NU Papers

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Unicameral Tuesday gave first round approval to a bill to cut out compulsory student fee support of the student newspapers at the University of Nebraska's Lincoln and Omaha campuses.

The measure passed 27 to 18 after an attempt by Neligh Sen. John DeCamp to indefinitely postpone LB70 went down in a 21 to 27 defeat.

DeCamp and his cohorts claimed the move to ax student funds from under UNL's "Daily Nebraskan" and UNO's "Gateway" would financially suffocate the two papers out of existence.

That portion of LB70 reads: "The University cash fund shall not be used to pay the expenses of editing, printing or distributing of a University newspaper."

Estimates are that student activity fees for the support of the "Daily Nebraskan" amounted for fall semester of 1971 to $26,250 — or $1.25 per student per semester. This accounts for roughly one-half of the paper's income.

As it stands now, the bill would force the student papers to rely on subscriptions, street sales and advertising for revenue sources.

The bill passed in its original form after an amendment to the bill led to considerable confusion on the part of sponsor Terry Carpenter.

The amendment forwarded by Carpenter would have stipulated an advisor be named to supervise the publication of the newspapers. The amendment passed unanimously.

However, after passage Carpenter learned that the amendment struck out the clause pulling out student fee support for the papers. The veteran Scottsbluff lawmaker then moved the amendment be repealed and the bill accepted in its original form.

Reacting to Carpenter's maneuvers, Omaha Sen. Ernie Chambers called the measure "childish" and "beneath this Legislature's dignity."

"This is an attempt to crush opposing views," Chambers said.

Two former newsmen now serving as senators, however, disagreed on whether to cut off the funds or not.

Omaha Sen. Duke Snyder termed the two papers "not good examples of journalism."

"I don't think you'll find that those people who have taken over the campus paers will find jobs in journalism after they graduate. They're not good journalists — they've taken over by default," Snyder said.

DeCamp, also an ex-newsman, disagreed with Snyder's evaluation saying, "I myself don't agree with the student papers most of the time. But just because you don't agree doesn't mean they shouldn't exist. This bill will widen the gulf which exists between the young people and this Legislature."

Swanson Wants Law Prohibiting Ticket Scalping

Lincoln Sen. William F. Swanson introduced a bill in the Nebraska Legislature Tuesday designed to prohibit the "scalping" of tickets to public entertainment events.

Swanson introduced the bill, LB1244, noting tickets, especially to sporting events, have demanded premium prices during the last few years.

The measure would require that no ticket could be sold for more than the price printed on its face.

Violation of the pricing measure would result in a fine of up to $1,000 and-or a jail term of up to one year.

Last year, Swanson was one of the lawmakers who asked if some controls could be imposed on ticket prices, primarily tickets to University of Nebraska football games.

2 Natural Resource District Measures Advance

By The Associated Press

The Legislature Tuesday gave first round approval to a pair of measures which would make major alterations in the state's Natural Resource District (NRD) program adopted by the 1969 Legislature.

Advanced Tuesday from general file were LB542 and LB543, two of the five bills facing the current session which deal with the NRD program.

The other three bills all received first round approval Monday.

LB542 as written and amended Tuesday would replace the current State Soil and Water Conservation Commission with a natural resources board to implement the NRD program and would provide a three-year, two-stage phaseout of the current commission.

Beginning next January, the 14-member commission would give way to the Natural Resources Board, composed of virtually the same members as now form the State Soil and Water Conservation Commission.

However, in 1975, the board would be enlarged to 15 members, including a dozen representatives for the state's 13 river basins.

Tuesday's action was taken amid some confusion among legislators as to the effect of the bills, and Sens. Jules Burbach of Crofton, the sponsor of LB542 and LB543, and Maurice Kremer of Aurora, one of the major backers of the NRD program, spent much legislative time explaining provisions of the measures.

Before LB543 was advanced, Kremer won 28-13 approval to amend the measure to provide for mandatory transfer of duties from the local soil and water conservancy districts to the NRD's.

Exon, Two Senators Discuss Cigarette Tax Use

Nebraska's cigarette tax and its relation to the University of Nebraska fieldhouse project was the subject of a conference Tuesday among J. James Exon and two state senators who have had leadership roles in the legislation.

Sens. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln and Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff traded views with Exon, and Luedtke said he was "pleased with our session."

"I think we are on the road to developing something," Luedtke said.

He said each of the three, in effect, had a different plan for applying revenue from the five-cent cigarette tax increase—to 13 cents a package — which took effect last year. Presently revenue is split between the proposed NU fieldhouse-coliseum and a proposed state office building.

In his budget message to the Legislature Monday, Exon proposed that the $7 million a year revenue from the added tax go into the general fund, that bond financing be used to build the fieldhouse, and that the state office building project be shelved until the fieldhouse has been paid for.

Luedtke said Sen. Carpenter's alternative would earmark one-third of the money for the fieldhouse, and one-third for the state office building, with the remaining one-third going into a capital construction sinking fund.

Luedtke's proposal would proceed with the fieldhouse project either via bond financing or earmarked accumulations, with the remainder to be spent in whatever priority order the Legislature might determine.

State Urged To Intervene In OPPD Power Plant Dispute

Sen. Terry Carpenter Tuesday requested the Legislature to direct the State of Nebraska to intervene in pending litigation involving the construction of the Omaha Public Power District (OPPD) nuclear power plant at Fort Calhoun.

The Scottsbluff legislator sponsored a resolution which would have the state intervene "in order that the public interest shall be fully protected."

The resolution was laid over.

The OPPD plant is being constructed by Peter Kiewit Sons' Co. and a lawsuit over a payment to Kiewit is now pending in the Douglas County District Court.

Carpenter is chairman of a Legislative Council Study Committee on Public Power and the resolution said committee hearings have "disclosed apparent irregularities on the part of Peter Kiewit Sons' Co., one of the major contractors, in its claims against Omaha Public Power District for additional compensation . . ."

"On June 12, 1970, the board of directors of Omaha Public Power District attempted to pass a resolution which in effect would have amended its fixed price contract No. 759 to provide for payment to Peter Kiewit Sons' Co. on a cost plus basis of additional compensation of approximately $7 million, contrary to the laws of the State of Nebraska," the resolution said.

The Douglas County District Court has issued a temporary injunction to block the payment, Carpenter's resolution said.

"I want it understood this resolution is sponsored by me and not the committee," Carpenter said.

Bill Would Provide Citizens Pollution Complaint Process

Individual citizens would be provided a method of complaining about polluters under terms of a bill introduced in the Legislature Tuesday by Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha.

Proud's LB1247 would provide a method of petitioning the State Department of Environmental Protection.

Under terms of the bill, any citizen could petition the department about an alleged pollution source and the department would, within 10 days, either have to initiate corrective action or a refusal of the petition.

Upon receipt of such refusal, according to the bill, the citizen could then take the matter to district court.

Proud sponsored another bill, LB1251, which would limit the state's homestead exemption program only to persons 65 years old or older.

A similar bill has been introduced by Sen. Orval Keyes of Springfield.

Waldron Offers Property Tax Relief Proposal

By United Press International

Sen. J James Waldron of Callaway Tuesday handed the Legislature his version of the property tax relief question saying it would cost an estimated $30 million

The Waldron bill, LB1241, would completely exempt from taxation at the local level all livestock and grain.

And to take care of the loss in revenue at the local level, he introduced a companion measure, LB1240, to set up a tax replacement fund

That fund would be allocated $15 million from state tax sources with the money to be distributed under a formula calling for 70% to local schools and the remainder in county and city state aid.

The rest of the Waldron relief plan would allow up to a $300 income tax credit for farm and business equipment and inventory taxed under the property system

The bill would require the local government to continue to tax equipment and inventory with the state actually providing for the exemption through the credit system.

Waldron estimated that the credit portion of his plan, which would go into effect July 1, 1973, would cost about $15 million in sales and income tax revenue.

The measure would also provide for a cash refund from the state should the exemption credit be more than the person's income tax liability.

The credit portion is similar to the system envisioned in Gov. J. J. Exon's plan to ultimately exempt 50% of equipment and inventory.

However, the governor's plan would not become fully operative at the 50% exemption level, which also includes $1,000 ceiling for an estimated seven years.

The Waldron plan would go into full force on the effective date if adopted by the Legislature and the governor.

Unicam Rejects Four-Day Week

The Nebraska Legislature Tuesday turned down a proposal offered by Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter to limit the Unicameral to a four-day work week with 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. hours.

However, many senators bjected noting that such a measure could add three additional weeks to the Legislature's time in session The measure went down in an 18 to 28 vote

Studded Tire Tax Proposal Offered

Sen John Savage of Omaha asked the Legislature Tuesday to impose a $3 tax on each studded snow tire sold in the state.

The bill, LB1236, was one of 18 bills introduced during the morning session of the Unicameral.

Under its terms, each studded tire sold in the state would be taxed $3 with the revenue going into a special fund. In turn, the fund would pay for the "repair of damages caused by the use" of the tires, the bill states.

DeCamp Proposed Licensing Hitchhikers

A bill to license hitchhikers was introduced in Nebraska's Legislature Tuesday.

Sponsoring Sen. John W. DeCamp of Neligh said the measure recognizes that hitchhiking, as a mode of transportation, has become "a fact of life" in the United States.

"It's almost as popular here as it is in Europe, particularly among young people," he said. "Anyway present laws against hitchhiking are not being enforced."

Under the bill, a would-be hitchhiker could obtain a $1.50 permit good for one year, issued by the Department of Motor Vehicles through county treasurers and state patrolmen.

DeCamp estimated the permits could yield from $150,000 to $250,000 a year in revenue.

"There was a time 10 or 15 years ago when most hitchhikers were bums," he said. "That's not true anymore.

"The bill would do three things. It would recognize hitchhiking as an accepted mode of transportation. It would yield revenue for the state, and it would provide a law enforcement tool by enabling lawmen to check any hitchhiker by asking to see his permit."

A Stamp Collector? Then pictures and news of new and old Stamps in the "Sunday Journal and Star's "Stamp News" column is a must DeCamp said he plans an amendment on the bill under which a trooper could issue a permit on the spot to a hitchhiker from outside Nebraska who is stopped inside Nebraska.

TRAILER PARK NEEDED . . .

Priorities Listed For Fairground

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

The Nebraska State Fair Executive Board has established a list of priorities for changes at the fairgrounds in the event that the money becomes available to construct a new University of Nebraska field house.

The first project to be completed will be a new 150-lot trailer park for use during the fair and the horse racing season. Construction will also include a new vehicle bridge across Antelope Creek and a new pedestrian bridge across Salt Creek to permit people at the campgrounds to reach the fairgrounds.

The second project will be demolition of the present hog barn and campgrounds, which must be done before the new field house can be built on the hog barn site. No firm decision has been made on where the new hog barn will be built. Several board members objected to locating it near the dairy and FFA barns because of odor problems.

The third project listed by the board is a hard-surfaced parking area for approximately 4,000 cars, to be used by fairgoers, the University and persons attending athletic events held at the field house.

Total cost of the program would be paid out of the state cigaret tax, which also funds the new field house.

The fairgrounds improvements would add $2.5 million to the projected cost of $12 million for the field house, or a total of $14.5 million for the joint project.

The cost figure includes lights, sidewalks and storm sewers deemed necessary to complete the 30-acre parking lot, as well as all costs related to the changes.

Board members also reviewed plans, made in 1967, for remodelig the grandstand. The 1967 board was authorized to issue bonds for the project but decided not to undertake it.

"We are approaching the time when we must do something," said Board President Don Thompson. "The amount of profit from the racing season is dropping. The public is demanding an improved facility. We would much rather build a new building and track, but we want to refresh our memories on these plans."

The remodeling project, which carried an estimate of $700,000 in 1967, would cost more than $1 million now, according to Fair Manager Henry Brandt. He said a new track and grandstand might cost $4 million.

FATALITY SCENE . . . wrecker tows away part of camper in which Mrs. Emond was killed when it was struck by van.

Woman Dies In I-80 Crash At Lexington

Lexington (AP) — Cynthia R. Emond, 20, Cleveland, Ohio, was killed and her 2-year-old son, Jean Paul, injured in the collision of a moving van and a camper on Interstate 80 about two miles west of the Lexington interchange Tuesday, Dawson County Atty. Willard Weinhold said.

Weinhold said the westbound moving van, driven by James W. Pokojski of Orchard Park, N.Y., struck the camper while it was parked at the side of the highway. Pokojski escaped injury.

Mrs. Emond's husband, Gary, was thrown clear of the accident and escaped apparent injury, Weinhold said.

Weinhold said the boy was hospitalized here for treatment of lacerations. He said he was not seriously injured.

Federal Highway Fund Use Said Extremely Successful

Democratic state chairman Hess Dyas Tuesday commented on earlier statements by Republican state chairman Milan Bish concerning Nebraska's use of federal highway funds.

Dyas called Bish's statement "obviously a desperate attempt to criticize an extremely successful and popular Democratic state administration."

He said the department of roads under state engineer Thomas Doyle has shown a far greater ability to produce than under the former Republican administration.

For example, Dyas said, for the first two quarters of fiscal 1971 (July 1 until Dec. 31, 1970), when Republicans were in office, $12.4 million in federal funds were obligated. For the same quarters of fiscal 1972, the present administration has obligated $14 million in federal funds for highways, he said.

Dyas said during these same six-month periods, the present administration awarded contracts totaling $29.9 million compared to $21.2 million for the Republican administration.

He said regarding Interstate construction, "Nebraska continues not only to be far out in front of the national average, but during the present administration has accelerated that lead:

—"as of June 30, 1971, Nebraska had spent 60.4% of the estimated completion cost of the Interstate system. The national average was 42.6%;

—"as of Sept. 30, 1971, Nebraska had spent 73.3% of the estimated completion costs. The national average was 49.6%. Only North Dakota, of the surrounding states, surpassed Nebraska's average with 62% in June and 73.9% in September;

—"as of June 30, 1971, Nebraska had all but 19.3% of its authorized Interstate completed to full standards. The national average was 36.8%.

—"as of Sept. 30, 1971, Nebraska had all but 18.7%. The national average was 35.9%. Only Wyoming, of the surrounding states, surpassed our average with 17.2% to complete for both dates."

Dyas said, "Included in the Republican shotgun attack was criticism of state engineer Doyle's hiring practices, in one case a 24-year-old former student. I salute the efforts of the Exon administration to bring qualified young people into state government."

Philip F. Werner

Contractors Tab Werner President

Philip F. Werner of Hastings was elected Tuesday as 1972 president of the Nebraska Highway-Heavy chapter of Associated General Contractors of America.

Werner, who succeeds James Gerhold of Columbus, was named by the board of directors during the state group's 45th annual convention in Lincoln.

Elected vice presidents were James Baldwin of Grand Island, Arthur Dobson of Lincoln and Ed Miller Jr. of Omaha.

D. James Costins of Lincoln was re-elected treasurer and James Critchfield was re-appointed executive director.

State Engineer Thomas Doyle is scheduled to address a Wednesday luncheon meeting of the convention.

Forest To Be Dedicated In Honor Of McKelvie

By Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Nenzel — The Nebraska National Forest division near here will be dedicated in honor of the late Gov. Samuel R. McKelvie in a ceremony sometime in April, according to the National Forest Service.

The national forest division, formerly known as the Niobrara Division, was renamed the Samuel R. McKelvie Division by act of Congress last October in honor of Nebraska's 19th governor.

McKelvie, a rancher born in Clay County and a later resident of Lincoln and Valentine, was a Republican governor from 1919 to 1923. During his terms the new state capitol was built in Lincoln and the first state park was established in Chadron. McKelvie pushed for the establishment of a game and foreststation commission and initiated the gubernatorial practice of submitting an annual budget to the Unicameral.

He died in 1956 at the age of 74.

The legislation changing the name of the Niobrara Division was introduced by 3rd District Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb. Martin originally proposed that the entire Nebraska National Forest (consisting of divisions at Chadron, Nenzel and Halsey) be changed to the Samuel R. McKelvie National Forest. However, opposition from private citizens in Halsey and Thedford prompted the amendment to rename only one division.

The Forest Service is completing work on the new 23-unit Steer Creek campground in the forested area of the McKelvie division, and hopes to have it ready for opening in conjunction with the dedication, according to Bessey district ranger Laverne Schultz.

Murder Warrant Filed Against John Johnson

Omaha (AP) — A second-degree murder warrant has been filed against a man sought in connection with the fatal shooting of another man Tuesday, Deputy County Atty. Sam Cooper said.

Charged on the warrant is John Lee Johnson, 24, no known address, Cooper said. He is accused of shooting Willie James Johnson, 32, of Omaha, in the victim's home, police said.

Police said it is not known whether the two men are related, but a witness said they may have been cousins.

Cooper said a warrant charging Bertha Hastings, also known as Bertha Springer, 28, Omaha, with being an accessory after the fact also has been filed. Police said witnesses told them she left the victim's home with the suspect after the shooting.

T. Schlesinger Tells Resignation

New York (AP) — Theodore Schlesinger, chairman of Allied Stores Corp., Tuesday announced his resignation as chief executive officer and board chairman of the company.

Thomas M. Macioce, Allied's president, was elected to replace Schlesinger as chief executive officer.

Board Election Planned By Big Blue Basin Group

Seward (UPI) — Residents of the Big Blue River Basin will meet at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 20 to elect a board of directors for the newly-formed Big Blue Basin Citizens for Water Management.

Lowell Rochester, manager of the Crete Chamber of Commerce and temporary chairman of the group, said the meeting will primarily be informational.

Jim Childe of Vision-17 Inc., will host the meeting at the Seward Civic Center. Child said the Vision-17 advisory board will attend to discuss the new organization's purpose and structure, review pending legislation, and discuss areas of concern and possible solutions.

University of Nebraska Agricultural Extension Division figures show more than $2.5 million in flood damage occurs annually in the basin.

Rochester also said although there are three million acres of tillage land in the basin of which 1.5 million is suitable for irrigation, only 740,000 acres are presently being irrigated.

The group was formed following a survey of residents who had attended a series of meetings held with the Bureau of Reclamation and the U.S. Corps of Engineers.

Of those who responded to the survey, 77% indicated they felt an organization was needed through which public views on water management in the basin could be expressed.

Creighton Cites Msgr. C. Hayden

Omaha (UPI) — The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Carl T. Hayden, of Grand Island, received an honorary alumnus citation from Creighton University.

Msgr. Hayden, vice chancellor of the Grand Island Catholic Diocese, received the award at the annual "priests' dinner" at Creighton. He was praised for inspiring vocations to the priesthood.

The Monsignor is also editor of the Grand Island Diocesan newspaper and has taught at Grand Island Central Catholic High School.

About 200 priests from the Omaha archdiocese, and the Lincoln, Grand Island, Sioux City, Iowa, and Sioux Falls, South Dakota, dioceses attended the dinner.

The agenda includes discussion of proposed legislation to provide for creation of a cancer advisory council.

School System Appeals Teacher Salary Ruling

The Nebraska Supreme Court was told Tuesday the State Court of Industrial Relations has overstepped its bounds in its decisions on teacher salary cases.

The statement was made in a brief filed with the high court by the Fremont School System, asking that it be allowed to become a part of an appeal involving another school system.

That case centers on a suit filed by the Seward Education Association, representing the teachers, against its respective board of education.

The Fremont district told the supreme court a decision in the Seward case would have an effect on an action which it is involved in now being considered by the industrial court.

In the Seward case, the industrial court ruled the district must pay salaries developed from evidence presented during trial.

The Fremont district contended a decision by the high court to uphold that ruling would "establish the right of that (industrial) court to regulate teachers' salaries and conditions of employment."

That kind of power, the Fremont district said, is "inconceivable," the district said, and far beyond the powers given to the court by the Legislature.

"The court of Industrial Relations has exceeded both its constitutional and legislative authority in attempting to establish rates of pay and conditions of employment of teachers and its advice should be reversed," the district said.

Survey Claims Drug Abuse Low In Nebraska City

Nebraska City (AP) — According to a survey done by a University of Nebraska-Lincoln English professor, drug abuse among students in the Nebraska City public schools system is very low.

David Hibler told the board of education that generally speaking, students have an unsympathetic attitude toward drugs and that rumor and speculation far exceeds actual usage.

Hibler said he will present the survey Tuesday to the Nebraska Legislature's subcommittee on drugs and propose that his guideline be used across the state in creating other surveys.

Hibler said the survey could fall in line with a bill passed by the 1971 legislature requiring Nebraska schools to administer some type of drug information program.

Sen. John De Camp of Neligh has promised support for the proposal, Hibler said.

Kansas Legislator Proposes The Merger Of Four States

Topeka, Kan. (AP) — Creation of a commission to study the possible merger of the states of Oklahoma, Nebraska, Colorado and Kansas was proposed Tuesday in a bill introduced in the Kansas Legislature.

The bill was one of nearly 50 introduced during the opening session of the Kansas House.

Rep. Fred Linde, R-Wichita, author of the measure, said the four states have similar geographical size, populations and economies, share their water resources and form a natural unit.

He said the residents of the four states have similar backgrounds, customs, attitudes and traditions and think in regional rather than state terms.

"The costs of all governments are high and a growing burden upon all people," Linde said. "Economies are slight and the cost of maintaining four separate governors, four separate administrations, four separate court systems, four separate legislatures and houses of separate agencies in the four states is repsonsible for much extra expense."

Linde proposed a Kansas Commission on State Mergers be created by the appointment of one member each by the governor, the chief justice of the Kansas Supreme Court, each U.S. senator, and the senior member of the state's delegation to the U.S. House of Representatives.

Cigarette Tax Increase Brings In $5 Million

By United Press International

State Tax Commissioner William Peters said the nickel a pack cigaret tax hike approved by the Unicameral last year has so far yielded $5,022,647.

The hike was approved as a means of funding three building projects — a recreation building at the Beatrice State Home, a University of Nebraska field house and a state office building.

The tax commissioner reported the $695,000 for the Beatrice facility has already been turned over, thus leaving a balance of $4,327,647 in the fund for the other two projects.

It had been estimated that by the end of the next fiscal year, the hike will have yielded some $16 million. The commissioner agreed with that estimate.

Gov. J. J. Exon, however, asked the Legislature Monday to rechannel the revenue from the hike into the general fund and finance the field house under a lease-purchase agreement.

He requested that the office building be held off at least 5½ years until the fieldhouse has been paid for.

The tax hike, Peters noted, has been collected from Nebraska smokers since April 28, 1971.

Court Okays Base Pay Plan For Teachers

By Associated Press

The $6,600 base pay offered teachers by the Falls City School District for this year has been approved by the Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations, court records showed Tuesday.

The Falls City Education Assn., which had sought a $6,700 base, appealed to the court after an impasse developed in negotiations.

The court held that the offered wage was "comparable to the prevalent wage rates paid by other comparable school districts," including Auburn, Syracuse, Crete, Fairbury, Plattsmouth and Nebraska City.

The court also approved increments of 4% for experience and hours of college credit. Blue Cross Blue Shield coverage at $11.60 per month per teacher, disabilty insurance at $6 per month per teacher, and 15c per mile for school travel.

Teachers had sought full premium payment on both health and income protection and 5% increments above base pay.

2 Long-Time Omaha Firms Halt All Or Part Of Operation

Omaha (AP) — Two long-time Omaha firms announced Tuesday that they plan to halt all or parts of their operations soon.

The companies are Aulabaugh Furs, Inc., which has been in Omaha since 1890, and the John Deere Co., which has had Omaha offices since 1899.

Mrs. G. N. Aulabaugh, principal owner of the firm company, said the operation will close by the end of January.

Willard D. Hosford Jr., vice president and general manager of the John Deere Co. offices, said the administrative sales functions of the company will be transferred to three other cities over the next several months. Locally, this part of the company will be closed about June 1, he said.

Hosford said about 64 persons from a work force of 185 persons will be laid off. Of the total work force, about 68 will be transferred and 13 are expected to retire. About 40 employes will remain in the firm's parts depot and whole goods distribution operations in Omaha.

Hosford said the administrative sales operations are being transferred to sales branches in Kansas City, Minneapolis and East Moline, Ill.

Documents Show Food Stamp Funds Impounded

©The New York Times

Washington — Confidential budgetary documents obtained Tuesday disclose that the Nixon administration has impounded $202 million in antihunger funds.

The impoundment totals 10% of the $2.2 billion in spending called for by Congress for the massive Food Stamp Program, the major federal antihunger effort.

The disclosure stirred some sharp criticism Tuesday on Capitol Hill. It was likely to provoke more next week, when Congress reconvenes.

Imminent cuts in the food stamp program in several industrial states have already prompted rising congressional and state opposition.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said he would seek prompt congressional action. It appeared likely he would be joined by Sen. George McGovern, Democratic presidential candidate from South Dakota and chairman of the Senate Nutrition Committee.

Officials Differ

Administration officials differed over who ordered the $202 million impoundment. But there was no challenge to the fact of the holdback.

The administration's budget request for food stamps for the current fiscal year was $2 billion. Congress, seeking enlargement of the program last summer added $200 million.

The documents, however, showed that "adjusted" allowable spending has been cut back to $2 billion, despite the congressional appropriation.

Sources at the Department of Agriculture, which administers the food stamp program, said the $202 million impoundment resulted from decisions made by White House budget officials.

The Office of Management and Budget denied, "without equivocation," that it had ordered the holdback. The funds are not being spent, an official there said, because the Department of Agriculture has found they have not been needed.

'Administration'

"I suppose the real answer," a high government official said, "is that it is neither an Agriculture nor an OMB but an administration decision."

Disclosure of the impoundment, together with rising national opposition to the food stamp cuts, appeared to be prompting an internal reassessment of the cuts.

A week ago, Richard E. Lyng, assistant secretary of agriculture, said, "We're not contemplating any change." Asked Tuesday if his position had changed, he said, "No comment."

The link between the impoundment and the food stamp program cuts is money. The Nixon administration has expanded the program dramatically in three years. Since it took office, participation has increased from 3.2 million to 10.5 million people.

'How Much Is Enough?'

The underlying question in a time of budget stringency, officials have said, is "how much is enough?"

Case took a different view in his statement to the press:

"Since last June, the Department of Agriculture has argued that a prime reason for the food stamp cutback was that it did not have sufficient funds, even though the final legislation signed into law by the President included a $200 million increase."

He continued: "But the department never publicly said that the $200 million had been impounded."

College Student Parlays Himself Into A $200,000 Stake In Stocks

©The New York Times

New York — A 19-year-old college sophomore apparently parlayed a persuasive voice on the telephone into a $200,000 stake in the stock market in December without ever putting up a penny in cash.

Abraham H. Treff of Philadelphia, a student at St. Joseph's College there, revealed Tuesday that he opened accounts at six prominent brokerage houses, where numerous transactions were executed at his request.

He said he never appeared in person at the offices of any of the firms and never signed any papers to open an account.

His goal, he explained, was not to get rich but to show that the rules of the New York Stock Exchange are not enforced and that some brokerage firms would ignore sound business practices to obtain commission revenues.

In no case did he receive physical delivery of the stocks purchased for him. However, in each case he received a printed confirmation of his purchase, listing the amount he owed. These sums theoretically came due five business days after each trade was executed.

However, Treff's confirmations and other written materials from the brokerage firms indicated that his accounts in most cases were carried somewhat longer than the five days, before he personally entered sell orders or the firms took it upon themselves to sell his positions.

Treff personally disclosed his dealings to the New York Times, a day after he had revealed them to the New York Stock Exchange. An exchange spokesman acknowledged that Treff had come forward with documented evidence of his transactions.

The young "investor" said the idea for his project came up during a discussion with friends concerning the effectiveness of Ralph Nader, the consumer advocate. Treff contended that anybody could "do what he's doing" and set out to prove it.

Lady Carpenter Enjoys New Job, Higher Wages

Omaha (AP) — High on the wood rafters of the Lake Forest Apartments under construction in Omaha, workman Langford was busy Tuesday morning nailing planking together.

Nothing unusual for a carpenter swinging away at nails, climbing ladders, hauling lumber, etc. Nothing except that Langford's name is Dwanawone, and "Woney" is a gal, a lady carpenter.

Dressed in a borrowed Army field jacket with a carpenter's leather belt loaded with tools and nails around her waist, the 18-year-old Woney found the first morning on the job "interesting."

"It's a lot of fun," she said, her blonde hair blowing in the wind. She reached into a pocket in the jacket, pulled out a cigarette and said: "I don't mind the cold a bit. I was a nurse's aide for 1½ years and got a little sick of it."

And the pay" . . . is a heck of a lot better. I used to get $1.70 an hour as a nurse. Now I'm getting $4.21. That's good for paying the bills.

Woney learned her skill in shop class at Westside High School.

She applied for a permit as an apprentice carpenter and was hired. She learned of the opening from her fiance, Kent Gerdes, a journeyman carpenter.

"That's him over there," she said pointing to a neighboring building under construction. "He's the little guy with a beard."

Woney said, "We're getting married in March."

Gerdes, watching his fiance's progress from a distance, was delighted with her new job.

"She's got guts," he said.

Joe Linhart, foreman for the Flott Construction Co., said the girl was doing a competent job and was a morale booster.

"She's a lot better to look at than some of these guys around here. It really doesn't bother me. She wants to do the work. It ain't easy. I don't know how long she's going to last."

Would she like to make carpentry a career?

Said Miss Langford "Oh, no. What does every girl want? A home and kids, that's what"

Burglars Get Cash

Approximately $135 was taken from Dell's DX Service Station at 5325 Cornhusker Hwy., police said Tuesday. Intruders ransacked the office after gaining entrance by a window.

Federal Blue Collar Workers' Pay To Rise

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon Tuesday ordered pay increases for about 118,330 federal blue collar workers whose scheduled raises were blocked during the 90-day wage-price freeze.

Nixon signed an executive order and issued memoranda setting in motions the pay increases which have been held up since Sept. 1.

The increases will be paid retroactively to Nov. 14, the day the freeze ended, and may be extended further, depending on a ruling now before the comptroller general.

But in no case can the increases exceed the 5.5% post-freeze guideline for wage increases. A Civil Service spokesman said union-management committees would first have to discuss the new larger pay schedules but he predicted checks would begin to flow to some of the workers as early as next week.

There are about 650,000 federal blue collar workers, but raises will go to those in 34 metropolitan areas where federal blue collar pay boards had recommended increases for skilled and semi-skilled employes

White House deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren did not have a specific total for the pay hikes for the skilled and semi-skilled workers. He said the increases would vary from job to job.

Head Of Price Control Running A 'Snow Job'

Washington (UPI) — Price control "watchdogs" from organized labor told the price commission chairman to his face Tuesday that he runs a "snow job" operation which leaves the public unable to do anything about illegal price hikes -- or even to know when they occur.

But C. Jackson Grayson Jr., the professor who heads the price agency, gamely defended his work as "firm, equitable and working"—but the victim of distorted publicity which buries its working victories in the back pages of the financial press while headlining a few "irrelevant" departures from its 2.5% price guideline.

So sharp was the contrast in views at a day-long conference called by the AFL-CIO of 75 union-designated price monitors from around the country that it amounted to a dialogue of the deaf which went like this:

First Leo Perlis, director of the AFL-CIO price monitoring program, denounced Phase II. He said wage controls are eagerly enthusiastically enforced by employers while price controls have turned into "a maze of open-ended rules, regulations, guidelines and procedures with more loopholes than our tax laws for the rich."

But Grayson ruefully said his agency had held down price increases of 200 of the nation's largest corporations — with a gross output greater than England and France's combined — to only 1.5%, but the news was buried on financial pages.

Grayson hurried off to a meeting of his agency — the first he had ever missed since its creation in October, he said -- while union members lined up before microphones to complain about price increases, which could or could not be legal.

One said when he checked into the Statler-Hilton Hotel, where the conference was held, he was told his room rate was $28 a night. A sign on the door in his room posted it at $26. Was this a violation? he asked. No one replied.

Edward F. Preston, assistant commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service in charge of price control enforcement, accused the union officials of cynicism. "The Revenue Service is not accustomed to failure and we're not going to have it," he said.

Door Blown Away In Wind

Boulder, Colo. (AP) — Boulder County sheriff's deputies had their hands full Tuesday as winds gusting to 90 miles per hour caused damage throughout the area, including the sheriff's office.

Deputies were instructed to kindly use the west entrance, as the north door had been blown away.

Photographers Swarm Around Jackie Onassis

New York (AP) — Photographers swarmed around Jacqueline Onassis on Tuesday at the federal courthouse, where she gave private pretrial testimony in her legal battle with a cameraman.

Secret Service men ran interference for the widow of President John F. Kennedy as she walked from the courthouse to a waiting limousine.

Her lawyer, Martin London, told reporters that during the closed session in the office of an assistant U.S. attorney "she was intelligent, relaxed, brilliant and charming."

Photographer Ronald E. Galella has sued her for $1.3 million, charging she interfered with his profession and caused a false arrest as he tried to take pictures of her and her two children.

Mrs. Onassis filed a countersuit for $1.5 million charging Galella with harassment. She said his continued pursuit of her had made her a virtual prisoner in her Fifth Avenue apartment.

Fans Consume

San Diego (AP) — During 11 pre-season and regular pro football games played here by the San Diego Chargers last year, more than $250,000 worth of food and drinks was consumed by the fans, reports Allan P. Lucht, head of the firm operating the concession.

White House Calls Nixon Portrait Claim 'Fabrication'

Washington (UPI) — The White House described as "pure fabrication" Tuesday announcement by artist Andrew Wyeth that he had been selected to paint the official portrait of President Nixon.

Wyeth said in an interview at Chadds Ford, Pa., where he resides, that First Lady Pat Nixon "personally asked me to paint her husband's portrait and I agreed."

Wyeth said that he was authorized by the White House Historical Association to make the announcement.

"Both the President and Mrs. Nixon respect him as a painter," said a spokesman, "but there's been no commitment on the part of the White House."

The spokesman said that neither Mrs. Nixon, the President, nor White House Curator Clement Conger had authorized the painting.

Wyeth said that the portrait would not begin until he and Nixon can get together "for the long hours and the quiet art of contemplation needed."

Nixon has said on previous occasions that he would not have the time or patience to sit for a portrait during his first term in office.

The Nixons showed their fondness for Wyeth last year when they put on a one man show of his paintings. The Nixons and the Wyeths have also become friendly socially.

Head Of Price Control Running A 'Snow Job'

Washington (UPI) — Price control "watchdogs" from organized labor told the price commission chairman to his face Tuesday that he runs a "snow job" operation which leaves the public unable to do anything about illegal price hikes — or even to know when they occur.

But C. Jackson Grayson Jr., the professor who heads the price agency, gamely defended his work as "firm, equitable and working"—but the victim of distorted publicity which buries its working victories in the back pages of the financial press while headlining a few "irrelevant" departures from its 2.5% price guideline.

So sharp was the contrast in views at a day-long conference called by the AFL-CIO of 75 union-designated price monitors from around the country that it amounted to a dialogue of the deaf which went like this:

First, Leo Perlis, director of the AFL-CIO price monitoring program, denounced Phase II. He said wage controls are eagerly, enthusiastically enforced by employers while price controls have turned into "a maze of open-ended rules, regulations, guidelines and procedures with more loopholes than our tax laws for the rich."

But Grayson ruefully said his agency had held down price increases of 200 of the nation's largest corporations — with a gross output greater than England and France's combined — to only 1.5%, but the news was buried on financial pages.

Grayson hurried off to a meeting of his agency — the first he had ever missed since its creation in October, he said — while union members lined up before microphones to complain about price increases, which could or could not be legal.

One said when he checked into the Statler-Hilton Hotel, where the conference was held, he was told his room rate was $28 a night. A sign on the door in his room posted it at $26. Was this a violation? he asked. No one replied.

Edward F. Preston, assistant commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service in charge of price control enforcement, accused the union officials of cynicism. "The Revenue Service is not accustomed to failure and we're not going to have it," he said.

Door Blown Away In Wind

Boulder, Colo. (AP) — Boulder County sheriff's deputies had their hands full Tuesday as winds gusting to 90 miles per hour caused damage throughout the area, including the sheriff's office.

Deputies were instructed to kindly use the west entrance, as the north door had been blown away.

Photographers Swarm Around Jackie Onassis

New York (AP) — Photographers swarmed around Jacqueline Onassis on Tuesday at the federal courthouse, where she gave private pretrial testimony in her legal battle with a cameraman.

Secret Service men ran interference for the widow of President John F. Kennedy as she walked from the courthouse to a waiting limousine.

Her lawyer, Martin London, told reporters that during the closed session in the office of an assistant U.S. attorney "she was intelligent, relaxed, brilliant and charming."

Photographer Ronald E. Galella has sued her for $1.3 million, charging she interfered with his profession and caused a false arrest as he tried to take pictures of her and her two children.

Mrs. Onassis filed a countersuit for $1.5 million charging Galella with harassment. She said his continued pursuit of her had made her a virtual prisoner in her Fifth Avenue apartment.

Fans Consume

San Diego (AP) — During 11 pre-season and regular pro football games played here by the San Diego Chargers last year, more than $250,000 worth of food and drinks was consumed by the fans, reports Allan P. Lucht, head of the firm operating the concession.

White House Calls Nixon Portrait Claim 'Fabrication'

Washington (UPI) — The White House described as "pure fabrication" Tuesday announcement by artist Andrew Wyeth that he had been selected to paint the official portrait of President Nixon.

Wyeth said in an interview at Chadds Ford, Pa., where he resides, that First Lady Pat Nixon "personally asked me to paint her husband's portrait and I agreed."

Wyeth said that he was authorized by the White House Historical Association to make the announcement.

"Both the President and Mrs. Nixon respect him as a painter," said a spokesman, "but there's been no commitment on the part of the White House."

The spokesman said that neither Mrs. Nixon, the President, nor White House Curator Clement Conger had authorized the painting.

Wyeth said that the portrait would not begin until he and Nixon can get together "for the long hours and the quiet art of contemplation needed."

Nixon has said on previous occasions that he would not have the time or patience to sit for a portrait during his first term in office.

The Nixons showed their fondness for Wyeth last year when they put on a one man show of his paintings. The Nixons and the Wyeths have also become friendly socially.

Lady Carpenter Enjoys New Job, Higher Wages

Omaha (AP) — High on the wood rafters of the Lake Forest Apartments under construction in Omaha, workman Langford was busy Tuesday morning nailing planking together.

Nothing unusual for a carpenter swinging away at nails, climbing ladders, hauling lumber, etc. Nothing except that Langford's name is Dwanawone, and "Woney" is a gal, a lady carpenter.

Dressed in a borrowed Army field jacket with a carpenter's leather belt loaded with tools and nails around her waist, the 18-year-old Woney found the first morning on the job "interesting."

"It's a lot of fun," she said, her blonde hair blowing in the wind. She reached into a pocket in the jacket, pulled out a cigarette and said: "I don't mind the cold a bit. I was a nurse's aide for 1½ years and got a little sick of it."

And the pay" . . . is a heck of a lot better. I used to get $1.70 an hour as a nurse. Now I'm getting $4.21. That's good for paying the bills.

Woney learned her skill in shop class at Westside High School.

She applied for a permit as an apprentice carpenter and was hired. She learned of the opening from her fiance, Kent Gerdes, a journeyman carpenter.

"That's him over there," she said pointing to a neighboring building under construction. "He's the little guy with a beard."

Woney said, "We're getting married in March."

Gerdes, watching his fiance's progress from a distance, was delighted with her new job.

"She's got guts," he said.

Joe Linhart, foreman for the Flott Construction Co., said the girl was doing a competent job and was a morale booster.

"She's a lot better to look at than some of these guys around here. It really doesn't bother me. She wants to do the work. It ain't easy. I don't know how long she's going to last."

Would she like to make carpentry a career?

Burglars Get Cash

Approximately $135 was taken from Dell's DX Service Station at 5325 Cornhusker Hwy., police said Tuesday. Intruders ransacked the office after gaining entrance by a window.

Federal Blue Collar Workers' Pay To Rise

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon Tuesday ordered pay increases for about 118,330 federal blue collar workers whose scheduled raises were blocked during the 90-day wage-price freeze.

Nixon signed an executive order and issued memoranda setting in motions the pay increases which have been held up since Sept. 1.

The increases will be paid retroactively to Nov. 14, the day the freeze ended, and may be extended further, depending on a ruling now before the comptroller general.

But in no case can the increases exceed the 5.5% post-freeze guideline for wage increases. A Civil Service spokesman said union-management committees would first have to discuss the new larger pay schedules but he predicted checks would begin to flow to some of the workers as early as next week.

There are about 650,000 federal blue collar workers, but raises will go to those in 34 metropolitan areas where federal blue collar pay boards had recommended increases for skilled and semi-skilled employes.

White House deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren did not have a specific total for the pay hikes for the skilled and semi-skilled workers. He said the increases would vary from job to job.

Prasch Seeks Bryan School For Technical College's Use

By CHARLIE HARPSTER
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Public Schools Supt. John Prasch Tuesday night asked the Lincoln Board of Education to close Bryan School, 1701 So. 40th, at the end of this school year to allow the Lincoln Technical Community College to consolidate medical-related programs in the school.

The board deferred action on the proposal until their next meeting. In order to implement Prasch's recommendation the board must agree to close the school while meeting as the Lincoln Board of Education and then accept the building while meeting as the technical college board.

Prasch said the children now attending Bryan would attend Holmes, Sheridan and Randolph Schools the next school year. Bryan School is set up for kindergarten through the fourth grade, while other Lincoln elementary schools handle kindergarten through the sixth grade.

Prasch told the board he believes that the three schools will have no problem absorbing the additional enrollment, based on figures over the past 12 years.

Medical-related programs of the Lincoln Technical College presently are administered at several Lincoln public schools including Millard Lefler, Whittier and East High.

Donald L. Ferguson, administrative assistant to both school boards, said the consolidation would allow better utilization of the staff and provide a location more suited to Lincoln hospitals.

The technical college board also approved a proposal to administer a 52-week training program for food service employes at the Beatrice State Home.

School Board Okays Retroactive Payments

The Lincoln School Board Tuesday night approved retroactive payment of salary increases held up during the wage-price freeze.

The unanimous vote came after public schools legal council Willis R. Hecht told the board he believes payment can be authorized. He said there is uncertainty whether the legislation has been officially implemented by President Richard Nixon even though Nixon has signed the bill.

Lincoln teachers and other public school employes will receive an estimated $259,000 in back pay, according to Ely Feistner, executive secretary of the Lincoln Education Association.

The school board also heard a report from the public schools' department of public safety on cleaning procedures of tile floors in shower rooms in Lincoln junior and senior high schools.

Prasch said the report was requested following the death of a girl after a fall in a shower room at East High.

Installing surfaces such as rough concrete or indoor-outdoor carpeting is a problem, Prasch said, because these surfaces trap water and breed infection.

"The problem is the incompatibility of the need for cleanliness with the need for rough surfaces to prevent accidents," Prasch said.

The board also approved architectural plans for an addition to Goodrich Junior High, 4600 Lewis.

Woman, Brother 'Satisfactory' After Transplant

Omaha (AP) — A 37-year-old Omaha woman was reported in satisfactory condition Tuesday after undergoing a kidney transplant at Bishop Clarkson Hospital in Omaha.

The recipient was Mrs. Gary Arington.

The donor was her brother, Leonard J. Kean, 33, Omaha.

Attending physicians said Kean also was in satisfactory condition.

The operation was the first kidney transplant performed at Clarkson this year and the 12th in the current series begun in January 1971, the hospital said.

Anne Kromdley Tabbed By NOW

Anne Kromdley was elected president of the Lincoln chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) during the group's meeting Tuesday night.

Ellen Dewey was elected vice president; Peg Kelley was elected secretary and Sandy Fisher was named treasurer.

The organization set as its major goal for this year support for passage of the equal rights amendment now pending in the Senate.

Printer Dies

Washington (UPI) — A. N. Spencer, 55, since April, 1970, head of the Government Printing Office which publishes most government documents, died at his Alexandria, Va., home. His official title was public printer of the United States.

MOBILE HOME DESTROYED

This crumpled sheet metal blown against a sign nearly a block away is part of the wreckage of a mobile home destroyed by a powerful gust of wind five miles west of Loveland, Colo., on U.S. 34. The damage was typical of that in other areas of the eastern foothills of Colorado and Wyoming which were buffeted Tuesday by winds up to 100 m.p.h.

Roman Buses Used More During Free-Fare Period

Rome (UPI) — One of Rome's two municipal bus companies said Tuesday the number of passengers on its lines increased 48% during a nine-day free-travel experiment earlier this month.

The Stefer Co. said, however, this did not necessarily mean that the experiment was successful in convincing Romans to leave their cars at home.

It said many of the extra passengers may have been persons riding buses for fun or for brief distances over which they would normally have walked.

Stefer, the smaller of Rome's two bus systems, said it carried 1,569,947 passengers during the free travel period which ended last Friday. It said this compared with 1,059,163 over the same nine-day period a year earlier.

Surgeon General Suggests Graduated Cigarette Tax

Washington (UPI) — Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld suggested Monday that the government could reduce smoking hazards by imposing a graduated cigarette tax based on tar and nicotine content.

"The City of New York now has a graduated tax on cigarettes based on their tar and nicotine content and this experiment should be watched carefully," Steinfeld told the National Interagency Council on Smoking and Health.

The New York City tax, which is added to federal and state cigarette taxes, is not levied on those cigarette brands with the lowest tar and nicotine contents, but goes up in several stages to four cents a pack for those which contain the most tar and nicotine.

"If the system works at all in New York City, it should be even more effective elsewhere," said Steinfeld.

He conceded, however, that the effectiveness of the New York tax was undermined by low-tax black market cigarettes bootlegged in from southern states.

Another bar to success has been that uncooperative retailers in New York City are pricing all their cigarettes at the level charged for those wih the highest tar and nicotine content.

"Still another recommendation," said Steinfeld, "is raising taxes on (all) cigarettes. Many of our state and local governments have done this for revenue purposes, although the federal government has not changed its rates (8 cents per pack) for nearly 20 years."

Food Ordinance Finalization Is Urged

By JIM DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Lancaster County Health Board voted Tuesday night to encourage the city legal staff to finalize work on the comprehensive food ordinance for consideration by the board at their February meeting.

The board unanimously agreed on the motion by Rollin Bailey but Les Sanger said that the ordinance is far enough along that no intensification of the work will be needed to ready it for the next meeting.

In other action, director George Underwood said that from information he has received in the area of drug abuse he has reached the conclusion that 80% of the upper high school and lower college students have at least tried marijuana.

He said that most of the young people recognize the dangers of hard drugs and are staying away from them but with regard to marijuana they are the "epitome of the man from Missouri who says 'show me.'"

"They have the attitude that you have to prove marijuana is harmful and you can't do that," he said.

Of the continued heavy users of marijuana Dr. Underwood said, "Those are the hard core hippie type and you can't tell them anything."

He said that there are quite a few uppers (amphetamines) being used in Lincoln by young people but added that the adults are using 50 times more than the kids. Often young people with uppers in their possession got them from "momma's bathroom cupboard," he said.

Dr. Underwood told the group that there is very little heroin addiction in Lincoln because it is nearly impossible to support a habit here.

"Those who do use heroin go to the larger cities where there are more people to mug and more stores to rob," he said.

Of educating people about the dangers of drug abuse the director said that you "have to start out early in schools and scare them early in life" because they won't be scared when they get older.

Dr. Underwood said that in the next budget he will ask for additional money to hire a public health educator to work with the schools in the areas of drug abuse and venereal disease.

Drugs and venereal disease" go pretty well hand in hand," he said.

The board also received a report on the swimming pool inspections for 1971, which found that tht greatest number of deficiencies was in the category of chlorine residual.

This deficiency was found in 56 individual inspections or 20.5% of the total number of inspections. This is a decrease of 19.5% of 1970 and 15.5% over 1969.

The next greatest area of deficiencies was pH. This deficiency was found in 42 inspections or 15.4% of the total. This was a decrease of 6.5% over both 1969 and 1970.

LBJ Ponders

Ex-President Johnson, his hair a bit longer than in his White House days, concentrates on a question from Walter Cronkite during a recent taping of an informal conversation. The interview will be shown as "Lyndon Johnson Talks Politics" on CBS-TV Jan. 27.

South Said Open To Bomber Attack

©The New York Times

Washington — The House Armed Services investigating subcommittee claimed Tuesday that the nation's air defenses were "virtually useless," particularly in protecting the southern flank of the United States against a bomber attack.

In reply, the Defense Department acknowledged there presently were gaps in the radar detection network on the southern flank but called the possibility of a bomber attack from the south remote and contended that the Soviet Union could not launch an undetected bomber attack against the United States.

The House subcommittee report resulted from an investigation of an incident last October when a Cuban plane carrying 21 Cuban sugar technicians flew undetected across the Gulf of Mexico and landed in New Orleans.

In a similar incident in October, 1969, a Cuban MIG-17, piloted by a defector, flew undetected to Homestead Air Force Base in Florida and landed at the base while President Nixon's plane, Air Force One, was there.

The subcommittee report said the two incidents demonstrate that there is "a 1,400-mile opening in our air defense on the southern U.S. perimeter betwetn Florida and California" and that "any foreign power can, at will, violate the southern U.S.. air space without detection or interception."

"More importantly," the report continued, "they suggest that any enemy having the capability to attack from the South would be immune from detection and interception."

Mayor Urges Calley's Release

Macon, Ga. (UPI) — Mayor Ronnie Thompson, noting the recent release of former Teamsters' head Jimmy Hoffa, sent President Nixon a telegram asking that Lt. William L. Calley be freed.

"Since you've seen fit to free Jimmy Hoffa, the former head of a powerful political organization, please free Lt. William Calley, a lonely prisoner of war who contributed more to this country during his short life than Hoffa ever will," Thompson said in his telegram.

Big Spender Gulbenkian, 75, Is Dead

Cannes, France (AP) — Nubar Gulbenkian, one of the last free-wheeling, big-spending oil magnates, has died in a hospital where he lived for three years with a heart ailment. He was 75.

Nubar was the son of the late Calouste Gulbenkian, who successfully negotiated oil contracts in Arab countries for Western oil firms and took a 5% commission. The elder Gulbenkian became known as "Mister Five Per Cent."

His son was born in Turkish-occupied Armenia and during the Turkish massacres his family fled.

Nubar was sent to the fashionable Harrow School in England, starting him on his life of ease and wealth. "I don't have much idea of what I'm worth," he once remarked casually.

He died Monday night at the Sunny Bank Hospital.

Nubar Gulbenkian was a giant of a man, easily identifiable by his imposing beard, bushy eyebrows, orchid in his coat buttonhole, and monocle tightly fixed at his right eye.

Everything he did seemed to take on outsize importance. He had his $15,000 yellow and black Rolls-Royce custom-designed to resemble a boxy taxicab for moving around easily in London traffic.

After he moved to the French Riviera five years ago he rode in a Rolls-Royce with a plastic roof so he could enjoy the scenery better.

He thought nothing of arranging special planes to fly in caviar from Russia, or fruit from Kenya or California, for a party. He once had a troupe of belly dancers flown in from Turkey to entertain his guests.

Priority Urged For Alternate 'I' In Bypass Plan

Robert J. Windle, president of the East Lincoln Business and Professional Association, said in a press release that the organization strongly favors the east and west Lincoln bypass proposals.

However, he said, the group strongly proposes that the alternate "I" receive priority over the west bypass.

"Alternate 'I' will serve the most people and will help to reduce the congestion on O St. because motorists wishing to go from I-80 to east Lincoln will have a much closer access," Windle said.

He said the group feels the west bypass will only add to the congestion until the east bypass is completed.

Calvary Lutheran Approves Budget

A budget of $121,000 for 1972 was approved Tuesday at the annual business meeting of Calvary Lutheran Church.

It was the first meeting at which the church's new congregation chairman, Arvin Riveland, presided.

Astronaut Duke Leaves Hospital

Duke will walk on the moon with Cmdr. John Young during the Apollo 16 missions scheduled for liftoff April 16. He will remain here to resume his training.

Lt. Cmdr. Thomas K. Mattingly, command module pilot for the mission, will circle the moon while his fellow astronauts walk on the lunar surface.

Food Ordinance Finalization Is Urged

By JIM DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Lancaster County Health Board voted Tuesday night to encourage the city legal staff to finalize work on the comprehensive food ordinance for consideration by the board at their February meeting.

The board unanimously agreed on the motion by Rollin Bailey but Les Sanger said that the ordinance is far enough along that no intensification of the work will be needed to ready it for the next meeting.

In other action, director George Underwood said that from information he has received in the area of drug abuse he has reached the conclusion that 80% of the upper high school and lower college students have at least tried marijuana.

He said that most of the young people recognize the dangers of hard drugs and are staying away from them but with regard to marijuana they are the "epitome of the man from Missouri who says 'show me.'"

"They have the attitude that you have to prove marijuana is harmful and you can't do that," he said.

Of the continued heavy users of marijuana Dr. Underwood said, "Those are the hard core hippie type and you can't tell them anything."

He said that there are quite a few uppers (amphetamines) being used in Lincoln by young people but added that the adults are using 50 times more than the kids. Often young people with uppers in their possession got them from "momma's bathroom cupboard," he said.

Dr. Underwood told the group that there is very little heroin addiction in Lincoln because it is nearly impossible to support a habit here.

"Those who do use heroin go to the larger cities where there are more people to mug and more stores to rob," he said.

Of educating people about the dangers of drug abuse the director said that you "have to start out early in schools and scare them early in life" because thty won't be scared when they get older.

Dr. Underwood said that in the next budget he will ask for additional money to hire a public health educator to work with the schools in the areas of drug abuse and venereal disease.

Drugs and venereal disease" go pretty well hand in hand," he said.

The board also received a report on the swimming pool inspections for 1971, which found that tht greatest number of deficiencies was in the category of chlorine residual.

This deficiency was found in 56 individual inspections or 20.5% of the total number of inspections. This is a decrease of 19.5% of 1970 and 15.5% over 1969.

The next greatest area of deficiencies was pH. This deficiency was found in 42 inspections or 15.4% of the total. This was a decrease of 6.5% over both 1969 and 1970.

South Said Open To Bomber Attack

©The New York Times

Washington — The House Armed Services investigating subcommittee claimed Tuesday that the nation's air defenses were "virtually useless," particularly in protecting the southern flank of the United States against a bomber attack.

In reply, the Defense Department acknowledged there presently were gaps in the radar detection network on the southern flank but called the possibility of a bomber attack from the south remote and contended that the Soviet Union could not launch an undetected bomber attack against the United States.

The House subcommittee report resulted from an investigation of an incident last October when a Cuban plane carrying 21 Cuban sugar technicians flew undetected across the Gulf of Mexico and landed in New Orleans.

In a similar incident in October, 1969, a Cuban MIG-17, piloted by a defector, flew undetected to Homestead Air Force Base in Florida and landed at the base while President Nixon's plane, Air Force One, was there.

The subcommittee report said the two incidents demonstrate that there is "a 1,400-mile opening in our air defense on the southern U.S. perimeter betwetn Florida and California" and that "any foreign power can, at will, violate the southern U.S. air space without detection or interception."

"More importantly," the report continued, "they suggest that any enemy having the capability to attack from the South would be immune from detection and interception."

Mayor Urges Calley's Release

Macon, Ga. (UPI) — Mayor Ronnie Thompson, noting the recent release of former Teamsters' head Jimmy Hoffa, sent President Nixon a telegram asking that Lt. William L. Calley be freed.

"Since you've seen fit to free Jimmy Hoffa, the former head of a powerful political organization, please free Lt. William Calley, a lonely prisoner of war who contributed more to this country during his short life than Hoffa ever will," Thompson said in his telegram.

Big Spender Gulbenkian, 75, Is Dead

Cannes, France (AP) — Nubar Gulbenkian, one of the last free-wheeling, big-spending oil magnates, has died in a hospital where he lived for three years with a heart ailment. He was 75.

Nubar was the son of the late Calouste Gulbenkian, who successfully negotiated oil contracts in Arab countries for Western oil firms and took a 5% commission. The elder Gulbenkian became known as "Mister Five Per Cent."

His son was born in Turkish-occupied Armenia and during the Turkish massacres his family fled.

Nubar was sent to the fashionable Harrow School in England, starting him on his life of ease and wealth. "I don't have much idea of what I'm worth," he once remarked casually.

He died Monday night at the Sunny Bank Hospital.

Nubar Gulbenkian was a giant of a man, easily identifiable by his imposing beard, bushy eyebrows, orchid in his coat buttonhole, and monocle tightly fixed at his right eye.

Everything he did seemed to take on outsize importance. He had his $15,000 yellow and black Rolls-Royce custom-designed to resemble a boxy taxicab for moving around easily in London traffic.

After he moved to the French Riviera five years ago he rode in a Rolls-Royce with a plastic roof so he could enjoy the scenery better.

He thought nothing of arranging special planes to fly in caviar from Russia, or fruit from Kenya or California, for a party. He once had a troupe of belly dancers flown in from Turkey to entertain his guests.

Priority Urged For Alternate 'I' In Bypass Plan

Robert J. Windle, president of the East Lincoln Business and Professional Association, said in a press release that the organization strongly favors the east and west Lincoln bypass proposals.

However, he said, the group strongly proposes that the alternate "I" receive priority over the west bypass.

"Alternate 'I' will serve the most people and will help to reduce the congestion on O St. because motorists wishing to go from I-80 to east Lincoln will have a much closer access," Windle said.

He said the group feels the west bypass will only add to the congestion until the east bypass is completed.

Calvary Lutheran Approves Budget

A budget of $121,000 for 1972 was approved Tuesday at the annual business meeting of Calvary Lutheran Church.

It was the first meeting at which the church's new congregation chairman, Arvin Riveland, presided.

Astronaut Duke Leaves Hospital

Duke will walk on the moon with Cmdr. John Young during the Apollo 16 missions scheduled for liftoff April 16. He will remain here to resume his training.

Lt. Cmdr. Thomas K. Mattingly, command module pilot for the mission, will circle the moon while his fellow astronauts walk on the lunar surface.

Prasch Seeks Bryan School For Technical College's Use

By CHARLIE HARPSTER
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Public Schools Supt. John Prasch Tuesday night asked the Lincoln Board of Education to close Bryan School, 1701 So. 40th, at the end of this school year to allow the Lincoln Technical Community College to consolidate medical-related programs in the school.

The board deferred action on the proposal until their next meeting. In order to implement Prasch's recommendation the board must agree to close the school while meeting as the Lincoln Board of Education and then accept the building while meeting as the technical college board.

Prasch said the children now attending Bryan would attend Holmes, Sheridan and Randolph Schools the next school year. Bryan School is set up for kindergarten through the fourth grade, while other Lincoln elementary schools handle kindergarten through the sixth grade.

Prasch told the board he believes that the three schools will have no problem absorbing the additional enrollment, based on figures over the past 12 years.

Medical-related programs of the Lincoln Technical College presently are administered at several Lincoln public schools including Millard Lefler, Whittier and East High.

Donald L. Ferguson, administrative assistant to both school boards, said the consolidation would allow better utilization of the staff and provide a location more suited to Lincoln hospitals.

The technical college board also approved a proposal to administer a 52-week training program for food service employes at the Beatrice State Home.

School Board Okays Retroactive Payments

The Lincoln School Board Tuesday night approved retroactive payment of salary increases held up during the wage-price freeze.

The unanimous vote came after public schools legal council Willis R. Hecht told the board he believes payment can be authorized. He said there is uncertainty whether the legislation has been officially implemented by President Richard Nixon even though Nixon has signed the bill.

Lincoln teachers and other public school employes will receive an estimated $250,000 in back pay, according to Ely Feistner, executive secretary of the Lincoln Education Association.

The school board also heard a report from the public schools' department of public safety on cleaning procedures of tile floors in shower rooms in Lincoln junior and senior high schools.

Prasch said the report was requested following the death of a girl after a fall in a shower room at East High.

Installing surfaces such as rough concrete or indoor-outdoor carpeting is a problem, Prasch said, because these surfaces trap water and breed infection.

"The problem is the incompatibility of the need for cleanliness with the need for rough surfaces to prevent accidents," Prasch said.

The board also approved architectural plans for an addition to Goodrich Junior High, 4600 Lewis.

Woman, Brother 'Satisfactory' After Transplant

Omaha (AP) — A 37-year-old Omaha woman was reported in satisfactory condition Tuesday after undergoing a kidney transplant at Bishop Clarkson Hospital in Omaha.

The recipient was Mrs. Gary Arington.

The donor was her brother, Leonard J. Kean, 33, Omaha.

Attending physicians said Kean also was in satisfactory condition.

The operation was the first kidney transplant performed at Clarkson this year and the 12th in the current series begun in January 1971, the hospital said.

Anne Kromdley Tabbed By NOW

Anne Kromdley was elected president of the Lincoln chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) during the group's meeting Tuesday night.

Ellen Dewey was elected vice president; Peg Kelley was elected secretary and Sandy Fisher was named treasurer.

The organization set as its major goal for this year support for passage of the equal rights amendment now pending in the Senate.

Printer Dies

Washington (UPI) — A. N. Spencer, 55, since April, 1970, head of the Government Printing Office which publishes most government documents, died at his Alexandria, Va., home. His official title was public printer of the United States.

MOBILE HOME DESTROYED

This crumpled sheet metal blown against a sign nearly a block away is part of the wreckage of a mobile home destroyed by a powerful gust of wind five miles west of Loveland, Colo., on U.S. 34. The damage was typical of that in other areas of the eastern foothills of Colorado and Wyoming which were buffeted Tuesday by winds up to 100 m.p.h.

Roman Buses Used More During Free-Fare Period

Rome (UPI) — One of Rome's two municipal bus companies said Tuesday the number of passengers on its lines increased 48% during a nine-day free-travel experiment earlier this month.

The Stefer Co. said, however, this did not necessarily mean that the experiment was successful in convincing Romans to leave their cars at home.

It said many of the extra passengers may have been persons riding buses for fun or for brief distances over which they would normally have walked.

Stefer, the smaller of Rome's two bus systems, said it carried 1,569,947 passengers during the free travel period which ended last Friday. It said this compared with 1,059,163 over the same nine-day period a year earlier.

Surgeon General Suggests Graduated Cigarette Tax

Washington (UPI) — Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld suggested Monday that the government could reduce smoking hazards by imposing a graduated cigarette tax based on tar and nicotine content.

"The City of New York now has a graduated tax on cigarettes based on their tar and nicotine content and this experiment should be watched carefully," Steinfeld told the National Interagency Council on Smoking and Health.

The New York City tax, which is added to federal and state cigarette taxes, is not levied on those cigarette brands with the lowest tar and nicotine contents, but goes up in several stages to four cents a pack for those which contain the most tar and nicotine.

"If the system works at all in New York City, it should be even more effective elsewhere," said Steinfeld.

He conceded, however, that the effectiveness of the New York tax was undermined by low-tax black market cigarettes bootlegged in from southern states.

Another bar to success has been that uncooperative retailers in New York City are pricing all their cigarettes at the level charged for those wih the highest tar and nicotine content.

"Still another recommendation," said Steinfeld, "is raising taxes on (all) cigarettes. Many of our state and local governments have done this for revenue purposes, although the federal government has not changed its rates (8 cents per pack) for nearly 20 years."

Colum Is Dead

Enfield, Conn. (UPI) — Irish poet and author Padraic Colum, 90, died Tuesday night at a nursing home here.

Flight Delayed

Fairford, England (UPI) — Air controllers postponed the scheduled flight of the Duke of Edinburgh aboard the Anglo-French Concorde supersonic aircraft because of bad weather.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Lincoln may not be quite the hustling, bustling city it was a couple of weeks ago, but we can state with authority that it is far from dull. There is plenty of activity around and about and a look at the calendar tells us that there are even numerous plans for February.

* * *

But since we are only mid way in the second week of the current month we'll talk about the week's future—and a little of its past.

We hear that there is to be a birthday party next Saturday evening when the 10 couples of the Birthday Club honor Don Cunningham.

The celebration will be a dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haynie.

And no better time than right now to tell you that Mrs. Haynie will be taking off in another week for Oakland, Calif., where she will be the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. James Cadwallader (Cynthia Haynie).

* * *

We brought the past into the picture back in the beginning—It involves last Saturday evening and another club—this time the Investment Club. . . It was an exceedingly happy evening for the members who, by the way, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Van Ashmun at their home. The broad smiles on every face told the story—All of their investments had made money.

* * *

Among all of those Nebraskans — including many from Lincoln, who went to the Orange Bowl game were Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Cather Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Cather were fortunate enough to run in to many of their old friends—One of these was Mrs. Warren B Tuttle (the former Junealyce Bowers) who was a coed at Nebraska Wesleyan at the same time Mrs. Cather was on the campus—Dr. and Mrs. Ruttle now reside at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla —Then there was Ed Steeves of Detroit, Mich., a Sigma Chi at Nebraska — and now public relations director for General Motors

That isn't all the news of Mr. and Mrs. Cather, however—They entertained Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rohrig of Chicago, formerly of Lincoln at dinner at their home early this week. The visitors stopped off in Lincoln en route west for vacationing. Mr. Rohrig, as you may know, played football at Nebraska and now is on the staff of Big 10 game officials.

* * *

Also on the list of homecomers are Mr. and Mrs. John P. Miller who returned last weekend from Clinton, Iowa, where they spent the holidays.

Dining with Wine

The question as to which wines are better, American or European, remains a moot one. It is not fair to draw a comparison between these two wines. Our grapes are grown on different soil and our wines are made differently. Our wine control laws are not as stringent as the European; our production practices differ since our producers stress volume more than quality.

While it is true that European wines are generally regarded as the finest in the world, American wines are gaining many admirers and rightfully so. Our native wines are not in the class of the great Bordeaux and Burgundies; and we are unable to produce a wine to compare with the luscious Sauternes and Barsac of France. And of course, no other country in the world makes a wine to compare with the Trockenbeerenauslese of Germany. But some of our California varieties are excellent wines and rate very favorably with all except the classic European wines.

The most popular wines in America today are dinner or table wines. These are wines of rather low alcohol content — usually about 12% and their increased use has caused wine consumption per capita to double in just the last five years. Despite this increase in consumption, Americans are still consuming only about 5% as much wine as Europeans; and America still hasn't reached the position of a major wine producer. The combined production of the United States, about 85% of it from California, is about 3% of the world's production, actually. Only a wine drop in the bucket

The best wines our vintners produce are the Varietals—that is, those wines named after the grape from which the wine is made. These include: Cabernet Sauvignon, Pinot Noir, Pinot Chardonnay, Pinot Blanc, Chenin Blanc, Petite Sirah and others The balance of the grape crop is made into Generic wines such as: Burgundy, Chablis and Sauterne. Much of this type of wine is sold as "jug" wine and may be purchased in gallon and half-gallon containers—at a relatively low price. On the other hand, the Varietals are commanding a much higher price and with the demand far outstripping the supply of the good Varietals, a continued escalation of this price spiral can be expected.

Many visitors to California have taken the time to travel to the Napa Valley from which come our best American wines. Many of the small vineyards maintain hospitality tasting rooms and visitors are welcome in most of them. There are about 350 bonded wineries in California and many of the vineyards are small; family operated; with their entire production usually sold before the crop has been harvested. It is these small vineyards which specialize in growing just a few varieties of grape which are helping the State acquire a reputation for making a high quality wine. The large producers, solely interested in volume, will make anywhere from 30 to 40 different wines in an effort to cover the entire market.

The State of California has made a significant contribution to the development of the wine industry. The State School of Viticulture and Oenology at Davis, California, is one of the finest of its type in the world. Rapid strides have been made in developing the "Vitis viniferas" as wine grapes are called When one stops to realize that our wine industry is only about 40 years old, and we are competing with European wine makers who have a heritage of over 2000 years experience—our progress in grape growing and wine making is indeed commendable.

Shoppers for American wines would do well to look for brands such as Mirassou or Berringer-Premium which rate at the top of our native wines.

Thread was handy when stored on this home-made wooden spool rack. Factories made different size spools but the hole through the center of the spool was almost universal by 1830. (Index of American Design, Washington, D.C.)

By RALPH AND TERRY KOVEL

Minor inventions are often important for major inventions that appear years later. The spool that held thread is a a minor convenience that appeared in the early 19th century.

Before mechanical winding methods were developed, the seamstress wound cotton thread on small, flat, notched pieces of wood, bone or ivory. After 1806, a machine wound the cotton thread into balls The thread was put on throw-away wooden spindles or spools by the 1850s.

The sewing machine patented in the 1830s could not have been made if the machine-wound thread had not been available.

Q. I have seen calling card cases in various shops from time to time. What did women do with calling cards?

A. Today, a businessman will often leave a business card that tells his name, the firm name, address and phone number. Mid-19th century manners decreed that ladies had to pay ceremonial calls on friends.

The first week of January, or in some areas, the first week of autumn, ladies went to the homes of their friends and left a calling card. The friend had to return the call within the week. The week after a party, a lady was expected to leave her card at the hostess' home even if she did not attend the party. Brides had myriad rules about leaving cards for friends as thank you notes, new address information, etc.

This custom still remains in international politics. The ambassador must present his card within a short time after he arrives in a new country

The cards that were distributed by ladies of the 1860s were carried in small thin cases of leather, metal, silver, silverplate, or even gold. The cases were often elaborately decorated

Over 54,000,000 ruby red beer bottles were made from 1950 to 1963 for the Schlitz Brewing Co. by the Anchor Hocking Glass Co. Keep looking if you haven't found one.

Q. Was china ever considered more valuable than gold?

A. Porcelain was considered a gift fit for royalty during the days of Marco Polo. The first known porcelain was seen in China by the early explorers. It was used by the royal family because it was so rare and expensive. Marco Polo brought examples of porcelain back to Europe as gifts for the king.

It was thought that porcelain would protect the diner from poison during the Middle Ages. The dish was believed to change color or even break if the food it held was poisoned.

After the discovery of the secret of porcelain in Germany in the 18th century, the ware was priced so other than royalty could own it.

Q. How can I clean papier-mache with pearly inlay?

A. Don't use soap or detergent Liquid furniture cream in very small amounts is the most successful cleaner. Mother-of-pearl should never be touched by anything acid so a cotton tipped swab with a bit of detergent is the only thing possible

Use it very carefully so you do not touch the papier-mache.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Lincoln may not be quite the hustling, bustling city it was a couple of weeks ago, but we can state with authority that it is far from dull. There is plenty of activity around and about and a look at the calendar tells us that there are even numerous plans for February.

* * *

But since we are only mid way in the second week of the current month we'll talk about the week's future—and a little of its past.

We hear that there is to be a birthday party next Saturday evening when the 10 couples of the Birthday Club honor Don Cunningham.

The celebration will be a dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haynie.

And no better time than right now to tell you that Mrs. Haynie will be taking off in another week for Oakland, Calif., where she will be the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. James Cadwallader (Cynthia Haynie).

* * *

We brought the past into the picture back in the beginning—It involves last Saturday evening and another club—this time the Investment Club. . . It was an exceedingly happy evening for the members who, by the way, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Van Ashmun at their home. The broad smiles on every face told the story—All of their investments had made money.

* * *

Among all of those Nebraskans — including many from Lincoln, who went to the Orange Bowl game were Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Cather Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Cather were fortunate enough to run in to many of their old friends—One of these was Mrs. Warren B. Tuttle (the former Junealyce Bowers) who was a coed at Nebraska Wesleyan at the same time Mrs. Cather was on the campus—Dr. and Mrs. Ruttle now reside at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.—Then there was Ed Steeves of Detroit, Mich., a Sigma Chi at Nebraska — and now public relations director for General Motors.

That isn't all the news of Mr. and Mrs. Cather, however—They entertained Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rohrig of Chicago, formerly of Lincoln at dinner at their home early this week. The visitors stopped off in Lincoln en route west for vacationing. Mr. Rohrig, as you may know, played football at Nebraska and now is on the staff of Big 10 game officials.

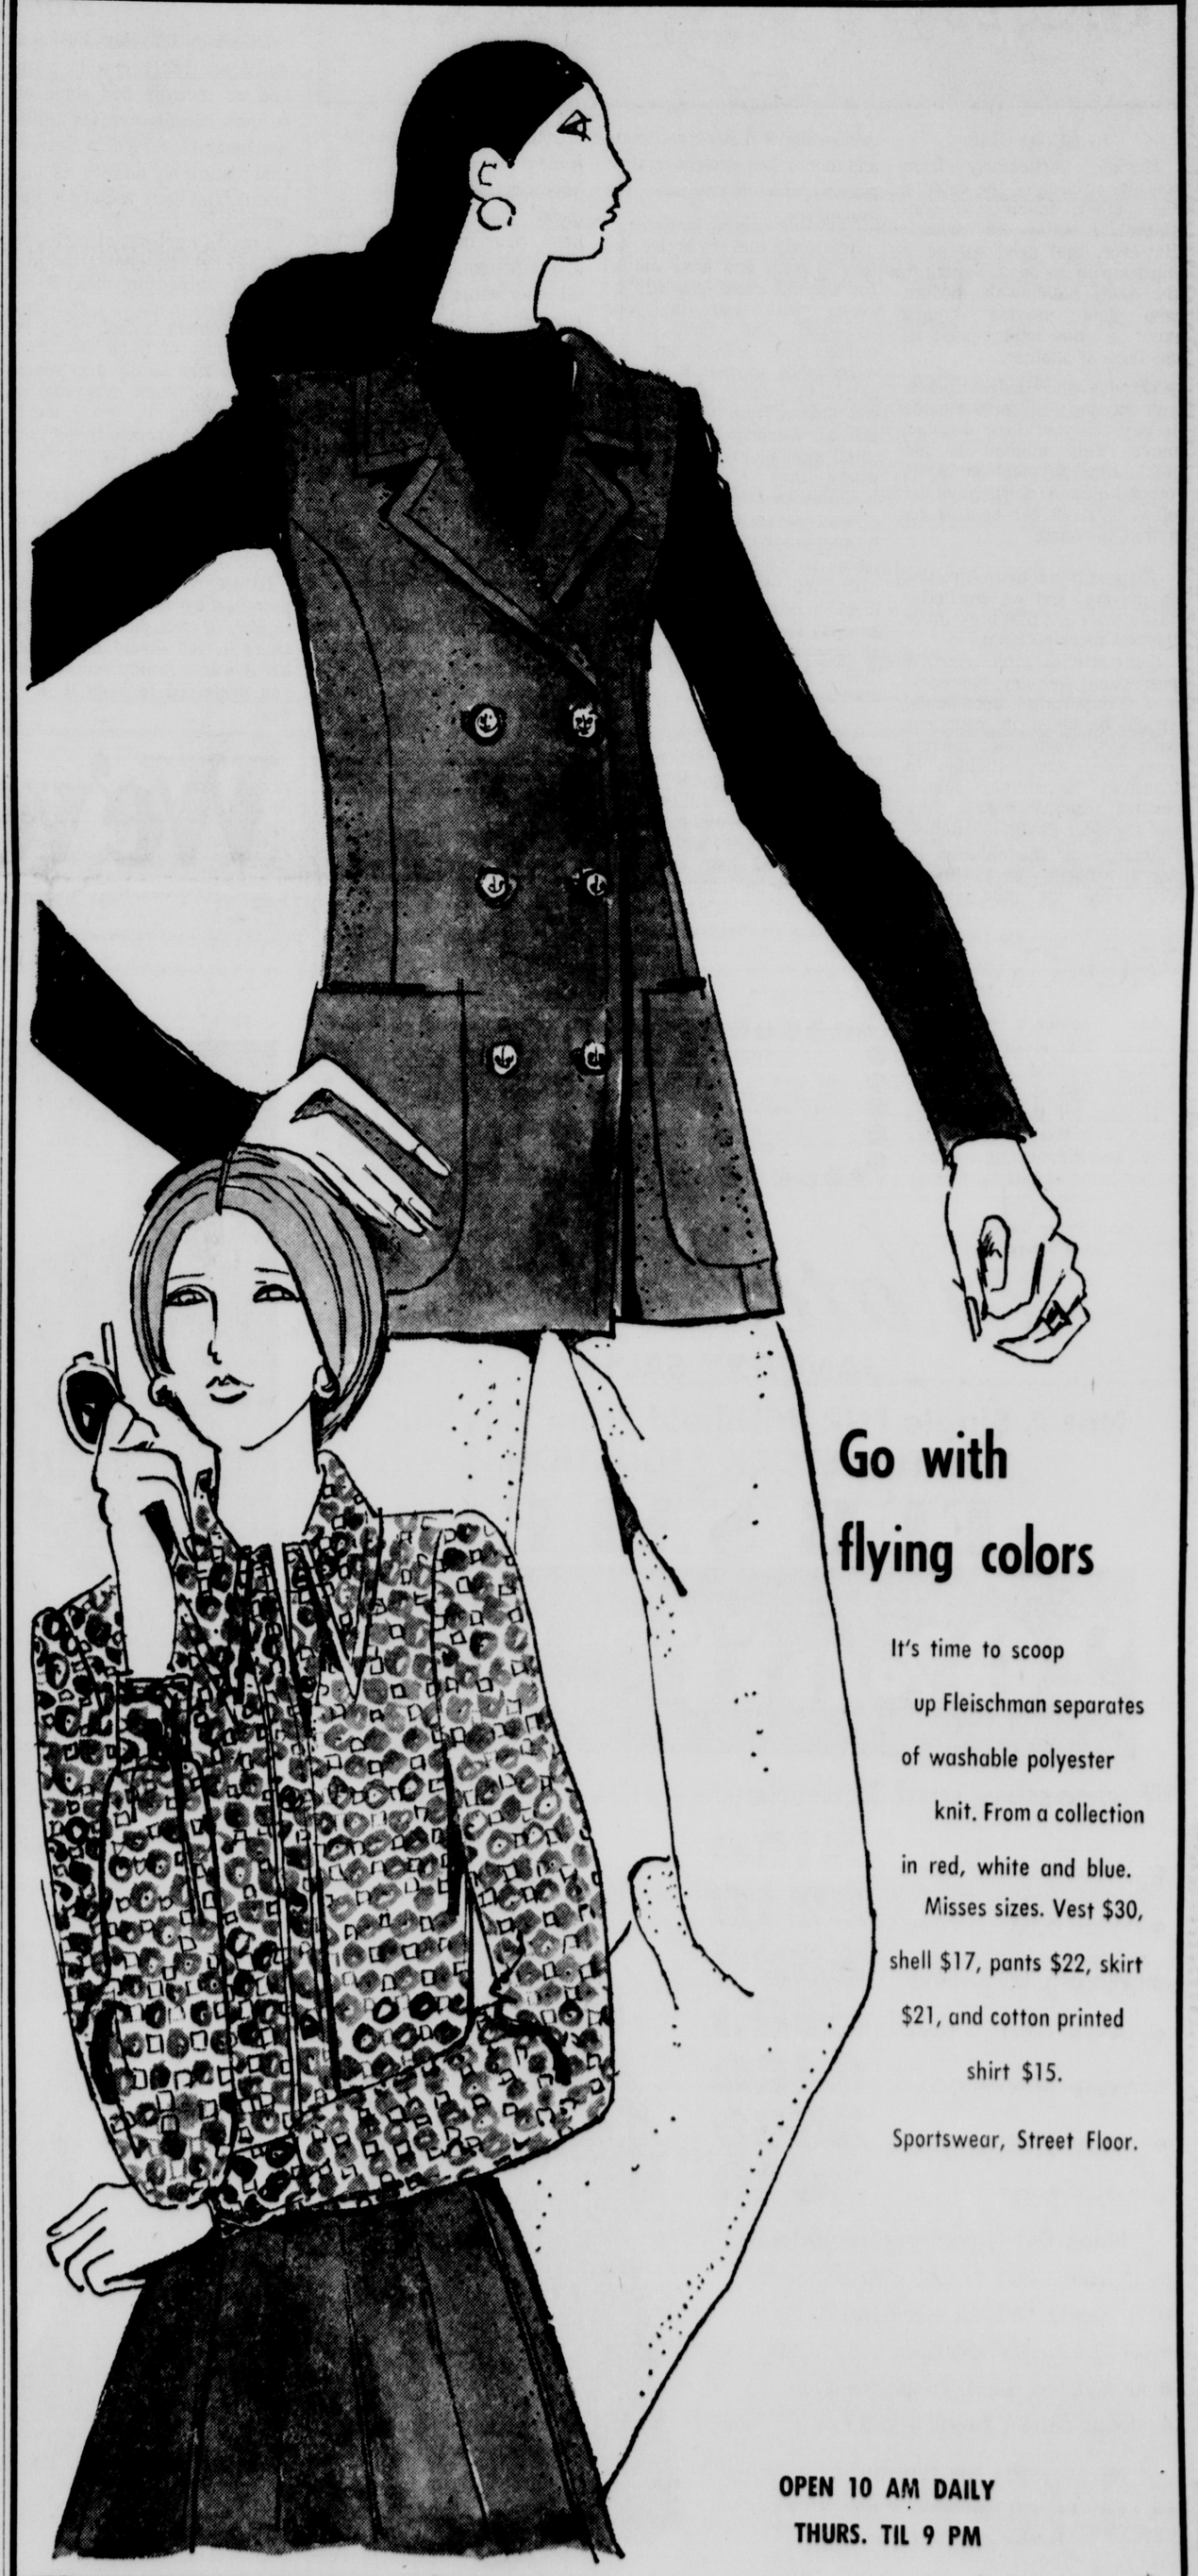
Also on the list of homecomers are Mr. and Mrs. John P. Miller who returned last weekend from Clinton, Iowa, where they spent the holidays.



Problems In A Child's World

Dear Mrs. Woolien:

We seem to have a problem establishing a bedtime for our three year-old daughter.

Almost every night, the three year-old leaves her bed and quietly sneaks down to her playroom where she plays with her blocks for a while. When I approach her to go to bed she insists she is not tired.

I am curious as to the proper way to handle this situation. Should I insist she go to bed, or let her play until she no longer can stay away?

WIDE AWAKE

Before delving into this question, there are a few premises that must be established. Why does the parent want the child in bed? Is the parent simply tired of caring for the child for the day? Is the child really tired? Is the child seeking extra time and attention?

It is important not to make bedtime a battle surrounded by conflict and punishment. If the situation is not handled properly, it can become a long standing problem between parent and child as to who does what and when.

If the problem is not severe, the approach is simple. The child should be dressed and ready for bed at the usual bedtime. Then let the child know that she can play in her room until she is ready for sleep, and turn out the light herself, as long as she does not wake her siblings.

If the situation is more severe, where the child insists on being with his parents, then other measures must be taken. If the child leaves his room, he should be quietly returned without anger. It is important that the rule be sustained without anger. If the child does not respond, the parent should set up a contingency—if you stay up, this will be the result. The first time should be a warning, and each succeeding time an action. It is preferable not to make the contingency a spanking, but there are times when this is the only alternative. It can be a loss of privileges, but whatever the course of action the parent must be sure that he can and will follow through with it.

Youngsters like rituals, and bedtime can be more pleasant if it becomes a time that parent and child can spend together. Among the rituals that may be established are bedtime stories, reading a book together, singing songs or just discussing the day's activities.

Bedtimes should not be so rigid that they cannot occasionally be relaxed for a special reason. On these occasions the time should be pleasant for both parent and child.

It is also important not to make the bed a punishment during the day. This, too, will force the child to associate bedtime with a form of punishment, rather than a pleasant experience.

A child should be warned that bedtime is approaching. This will give him time to prepare himself emotionally, and to finish the activity in which he is involved. It is wise for the child to have a quieting down period just before bed, when he is not stimulated by games or television.

In order to establish a proper bedtime, the parents must learn to evaluate just how much sleep the child needs. If a nap during the day might be the cause for restlessness at night, the nap should be discontinued. A child will naturally determine his own sleep needs.

Money Matters

By LINDA OLIG

Moving, particularly from one city or area of the country to another, involves a considerable outlay of money. However that need not be a hardship these days thanks to the many nation-wide movers who now provide "move now pay later" plans in one form or another.

Through the budget plans, you may have up to 36 months to pay for your long distance move. This method is not unlike time payment buying in other fields. A down payment of at least 10 per cent is required, of course.

There is much more involved in moving, and we will offer just a few hints that may make the task more pleasant.

Some articles, such as prized possessions, jewelry, currency, and important documents, should be taken in your car with you. Then too, moving companies are forbidden to transport turpentine, paints, cleaning fluids, aerosol cans and any other flammable items.

Arrange for the children to stay at a friend's or relative's home while the movers are there—this will save you time and money and protect against possible harm to the youngsters.

Before the movers arrive be sure to pack and have out of the way all items you will be taking with you in your car—and also have the refrigerator cleaned out and ready to be moved. It also is helpful to remove all paintings and plaques from the walls and put all kitchen utensils and small appliances in one place where they are readily available for the packers.

Drawers are not removed from dressers, chests, and end tables, so it is wise to fill them with small items such as pictures, cosmetics and knick knacks. Remember to protect all breakable items by placing them between sheets or towels.

When you move there are certain duties for which you alone are responsible. You should contact the utility companies in your old and new city, notify magazines and other publications of your new address, leave a change-of-address notice at the post office, inform friends and relatives of your new location and arrange with schools for the necessary transfer papers.

Other important people to contact are stores where you have charge accounts, your bank, your insurance company, your newspaper carrier and milk man, and arrange for all other home deliveries to be stopped.

Moving can be an education in itself, and persons who have had considerable moving experience have picked up many of their own time and money saving hints along the way. You will too.

Hostess for the 9:30 o'clock event was Mrs. William Hastings, and the meeting was held at her home at 1544 So. 58th St.

Abby: share it

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are fairly new in town and we recently had some of our new friends over for a dinner party. I served a dessert that made a big hit with all the guests. One lady asked for the recipe.

I tried to get out of giving it to her, but she kept after me until I agreed to mail it to her.

My problem is that recipe is a specialty of mine that has been in my family for years and I don't want everyone in town making it, yet I don't know how to gracefully get out of giving it to her. Do you think I'm being selfish?

How can I handle this? I can't avoid this woman much longer.

NEW IN TOWN

DEAR NEW: Because you promised her the recipe, give it to her. If you didn't want to share it, you should have told her it was a family secret and you preferred to keep it that way.

Yes, I think you're being selfish. If everybody in town were to enjoy your favorite dessert, it would in no way diminish your enjoyment of it. C'mon, share.

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column concerning anonymous phone calls really hit home with me. I have been an employe of the telephone company for many years, and as such, I've handled numerous complaints involving the misuse of the phone.

In most cases (not always) when these anonymous calls are traced, they are found to be made by mentally disturbed and very unhappy people who want to impose unhappiness on others.

You gave very sound advice to the woman who wanted to know what to do about a persistent anonymous caller who would phone and say, "Your husband wants a divorce," and then hang up. "Get an unpublished number!"

We seem to have a problem establishing a bedtime for our three year-old daughter.

Almost every night, the three year-old leaves her bed and quietly sneaks down to her playroom where she plays with her blocks for a while. When I approach her to go to bed she insists she is not tired.

I am curious as to the proper way to handle this situation. Should I insist she go to bed, or let her play until she no longer can stay away?

WIDE AWAKE

Before delving into this question, there are a few premises that must be established. Why does the parent want the child in bed? Is the parent simply tired of caring for the child for the day? Is the child really tired? Is the child seeking extra time and attention?

It is important not to make bedtime a battle surrounded by conflict and punishment. If the situation is not handled properly, it can become a long standing problem between parent and child as to who does what and when.

If the problem is not severe, the approach is simple. The child should be dressed and ready for bed at the usual bedtime. Then let the child know that she can play in her room until she is ready for sleep, and turn out the light herself, as long as she does not wake her siblings.

If the situation is more severe, where the child insists on being with his parents, then other measures must be taken. If the child leaves his room, he should be quietly returned without anger. It is important that the rule be sustained without anger. If the child does not respond, the parent should set up a contingency—if you stay up, this will be the result. The first time should be a warning, and each succeeding time an action. It is preferable not to make the contingency a spanking, but there are times when this is the only alternative. It can be a loss of privileges, but whatever the course of action the parent must be sure that he can and will follow through with it.

Youngsters like rituals, and bedtime can be more pleasant if it becomes a time that parent and child can spend together. Among the rituals that may be established are bedtime stories, reading a book together, singing songs or just discussing the day's activities.

Bedtimes should not be so rigid that they cannot occasionally be relaxed for a special reason. On these occasions the time should be pleasant for both parent and child.

It is also important not to make the bed a punishment during the day. This, too, will force the child to associate bedtime with a form of punishment, rather than a pleasant experience.

A child should be warned that bedtime is approaching. This will give him time to prepare himself emotionally, and to finish the activity in which he is involved. It is wise for the child to have a quieting down period just before bed, when he is not stimulated by games or television.

In order to establish a proper bedtime, the parents must learn to evaluate just how much sleep the child needs. If a nap during the day might be the cause for restlessness at night, the nap should be discontinued. A child will naturally determine his own sleep needs.

Money Matters

By LINDA OLIG

Moving, particularly from one city or area of the country to another, involves a considerable outlay of money. However, that need not be a hardship these days, thanks to the many nation-wide movers who now provide "move now . . . pay later" plans in one form or another.

Through the budget plans, you may have up to 36 months to pay for your long distance move. This method is not unlike time payment buying in other fields. A down payment of at least 10 per cent is required, of course.

There is much more involved in moving, and we will offer just a few hints that may make the task more pleasant.

Some articles, such as prized possessions, jewelry, currency, and important documents, should be taken in your car with you. Then, too, moving companies are forbidden to transport turpentine, paints, cleaning fluids, aerosol cans and any other flammable items.

Arrange for the children to stay at a friend's or relative's home while the movers are there—this will save you time and money and protect against possible harm to the youngsters.

Before the movers arrive, be sure to pack and have out of the way all items you will be taking with you in your car—and also have the refrigerator cleaned out and ready to be moved. It also is helpful to remove all paintings and plaques from the walls and put all kitchen utensils and small appliances in one place where they are readily available for the packers.

Drawers are not removed from dressers, chests, and end tables, so it is wise to fill them with small items such as pictures, cosmetics and knick knacks. Remember to protect all breakable items by placing them between sheets or towels.

When you move, there are certain duties for which you alone are responsible. You should contact the utility companies in your old and new city, notify magazines and other publications of your new address, leave a change-of-address notice at the post office, inform friends and relatives of your new location, and arrange with schools for the necessary transfer papers.

Other important people to contact are stores where you have charge accounts, your bank, your insurance company, your newspaper carrier and milk man, and arrange for all other home deliveries to be stopped.

Moving can be an education in itself, and persons who have had considerable moving experience have picked up many of their own time and money saving hints along the way You will, too.

Abby: share it

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are fairly new in town and we recently had some of our new friends over for a dinner party. I served a dessert that made a big hit with all the guests. One lady asked for the recipe.

I tried to get out of giving it to her, but she kept after me until I agreed to mail it to her.

My problem is that recipe is a specialty of mine that has been in my family for years and I don't want everyone in town making it, yet I don't know how to gracefully get out of giving it to her. Do you think I'm being selfish?

How can I handle this? I can't avoid this woman much longer.

NEW IN TOWN

DEAR NEW: Because you promised her the recipe, give it to her. If you didn't want to share it, you should have told her it was a family secret and you preferred to keep it that way.

Yes, I think you're being selfish. If everybody in town were to enjoy your favorite dessert, it would in no way diminish your enjoyment of it. C'mon, share

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column concerning anonymous phone calls really hit home with me. I have been an employe of the telephone company for many years, and as such, I've handled numerous complaints involving the misuse of the phone.

In most cases (not always) when these anonymous calls are traced, they are found to be made by mentally disturbed and very unhappy people who want to impose unhappiness on others.

You gave very sound advice to the woman who wanted to know what to do about a persistent anonymous caller who would phone and say, "Your husband wants a divorce," and then hang up: "Get an unpublished number!"

Dining with Wine

The question as to which wines are better, American or European, remains a moot one. It is not fair to draw a comparison between these two wines. Our grapes are grown on different soil and our wines are made differently. Our wine control laws are not as stringent as the European; our production practices differ since our producers stress volume more than quality.

While it is true that European wines are generally regarded as the finest in the world, American wines are gaining many admirers and rightfully so. Our native wines are not in the class of the great Bordeaux and Burgundies; and we are unable to produce a wine to compare with the luscious Sauternes and Barsac of France. And of course, no other country in the world makes a wine to compare with the Trockenbeerenauslese of Germany. But some of our California varieties are excellent wines and rate very favorably with all except the classic European wines.

The most popular wines in America today are dinner or table wines. These are wines of rather low alcohol content — usually about 12% and their increased use has caused wine consumption per capita to double in just the last five years. Despite this increase in consumption, Americans are still consuming only about 5% as much wine as Europeans; and America still hasn't reached the position of a major wine producer. The combined production of the United States, about 85% of it from California, is about 3% of the world's production, actually. Only a wine drop in the bucket.

The best wines our vintners produce are the Varietals—that is, those wines named after the grape from which the wine is made. These include: Cabernet Sauvignon, Pinot Noir, Pinot Chardonnay, Pinot Blanc, Chenin Blanc, Petite Sirah and others. The balance of the grape crop is made into Generic wines such as: Burgundy, Chablis and Sauterne. Much of this type of wine is sold as "jug" wine and may be purchased in gallon and half-gallon containers—at a relatively low price. On the other hand, the Varietals are commanding a much higher price and with the demand far outstripping the supply of the good Varietals, a continued escalation of this price spiral can be expected.

Many visitors to California have taken the time to travel to the Napa Valley from which come our best American wines. Many of the small vineyards maintain hospitality tasting rooms and visitors are welcome in most of them. There are about 350 bonded wineries in California and many of the vineyards are small; family operated; with their entire production usually sold before the crop has been harvested. It is these small vineyards which specialize in growing just a few varieties of grape which are helping the State acquire a reputation for making a high quality wine. The large producers, solely interested in volume, will make anywhere from 30 to 40 different wines in an effort to cover the entire market.

The State of California has made a significant contribution to the development of the wine industry. The State School of Viticulture and Oenology at Davis, California, is one of the finest of its type in the world. Rapid strides have been made in developing the "Vitis viniferas" as wine grapes are called. When one stops to realize that our wine industry is only about 40 years old, and we are competing with European wine makers who have a heritage of over 2000 years experience—our progress in grape growing and wine making is indeed commendable.

Shoppers for American wines would do well to look for brands such as Mirassou or Berringer-Premium which rate at the top of our native wines.

Thread was handy when stored on this home-made wooden spool rack. Factories made different size spools but the hole through the center of the spool was almost universal by 1830. (Index of American Design, Washington, D.C.)

By RALPH AND TERRY KOVEL

Minor inventions are often important for major inventions that appear years later. The spool that held thread is a a minor convenience that appeared in the early 19th century.

Before mechanical winding methods were developed, the seamstress wound cotton thread on small, flat, notched pieces of wood, bone or ivory. After 1806, a machine wound the cotton thread into balls. The thread was put on throw-away wooden spindles or spools by the 1850s.

The sewing machine patented in the 1830s could not have been made if the machine-wound thread had not been available.

Q. I have seen calling card cases in varous shops from time to time. What did women do with calling cards?

A. Today, a businessman will often leave a business card that tells his name, the firm name, address and phone number. Mid-19th century manners decreed that ladies had to pay ceremonial calls on friends.

The first week of January, or in some areas, the first week of autumn, ladies went to the homes of their friends and left a calling card. The friend had to return the call within the week. The week after a party, a lady was expected to leave her card at the hostess' home even if she did not attend the party. Brides had myriad rules about leaving cards for friends as thank you notes, new address information, etc.

This custom still remains in international politics. The ambassador must present his card within a short time after he arrives in a new country.

The cards that were distributed by ladies of the 1860s were carried in small thin cases of leather, metal, silver, silverplate, or even gold. The cases were often elaborately decorated.

Over 54,000,000 ruby red beer bottles were made from 1950 to 1963 for the Schlitz Brewing Co. by the Anchor Hocking Glass Co. Keep looking if you haven't found one.

Q. Was china ever considered more valuable than gold?

A. Porcelain was considered a gift fit for royalty during the days of Marco Polo. The first known porcelain was seen in China by the early explorers. It was used by the royal family because it was so rare and expensive. Marco Polo brought examples of porcelain back to Europe as gifts for the king.

It was thought that porcelain would protect the diner from poison during the Middle Ages. The dish was believed to change color or even break if the food it held was poisoned.

After the discovery of the secret of porcelain in Germany in the 18th century, the ware was priced so other than royalty could own it.

Q. How can I clean papier-mache with pearly inlay?

A. Don't use soap or detergent. Liquid furniture cream in very small amounts is the most successful cleaner. Mother-of-pearl should never be touched by anything acid so a cotton tipped swab with a bit of detergent is the only thing possible.

Use it very carefully so you do not touch the papier-mache.

Lose Bad Figure—Try BIP

Sit on the floor on your heels. Bend your elbows and raise your arms forward, shoulder height. Twist your arms to the left as you sit on your right hip Twist your arms to the right as you sit on your left hip. Continue, right and left with a choppy motion. This is reducing to the lower back hipline.

The spring clothes appearing in the stores make women with figure problems as nervous as hearing Christmas advertising in September Never fear! There is still time to lose from 15 to 20 pounds, streamline your measurements, improve your complexion and hair and put some spring in your step.

Even seven or eight pounds too many makes a big difference in the way we look in our clothes and 15 or 20 can give the most beautiful garment an inferiority complex. Why not shop for your Easter outfit with pleasure instead of frustration this spring?

This is the fourth day of my Eight Week Beauty Improvement Plan (Bip for short). Most of those who join wish to lose weight. Others just want to see how much they can improve their appearance generally in eight weeks or wish to correct out of proportion measurements or increase their energy.

This is a carefully planned course. If you have been following it, you have weighed and measured yourself and know what goals you are shooting for. I hope you will use the menus which have already appeared and those which will be published. Losing weight is really very simple. There is no mystery about it and it should not be painful if you do it the right way.

The most pleasant and successful method is to increase your physical activity and decrease your food intake. This does not mean that you have to exercise strenuously for long periods of time or starve yourself. The opposite is true Only a moderate decrease in calories and a modest increase in exercise add up to an impressive total.

For instance, if you cut your food intake 500 calories a day (you can do this by leaving off one very rich item or two fairly rich ones) and walk briskly for an hour five days a week, this adds up to about one-and-a-half pounds loss a week If you bicycle for an hour or do some other vigorous exercise, your loss will be greater.

Tomorrow there will be more about the benefits of exercise when reducing and also about the boost it gives health. Here are today's menus.

Breakfast

½ cup diced cantaloupe
1 slice zweibach toast with 1 tsp. cream cheese
1 large egg, soft cooked

Lunch

Mushroom soup*
2 oz. cheese (your choice)

Dinner

Spaghetti and Meatballs*
Spinach or lettuce leaf salad with low calorie dressing
1 glass skim milk
½ cup vanilla ice milk, 3 per cent fat

*Mix lb. ground round with ½ cup parboiled or cooked white rice (leftover from dinner yesterday) and season with garlic salt and pepper. Shape into meatballs about 2 inches in diameter. Drop them in the following sauce and simmer about 20 minutes until done. Sauce: 1 can tomato sauce, ¾ cup water, 1 clove garlic minced. Serve only half these meatballs and sauce over ½ cup spaghetti. Q I read so many different things about colds that I do not know what to believe. Some say that chilling or a draft or being wet or cold weather will give a person a cold. Others say that these have nothing to do with it. Please tell me what is really true

A. Being cold or wet or chilled or in a draft cannot give you a cold. However, if there is a cold virus around it is more apt to get you if you are chilled or wet or in a draft because your resistance will be lowered by these factors. For the same reason you are more likely to catch cold when you are extremely tired.

It is not too late to join BIP. If you missed the first part of this series if you would like to have the whole course, send for my Bip Kit. The booklet gives you complete directions, plus menus for two weeks, 14 spot reducing exercises and a unique chart on which you can plot your progress and see your beauty line rise as your weight line drops. If you would like to have this kit send 50 cents (includes postage and handling) and your printed name and address. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Lincoln Star.

Opening lead — ace of hearts.

When a reader sends me a hand, it is hard to know whether the deal actually occurred the way I am told or whether the story was embellished a little to make the deal more interesting.

However, the exact facts are not particularly important if the hand itself is of interest, so here's a good story — whether you believe it or not.

It seems that South got to five hearts doubled on the bidding shown Undoubtedly West was hoping to chase North back to spades, but North wisely elected to pass.

West led the ace of hearts, which proved to be an exceptionally good lead. Had he led a spade, a diamond or a club, South would not have had the slightest trouble making the hand. He would have lost two trump tricks, period.

Declarer had the presence of mind to drop the four of hearts on the ace, a play that later proved to be crucial. West shifted to the jack of diamonds, again choosing the best line of defense.

South won with the ace and led the king of hearts. Realizing what might happen if he followed low, West played the queen on the king in order to avoid being thrown into the lead.

With East showing out, it was not difficult for declarer to analyze the reason for West's unusual trump play. He therefore cashed the king of diamonds and exited with the deuce of hearts!

West had to win the trick with the three and was forced to lead a spade or a club into dummy. As a result, South was able to dispose of his diamond losers and he thus made five hearts doubled.

Lose Bad Figure—Try BIP

Sit on the floor on your heels. Bend your elbows and raise your arms forward, shoulder height. Twist your arms to the left as you sit on your right hip. Twist your arms to the right as you sit on your left hip. Continue, right and left with a choppy motion. This is reducing to the lower back hipline.

The spring clothes appearing in the stores make women with figure problems as nervous as hearing Christmas advertising in September. Never fear! There is still time to lose from 15 to 20 pounds, streamline your measurements, improve your complexion and hair and put some spring in your step.

Even seven or eight pounds too many makes a big difference in the way we look in our clothes and 15 or 20 can give the most beautiful garment an inferiority complex. Why not shop for your Easter outfit with pleasure instead of frustration this spring?

This is the fourth day of my Eight Week Beauty Improvement Plan (Bip for short). Most of those who join wish to lose weight. Others just want to see how much they can improve their appearance generally in eight weeks or wish to correct out of proportion measurements or increase their energy.

This is a carefully planned course. If you have been following it, you have weighed and measured yourself and know what goals you are shooting for. I hope you will use the menus which have already appeared and those which will be published. Losing weight is really very simple. There is no mystery about it and it should not be painful if you do it the right way.

The most pleasant and successful method is to increase your physical activity and decrease your food intake. This does not mean that you have to exercise strenuously for long periods of time or starve yourself. The opposite is true. Only a moderate decrease in calories and a modest increase in exercise add up to an impressive total.

For instance, if you cut your food intake 500 calories a day (you can do this by leaving off one very rich item or two fairly rich ones) and walk briskly for an hour five days a week, this adds up to about one-and-a-half pounds loss a week. If you bicycle for an hour or do some other vigorous exercise, your loss will be greater.

Tomorrow there will be more about the benefits of exercise when reducing and also about the boost it gives health. Here are today's menus.

Breakfast

½ cup diced cantaloupe
1 slice zweibach toast with 1 tsp. cream cheese
1 large egg, soft cooked

Lunch

Mushroom soup*
2 oz. cheese (your choice)
1 slice whole wheat or light rye toast
1 glass skim milk
*Simmer until done ½ cup chopped fresh mushrooms and 1 tbs. dehydrated soup greens in one cup beef broth. Season with parsley (fresh or dry), salt and pepper.

Dinner

Spaghetti and Meatballs*
Spinach or lettuce leaf salad with low calorie dressing
1 glass skim milk
½ cup vanilla ice milk, 3 per cent fat
*Mix lb. ground round with ½ cup parboiled or cooked white rice (leftover from dinner yesterday) and season with garlic salt and pepper. Shape into meatballs about 2 inches in diameter. Drop them in the following sauce and simmer about 20 minutes until done. Sauce: 1 can tomato sauce, ¾ cup water, 1 clove garlic minced. Serve only half these meatballs and sauce over ½ cup spaghetti. You will have the remainder tomorrow for lunch.

Cornhusker Bank President Says Year Was 'Best Ever'

G. A. Frampton, president and chairman of the board of Cornhusker Bank, reported to stockholders Tuesday that 1971 was "the best year ever" for the 69-year-old institution.

It was highlighted by the opening of a new drive-in, walk-in facility at the Belmont Plaza Shopping Center last April and the addition of three new employes. Since moving to Lincoln from Davey in 1960, Frampton said, the staff has grown from five to 15 persons.

Looking at prospects for the coming year, he commented, "We think they're very good because we're in a growing area of Lincoln." He cited specifically development in the airport vicinity and along Cornhusker Hwy.

Richard L. Herr, who joined the bank in February, was elected assistant cashier and other officers were reelected. They include Frampton, president: Cecile Frampton, Alice M. Dittman and J. A. Mastera, vice presidents: K. R. Ward, cashier: and Mel A. Hain, assistant cashier.

The board of directors, all reelected, are Norman Bulling; Ms. Dittman, secretary; Ms. Frampton; G. A. Frampton, chairman; Robert E. Frampton, vice chairman; Forest P. Hutson; A. Leicester Hyde; Robert McGill; John W. Stewart, counsel; and Karl A. Witt.

Frampton reported the bank's loan demand, $2,162,446 at the end of 1971, remains substantially unchanged from a year ago when it was $2,163,087.

Consumer loans are up from $668,045 a year ago to $760,521, an increase Frampton credits to the bank's increasing acquaintance with area residents.

Government bonds are up from $554.078 to $798,825 and other bonds up from $1.000,351 to $1,203,888, Frampton said.

Total essets were reported at $4,801,067, up from $4,151,027 a year ago and more than double the bank's 1965 total, he reported.

Deposits totalled $4.233.339 in 1971 as compared to $3.622.732 at the close of 1970. Frampton broke that total down as follows: demand deposits: $1,939.654 in 1971 as compared to $1.634.878 in 1970: time deposits: $1,320,389 in 1971; $1,030.703 in 1970; savings deposits: $864.705 in 1971, $817.174 in 1970, and government deposits: $51,944 in 1971, $34.752 in 1970.

The bank has capital of $200.000, surplus of $100.000, undivided profits of $107.556, and paid $12.000 in dividends at 6%, Frampton said.

Reed's body was discovered by his secretary, Mrs Evelyn Thompson who said she went to his home after she telephoned the residence and got no answer

Reed who was the business agent for Iron Workers Union Local 67, was free on bond pending an appeal of his case to the Iowa Supreme Court. He was sentenced in 1970 to three years in the Iowa State Penitentiary at Fort Madison on a conspiracy conviction in connection with three bombings in Iowa.

Independent Oil Men Say They're Squeezed By Giants

Washington (UPI) — Independent oil producers and marketers said Tuesday they were being driven to the wall by tax concessions and monopolies in which the same dustry giants.

Testifying before the Senate-House Economic Committee, the independents called for legislation to break up vertical monopolits in which the same companies that pump oil out of wells own the pipelines, the refineries and the service stations which move it to the consumer.

They also called for an end to the oil depletion allowance, foreign import quotas and other market restrictions.

Ronald J. Peterson, chairman of Martin Oil Service Inc. of Chicago and representing the nation's independent marketers, said the system was resulting in "bloody murder" of independent refiners.

Alfred James III, a wildcatter from Wichita, Kan., said small producers like himself were being driiven out of business by political contributions from the giants that pay off in tax favors. . ."

Second Day

The testimony came as Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., the committee chairman, conducted a second day of hearings on the need for new antitrust legislation and tax reform.

Beverly C. Moore Jr., an economist who studied the oil industry in detail for consumer advocate Ralph Nader, said eight oil companies now control 62% of refiner runs. He said the heavy concentration was fostered by government policy to keep out imports of crude oil, restrict domestic oil production and grant tax concessions that encourage vertical integration of oil companies from the well to the gas pump.

"The relatively competitive independent refiners, who have no depletion allowance, see their profit margins squeezed and their options reduced to bankruptcy or vertical merger," Moore said.

Moore contended that joint ownership of oil pipelines by major producers have aggravated the problem. The pipelines, he said serve not as common carriers, open to independents as well as giants, but as "exclusionary bottlenecks."

20 To 30% More

They are carefully planned to meet the needs of the pipeline's owners for their own operations, he said, and independents pay 20 to 30% more to use the pipeline than the owners.

Moore said antitrust action to force the oil companies to divest themselves of ownership of the huge Colonial pipeline from the Gulf Coast to New York has been quietly dropped.

James said small oilmen are like the small family farmers who are unable to affect the price they get for their crops when in competition with corporate farms.

"I'm not alone in saying that I think the reason for this may go deeply into the political system you gentlemen have inherited," James said. "It is a system of political financing and privilege."

Judge May Not Consider Past Record In Sentencing

. . . If Former Convictions Were Invalid

(c) Washington Star

Washington — A divided Supreme Court ruled Tuesday that a judge in setting a sentence may not consider a past criminal record if the former convictions were invalid.

By a vote of 5 to 2, the court expanded a 1967 decision barring the use of unconstitutional convictions to prove guilt on a new charge.

Speaking for the majority, Justice Potter Stewart declared that a sentencing judge would see a case in a "dramatically different light" if he is required to ignore earlier verdicts that were dismissed because they were unconstitutional.

The court ordered a federal judge in San Francisco to reconsider a 25-year prison sentence he imposed on a convicted bank robber in 1953.

At the time of the sentencing, the judge had before him the man's record that he had been convicted of three prior crimes.

However, two of those former convictions were not valid because the man did not have a lawyer when he was put on trial in those cases.

In a dissenting opinion joined by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, Justice Harry A. Blackmun dismissed the ruling as "a fine and acceptable exposition of abstract law."

He said the case presumably would only lead the trial judge to give the same sentence all over again and that the Supreme Court would have been "merely marching up the hill only to march right down again."

The decision went beyond the 1967 ruling in the so-called "Burgett" case.

In that ruling, the justices said a conviction that came in a trial of a person who had no lawyer was unconstitutional, and so the verdict could never be used as evidence against the man when he is on trial for a new offense.

In addition, the justices said the invalid conviction could not be used to prove the man was a habitual criminal. Tuesday's extension means that the invalid conviction could not be taken into account in any way when the judge reaches the point of passing sentence.

Independent Oil Men Say They're Squeezed By Giants

Washington (UPI) — Independent oil producers and marketers said Tuesday they were being driven to the wall by tax concessions and monopolies in which the same dustry giants.

Testifying before the Senate-House Economic Committee, the independents called for legislation to break up vertical monopolits in which the same companies that pump oil out of wells own the pipelines, the refineries and the service stations which move it to the consumer.

They also called for an end to the oil depletion allowance, foreign import quotas and other market restrictions.

Ronald J. Peterson, chairman of Martin Oil Service Inc. of Chicago and representing the nation's independent marketers, said the system was resulting in "bloody murder" of independent refiners.

Alfred James III, a wildcatter from Wichita, Kan., said small producers like himself were being driven out of business by political contributions from the giants that pay off in tax favors. . ."

Second Day

The testimony came as Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., the committee chairman, conducted a second day of hearings on the need for new antitrust legislation and tax reform.

Beverly C. Moore Jr., an economist who studied the oil industry in detail for consumer advocate Ralph Nader, said eight oil companies now control 62% of refiner runs. He said the heavy concentration was fostered by government policy to keep out imports of crude oil, restrict domestic oil production and grant tax concessions that encourage vertical integration of oil companies from the well to the gas pump.

"The relatively competitive independent refiners, who have no depletion allowance, see their profit margins squeezed and their options reduced to bankruptcy or vertical merger," Moore said.

Moore contended that joint ownership of oil pipelines by major producers have aggravated the problem. The pipelines, he said serve not as common carriers, open to independents as well as giants, but as "exclusionary bottlenecks."

20 To 30% More

They are carefully planned to meet the needs of the pipeline's owners for their own operations, he said, and independents pay 20 to 30% more to use the pipeline than the owners.

Moore said antitrust action to force the oil companies to divest themselves of ownership of the huge Colonial pipeline from the Gulf Coast to New York has been quietly dropped.

James said small oilmen are like the small family farmers who are unable to affect the price they get for their crops when in competition with corporate farms.

"I'm not alone in saying that I think the reason for this may go deeply into the political system you gentlemen have inherited," James said. "It is a system of political financing and privilege."

Judge May Not Consider Past Record In Sentencing

. . . If Former Convictions Were Invalid

(c) Washington Star

Washington — A divided Supreme Court ruled Tuesday that a judge in setting a sentence may not consider a past criminal record if the former convictions were invalid.

By a vote of 5 to 2, the court expanded a 1967 decision barring the use of unconstitutional convictions to prove guilt on a new charge.

Speaking for the majority, Justice Potter Stewart declared that a sentencing judge would see a case in a "dramatically different light" if he is required to ignore earlier verdicts that were dismissed because they were unconstitutional.

The court ordered a federal judge in San Francisco to reconsider a 25-year prison sentence he imposed on a convicted bank robber in 1953.

At the time of the sentencing, the judge had before him the man's record that he had been convicted of three prior crimes.

However, two of those former convictions were not valid because the man did not have a lawyer when he was put on trial in those cases.

In a dissenting opinion joined by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, Justice Harry A. Blackmun dismissed the ruling as "a fine and acceptable exposition of abstract law."

He said the case presumably would only lead the trial judge to give the same sentence all over again and that the Supreme Court would have been "merely marching up the hill only to march right down again."

The decision went beyond the 1967 ruling in the so-called "Burgett" case.

In that ruling, the justices said a conviction that came in a trial of a person who had no lawyer was unconstitutional, and so the verdict could never be used as evidence against the man when he is on trial for a new offense.

In addition, the justices said the invalid conviction could not be used to prove the man was a habitual criminal. Tuesday's extension means that the invalid conviction could not be taken into account in any way when the judge reaches the point of passing sentence.

Clash Kills One

Port Moresby, New Guinea (UPI) — One man was killed and three others were injured by spears and arrows in a clash between rival tribes in the highlands of New Guinea, police patrolling the area reported. The dispute began over the distribution of pig meat at a tribal ceremony near Mount Hagen, 300 miles northwest of here. Pigs are a source of wealth in the area.

Cornhusker Bank President Says Year Was 'Best Ever'

G. A. Frampton, president and chairman of the board of Cornhusker Bank, reported to stockholders Tuesday that 1971 was "the best year ever" for the 69-year-old institution.

It was highlighted by the opening of a new drive-in, walk-in facility at the Belmont Plaza Shopping Center last April and the addition of three new employes. Since moving to Lincoln from Davey in 1960, Frampton said, the staff has grown from five to 15 persons.

Looking at prospects for the coming year, he commented, "We think they're very good because we're in a growing area of Lincoln." He cited specifically development in the airport vicinity and along Cornhusker Hwy.

Richard L. Herr, who joined the bank in February, was elected assistant cashier and other officers were reelected. They include Frampton, president; Cecile Frampton, Alice M. Dittman and J. A. Mastera, vice presidents; K. R. Ward, cashier; and Mel A. Hain, assistant cashier.

The board of directors, all reelected, are Norman Bulling; Ms. Dittman, secretary; Ms. Frampton; G. A. Frampton, chairman; Robert E. Frampton, vice chairman; Forest P. Hutson; A. Leicester Hyde; Robert McGill; John W. Stewart, counsel; and Karl A. Witt.

Frampton reported the bank's loan demand, $2,162,446 at the end of 1971, remains substantially unchanged from a year ago when it was $2,163,087.

Consumer loans are up from $668,045 a year ago to $760,521, an increase Frampton credits to the bank's increasing acquaintance with area residents.

Government bonds are up from $554,078 to $798,825 and other bonds up from $1,000,351 to $1,203,888, Frampton said.

Total essets were reported at $4,801,067, up from $4,151,027 a year ago and more than double the bank's 1965 total, he reported.

Deposits totalled $4,233,339 in 1971 as compared to $3,622,732 at the close of 1970. Frampton broke that total down as follows: demand deposits: $1,939,654 in 1971 as compared to $1,634,878 in 1970; time deposits: $1,320,389 in 1971; $1,030,703 in 1970; savings deposits: $864,705 in 1971, $817,174 in 1970, and government deposits: $51,944 in 1971, $34,752 in 1970.

The bank has capital of $200,000, surplus of $100,000, undivided profits of $107,556, and paid $12,000 in dividends at 6%, Frampton said.

Record Highs Are Reported By Provident Savings, Loan

Phil L. Sidles, president of Provident Savings and Loan Association, told stockholders Tuesday that during 1971 record highs were reached in savings, real estate mortgages, reserves and total assets.

He said the association recorded a 13% rise in assets; and increases of more than 16% savings and 12% in outstanding real estate mortgages and in reserves. Total assets of the association were $7,258,300 as of Dec. 31, he said.

Sidles reported that the association has paid regular quarterly and semi-annual dividends on all pass book savings and savings certificates and that the amount of dividends paid during 1971 was the highest in the firm's 64-year history.

W. H. Howey and Earl Carter were re-elected to the board of directors of the association. Holdover members of the board are Sidles, Frank C. Sidles, Paul C. Schorr III, Carl W. Olson and Jesse Williams.

The board re-elected Sidles, president; W. H. Howey, vice president; and Frank C. Sidles, secretary-treasurer.

First National Bank & Trust Income Rises

First National Bank & Trust Company of Lincoln Tuesday announced that income from operations for the year ended Dec. 31, 1971 were $2,378,655, or $4.07 per share. Comparative figures in 1970 were $2,228,276, or $3.84 per share.

Final net income, after securities gains or losses and extraordinary items, was $2,470,131 as compared to $2,132,158 in 1970. Per share figures for 1971 were $4.23 against $3.67 in 1970.

At year end, the bank's loan total stood at $145,530,000, an increase of $21,220,000 over the 1970 year end figure. Deposits on December 31, 1971 were $223,607,000 as compared to $210,895,000 a year earlier.

Capital funds of First National at year end totaled $20,267,000. Total assets were $257,142,000.

West Gate Bank Reports Record Highs During '71

S. E. Copple, president of West Gate Bank, told stockholders Tuesday at the annual meeting that interest paid to depositors, the number of customers served, and the increase in loan customers all reached record highs during 1971.

He said deposits increased 39% over 1970, loans increased 43% and total assets increased 34%. Total assets amounted to $4,741,694 as of Dec. 31, Copple said.

Copple reported that capital accounts totaled $642,280 and called the ratio of capital accounts to assets "exceptionally good."

Bank directors re-elected were S. E. Copple, Edward Copple, Robert A. Wekesser, Standley S. Haight, Carl J. Norden Jr., John R. Mower and Don W. Kelley.

Officers re-elected were S. E. Copple, president; Kelley, executive vice president and cashier; and Edward Copple, vice president.

Labor Leader, Convicted Of Conspiracy, Dies

Des Moines (UPI) — A Des Moines labor leader, who was convicted of conspiracy in 1970 in connection with a bombing incident, was found dead at his home here Tuesday.

An autopsy was to be performed on the body of William Reed but sheriff's officials said the 48-year-old labor leader appeared to have died from natural causes.

Reed's body was discovered by his secretary, Mrs. Evelyn Thompson, who said she went to his home after she telephoned the residence and got no answer.

Reed, who was the business agent for Iron Workers Union Local 67, was free on bond pending an appeal of his case to the Iowa Supreme Court. He was sentenced in 1970 to three years in the Iowa State Penitentiary at Fort Madison on a conspiracy conviction in connection with three bombings in Iowa.

A native of Des Moines, Reed was secretary of the Des Moines Building and Construction Trades Council.

Camera Masked

Lake Grove, N.Y. (UPI) — Three gunmen who held up the Central Federal Savings and Loan Association and escaped with $12,000 made sure that an overhead security camera did not record the robbery. They brought along a bed sheet and threw it over the camera.

Veerhusen Gets Player Honors

. . . BREAKS TOURNEY RECORDS

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

The Mudecas Conference is the oldest prep loop in the state. The league held its 42nd annual tournament during the past week and Kim Veerhusen of Adams set two all-time tourney scoring marks in leading the Hornets to the title.

The outstanding play of the 6-2 returning all-stater earns Veerhusen Player of the Week honors.

The Super-Hornet had 48 points in the title clash with five minutes left. He took only two shots during the remainder of the game, hitting one for his 49th and 50th points.

He ripped the nets for 24 field goals on just 38 attempts for a 57.1 percentage. Kim's 50 points was not a career high, however. Last season, in a playoff game to earn a state tourney berth, Veerhusen collected 53.

Others who had outstanding games over the past weekend and deserve special mention include:

Bob McEniry, Lincoln Pius X—His last-second fielder propeled the 'Bolts to a 54-52 victory over Southeast.

Larry Eikmeier, Dodge — Poured in 41 points and captured 25 rebounds to lead Dodge to an 86-70 win over Lindsay Holy Family.

Jerry Stuhr, Bradshaw — His field goal with five seconds left in overtime gave the Bulldogs their first victory of the season, a 51-49 win over Rising City.

Craig Pursley, Lexington — Scored 27 points and pulled down 18 rebounds in leading Lex to a big 75-57 triumph over Lincoln Pius X.

Bill Davis, Trenton — While scoring 44 points in a win over Hayes Center, this 5-11 junior also had 15 rebounds, eight assists and six steals. He's averaging 30.8 a game as Trenton has recorded five straight victories.

Bruce Schomaker, Lincoln High — His 22 points paced the Links to a victory over Southeast and a spot in the statewide top ten.

Joe Kinyoun, Superior — Tallied 25 points in 63-59 triumph over Geneva.

Craig Clarke, Chadron — Hit two free throws in the final 20 seconds to give Chadron a 59-57 win over Crawford.

Ike Baker, Decatur — Sizzled the nets for 32 points from the 15-20 foot range in a 72-52 win over Beemer.

Randy Roth, Milford — Scored 31 points and had 21 rebounds in a victory over Tri-County as Milford captured the Atlas Conference championship.

Black Hawks Place Five On First Team

New York (AP) — Chicago's front-running Black Hawks nailed down five of the six starting berths for the West Division in the National Hockey League's All-Star vote announced Tuesday.

Right-winger Bill Goldsworthy of the Minnesota North Stars was the only non Chicago player named to the first team in voting by members of the Professional Hockey Writers Association.

Left-winger Bobby Hull, the NHL's No 2 all-time scorer, heads the Chicago contingent. A unanimous choice, he will be playing in his 11th All-Star Game.

Joining Hull and Goldsworthy on the first team were center Stan Mikita, defensemen Pat Stapleton and Bill White and goalie Tony Esposito.

Besides the five Chicago players named to the first team, two more Hawks—left wing Dennis Hull and right wing Chico Maki — were named to the West Division's second team.

Minnesota, which hosts the NHL's silver anniversary all Star game Jan. 25, dominated the voting behind the Black Hawks. The North Stars had goalie Gump Worsley and defensemen Ted Harris and Doug Mohns named to the second team.

The only player named to the West squad not from Chicago or Minnesota was center Garry Unger of St. Louis who grabbed the second team center slot.

The West squad will be completed by Coach Billy Reay of the Black Hawks, who'll be coaching in his second all star game.

Sickness Forces Bryant To Leave Lecture Room

Hollywood, Fla (AP) — Head football coach Paul "Bear" Bryant of Alabama became ill during a lecture Tuesday and was forced to retire to his room.

The 58-year-old coach had spoken for about 10 minutes to the American Football Coaches Association when he backed away from the microphone and said, "I've got to take a break for a minute," and sat down.

He said later he felt he was going to faint. A few minutes later, pale and sweating profusely he walked to his room under his own power.

Two hours later he reportedly was feeling better. An Alabama spokesman said Bryant did not see a doctor. Bryant has undergone a hectic schedule since the Orange Bowl game Jan. 1 and his ailment was described as a "touch of virus."

Bryant cancelled a speech scheduled for Rochester, N.Y. Tuesday night and Duffy Daughterty of Michigan State took his place.

Montague Returns To Peru Cage Team

During his freshman career Montague was second leading scorer, averaging 17 points per game and also second on the boards, averaging 11 rebounds per game.

Skins Name Waller

Bush Named

Los Angeles (AP) — Jim Bush, UCLA track and field head coach, has been named Coach of the Year for 1971 by the U.S. Track and Field Coaches Association.

The award, determined at the NCAA winter convention last week in Miami Beach was announced by Stan Huntsman, University of Tennessee track coach and also president of the coaches association.

It is the first time Bush, starting his eighth year at UCLA, has been so honored.

Indians Draw First Choice

New York (AP) — The Cleveland Indians will choose first Wednesday in baseball's annual winter free agent draft.

The Indians, who finished with the poorest record in the majors, will open the draft and the remaining 23 clubs will follow Cleveland, rotating picks in inverse order of last year's record. The world champion Pittsburgh Pirates will pick last.

The 24 clubs will be linked by a telephonic hookup from Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office and draft selections will be phoned in. About 300 players — mostly graduating high school and college athletes and players selected but unsigned in previous drafts — were expected to be chosen.

Last year, 272 players were chosen in the regular and secondary phases of the winter draft.

"Medical Round-up" appearing in the "Sunday Journal and Star" gives sound advice on how to keep healthy.

Davidson To Baylor

Brock, Maxvill Sign

St. Louis (UPI) — Outfielder Lou Brock and shortstop Dal Maxvill have signed their 1972 contracts with the St. Louis Cardinals, genejal manager Bing Devine announced Tuesday.

Quarterhorse Club Names Officers

Grand Island (AP) — L. E. Seley of Grand Island is the new president of tht Central Nebraska Standard Quarterhorse Club which met in Grand Island over the weekend.

Ross Minor of Alda is vice president, Sandra McHugh of Grand Island secretary; and Mrs. Charles Long of Grand Island treasurer. Jim Dory and John Walker, both of Grand Island are directors.

ABA All-Star Selections Are Chosen

New York (AP) — Seven-foot-two rookie Artis Gilmore of the Kentucky Colonels was a near-unanimous choice Tuesday as the starting center on the Eastern Division team for the American Basketball Association's All-Star game Jan. 29 at Louisville.

Gilmore, the ABA's leading rebounder with an 18.5 average per game and scoring at the rate of 22.5 points per game, received 64 of 66 first-place votes and 262 points in balloting by sportswriters and broadcasters.

Joining Gilmore in the starting lineup will be forwards Dan Issel of Kentucky and Rick Barry of the New York Nets, and guards Charlie Scott of the Virginia Squires and Bill Melchionni of New York.

Others chosen to the squad were center Jim McDaniels of the Carolina Cougars, forwards Julius Erving of Virginia and John Brisker of the Pittsburgh Condors, and guards George Thompson of Pittsburgh and Mack Calvin of the Floridians.

Frazier Picks Cowboys To Claim Super Bowl

. . . OFFERS NO PREDICTION ON FIGHT

New Orleans (AP) — Joe Frazier wouldn't make any predictions Tuesday about his fight with Terry Daniels, but the world heavyweight champion did pick the Dallas Cowboys to beat the Miami Dolphins in the Super Bowl football game.

Frazier said he favored Dallas because "I know some of the players like Herby Adderly and Bob Hayes. Bob and I were at the Olympics together."

Frazier won the heavyweight title at the 1964 Tokyo Olympics while Hayes, a Dallas wide receiver, was the star dash man of the U.S. track team.

But while Frazier would not make any predictions concerning his fight with Daniels Saturday night on the eve of the Super Bowl, he was an overwhelming favorite not only to win but to win early.

Told most people were picking him to win in a round or two, Frazier just smiled and said, "I hope they're right."

Frazier, who will be 28 Wednesday, sparred four rounds Tuesday. He has been training seven weeks for his first fight since he won a unanimous 15-round decision over Muhammad Ali in The Fight in New York last March 8.

The workouts here — first Frazier and then Daniels — are being held in what is grandly termed the penthouse on the roof of a hotel in the French Quarter. The penthouse is a small structure of unpainted building blocks, steel girders and a bare steel roof.

The biggest crowd yet was on hand for Frazier's workout which consisted of a round of sparring with Ray Anderson and three with Mike Boswell.

Frazier, who looked fast, was in a relaxed mood and was particularly pleased that the fight will be shown on a home-television hookup. The last heavyweight title fight on home television was Muhammad Ali's seven-round knockout of Zora Folley March 22, 1967.

When Golf Digest polled various celebrities for their 1972 golf resolutions, responses included:

Vice President Spiro Agnew: "I resolve to have the markers moved forward, or the gallery moved back, at the 1972 Bob Hope Classic."

Senator Edmund Muskie: "I resolve to start shaking hands with my left hand. My right hand is getting too much exercise and keeps taking over when I swing."

Comedian Don Rickles: "I resolve to request the USGA to make the tee shot illegal in the game."

Denver Broncos' Rex Mirich offers this bit of football philosophy: "My only complaint is the constant rule-changes. For instance, every year, they make the field longer."

From the Believe It Or Not Department—A team led by Jack Nicklaus has never won a pro-am event preceding a PGA Tour stop.

Former Denver Broncos head coach Lou Saban on play selection: "You've got only 30 seconds and there are no erasers out there."

Muhammad Ali, who is still smoldering over critics calling his mismatch with Buster Mathis a joke, contends, "How can they call that a farce? It's not the first time something like this ever happened. It happens all the time in sports. I saw the Dolphins beat the Bears on television. Now that was a farce."

Acupulco, Mexico, is a favorite winter vacation spot for some Nebraskans, who have money left over after a football season and they now may have a chance to play tennis with Pancho Gonzalez, who has been named to the board of directors of the new El Matador Racquet Club and plans to put on clinics as well as participate with guests at the Racquet Club.

Missouri To Try Again

Another bill has been introduced in the Missouri Legislature for a constitutional amendment to permit pari-mutuel betting in the state. Missouri voters turned down a proposal of the same kind last October.

While most bills introduced in state legislatures to raise the take-out on horse race betting are designed to benefit only the state tax coffers, Michigan lawmakers are considering a bill that would raise that state's take-out from 15 to 16½ cents on the dollar with tracks to receive one cent of it.

Half of that one cent would be earmarked for purses to benefit the horsemen, the really important people in horse racing.

When Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bennett of 5946 Newton stopped for church in Calhoun, Ga., on their way home from the Orange Bowl, they saw a line in the church bulletin entitled Thought For The Day—"A wishbone isn't as likely to produce success as a backbone."

While Riva Ridge was top-weighted at 126 pounds in this winter's Experimental Handicap, a rating system of sorts for 3-year-old thoroughbreds, British Fleet was assigned 111 pounds.

That means 41 thoroughbreds of Kentucky-Derby age are ranked ahead of the Van Berg Stables' star.

Ever wonder how your bowling average compares with the leaders on the Professional Bowlers Association tour?

If it's not in the neighborhood of 210, you don't rank very well with the pro bowlers. Don Johnson had the best average on the PBA tour last year with 213.977 and No. 20 Butch Gearhart averaged 210.093.

To get maximum attention, it's hard to beat a good mistake.

'Doomsday Defense' Overshadows Miami Crew

. . . DOLPHIN DEFENSIVE UNIT LACKS 'SUPERSTAR' LUSTER ACCORDING TO BUOINICONTI

New Orleans (AP) — Nick Buoiniconti stood up in defense of Miami's defensive unit Tuesday, characterizing the 11 men he leads as "street fighters and hell-raisers" who "get stirred up when we're discounted."

And the 11-man unit, which Buoniconti acknowledges lacks the glamor of some other defensive units in the National Football League, finds itself taking a backseat in this week's Super Bowl preparations to Dallas' Doomsday Defense.

Dallas linebackers Dave Edwards, Chuck Howley and LeRoy Jordan have come up with the same formula for beating Miami in Super Bowl VI: Stop the run and make the Dolphins throw the ball.

"It's kind of typical," Buoiniconti said about the Dolphin defense, "No one ever gives us a chance.

"They discounted our defense after the Kansas City game despite the fact we shut them out in the fifth and sixth quarters. We were thinking shutout right from the beginning against the Colts in the American Conference championship game and we shut them out.

"But most people don't know much about our guys. You hear all about the Doomsday Defense — it goes wherever Dallas travels. We just have not been a glamorous enough defense. We don't have a real superstar and so there's no focus of attention.

"You take our offense — there's wide receiver Paul Warfield. People expect miracles from him and he produces them. We're just 11 guys working together — really loose, never tight."

The guys nobody knows finished second in the American Conference to Baltimore on defense during the regular season and have not been scored on in 82 minutes and 40 seconds of playoff action, covering the sudden death overtime against the Chiefs and the game against the Colts.

The left side for the secondary is manned by cornerback Tim Foley and safety Dick Anderson while the right side is handled by safety Jake Scott and cornerback Curtis Johnson.

The Dallas trio acknowledged the Miami offense by pointing out that Miami running backs Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick provide the sternest test in the history of the veteran Doomsday Defense.

"We've never played them before but Csonka looks big and strong on film" Edwards said. "And that Jim Kiick can hit the hole very fast. They are both very quick.

"We need to shut off the run, get ahead of them and force them to pass."

Howley, who has intercepted six passes this season, said: "'We hope to get them into passing situations so we can get vital turnovers for our offense and good field position."

Jordan said: "We know what Paul Warfield can do. He is one of the best wide receivers in football. But we can contain Warfield if we shut down the running game and know they are going to throw to Warfield.

"Their running backs are as big and strong as I've ever seen. Boy, that Csonka is a big chap."

The Cowboys are the No. 1 team in the National Conference against the rush and take great pride in holding their foes to under 100 yards per game.

PATERNO BLASTS NCAA

OU's Fairbanks Also Opposed

. . . TO FROSH ELIGIBILITY

Hollywood, Fla. (UPI) — Joe Paterno, coach of Penn State's Cotton Bowl winners, said Tuesday that the NCAA made a "lousy" decision when it voted to allow freshmen to play major college football.

Opinions on the move seemed to be split at the American College Football Coaches' Convention here with the big-time coaches opposed to the move and coaches at small universities quietly in favor of it.

"I guess it's just another difference of opinion between the bigger schools and the smaller ones," said Georgia coach Vince Dooley, whose Bulldogs won the Gator Bowl last month.

Jack Murphy, coach at Toledo, a member of the Mid-American Conference and holder of a 35-game winning streak, classifies his program as "in between the super big time colleges and the small schools."

He said he was "astonished" when he heard of the freshman move.

"But for selfish purposes, it probably will help me," Murphy said. "We graduate 19 seniors this year and 15 of them were starters."

Murphy said it probably would give him an edge in recruiting competition with Big Ten Conference schools in his region if that conference legislates against using freshmen and his Mid-American conference does not.

The only conference to vote on whether to go along with the NCAA decision has been the Southwest Conference, which voted to use freshman.

But, it's doubtful that the Southeastern Conference will go along with the idea.

"The NCAA action was simply permissive legislation," said SEC commissioner "Tonto" Coleman. "We would still have to take a vote within our conference and although I haven't canvassed the membership, it's my opinion that most would probably have preferred leaving the freshman rule as it was."

Coleman pointed out that SEC by-laws state that proposals to be taken up at the annual meeting must be made at least three weeks in advance "so that the members would have time to study them."

But Dooley left no doubt that he was himself opposed to using freshmen.

Oklahoma coach Chuck Fairbanks said he knew that all Big Eight coaches opposed the freshman rule but "we're going to have to look around and see what the competition is going to do."

Paterno said he thought the first year of college already presents enough problems for a freshman without having to go through the pressure of a big time varsity football season.

He said he would go along with the decision of the Eastern College Athletic Association, but he might recruit on the basis of freshmen sitting out the year.

Nebraska-Breds Set To Receive Additional Races

Two additional races each week for Nebraska-bred horses have been added to the 1972 State Fairgrounds racing schedule.

Henry Brandt, State Fairgrounds general manager, said the races would be held in addition to the one Nebraska-bred race each day. That provides seven Nebraska-bred races on five-day racing weeks and eight on six-day racing weeks.

"We feel this will give the Nebraska-bred horses a little more chance to run," Brandt said. "The purse for those races will be according to our usual schedule."

Palmer: Less Play In Tourneys

Los Angeles (AP) — "I just can't birdie the world anymore."

Arnold Palmer, an aging lion but still The King, was discussing his new attack plan on the game of golf, a game he dominated with an unmatched flair and verve for a decade.

"I'm cutting far back on my playing schedule," said the most famous citizen of Latrobe, Pa., "I'm only planning on playing 16 or 18 tournaments, maybe less than that.

"I found last year that I just can't play that much that well any more," Palmer said.

In line with that new plan—which includes a greater concentration than ever before on the big four championships — the 42-year-old all-time leading money winner is skipping this week's Bing Crosby National Pro-Am for the first time.

"You could say I've got some business commitments in Florida," Palmer said. "But it's also in line with my plan to cut back."

Palmer said he became convinced last year, when he came back from a brief rest and won the rich Westchester Classic, that a reduced playing schedule would help him play better.

He probably won't play again until the Hawaiian Open three weeks away.

Cowboys Fall To Longhorns

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — Texas built a 16-point lead with 3:35 left and then grimly held on as Oklahoma State sliced the margin to five before the Longhorns gained 67-61 victory over the Cowboys here Tuesday night

Texas upped its season record to 7-3 with the victory while state dipped to 2-11. It was the final non-Big Eight contest for the Pokes who visit Kansas Saturday night.

New Orleans Becomes Nation's Sports Capital

New Orleans (AP) — Preservation Hall belches authentic jazz the way it has for 150 years, more than two Louis Armstrong lifetimes. Al Hirt's horn rattles rafters down the street.

Assorted female shapes shimmy in smoky spotlights, "taking it off" for booze-buying patrons to music generated by half-asleep burlesque bands.

Bourbon Street was welcoming the Super Bowl and Sunday's title game between Dallas and Miami.

"C'mon inside, fellas," pleaded the shoddy hawker at a nudie doorstep, "c'mon in and see the super body." Muscle-bound men in Dallas Cowboy t-shirts saw all they wanted from the middle of the street.

While traditional girlie shows grind along their way the boys — or so they claim — have begun to horn in on the Bourbon Street flesh market.

New Orleans began to bulge at its territorial seams Tuesday night. More than 50,000 visitors are expected before the weekend.

Hotel rooms are nonexistent within 75 miles of the Sugar Bowl Stadium. Restaurants are crowded. Taxis have "special $1.50 a person" signs in every window.

The National Football League showdown between Miami and Dallas isn't the only world championship on the line this weekend. Joe Frazier will mildly risk his heavyweight boxing crown against unknown Terry Daniels Saturday night.

Former President Lyndon Johnson has checked in at one hotel, here obviously to pull for the homestate Cowboys.

Plainsmen Down Bellevue Despite Late Bruin Rally

. . . HIATT FREE THROWS SEAL WIN

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Bellevue College lived up to its reputation of playing good basketball despite only winning one game so far this season.

Nebraska Wesleyan was pressed hard by the Bruins Tuesday night at the Ira J. Taylor Gym before winning 73-67. The Plainsmen raised their record to 6-7 while Bellevue dropped to a 1-13 record.

With 7:05 left, NWU seemed to be in control with a 64-59 lead but then things changed.

In the next two minutes and 59 seconds, the Plainsmen only managed one point while the Bruins scored 14 to pull within one. Freshman Kevin Riley came in to spark Bellevue with seven points and lead a zone press.

Wesleyan, which had elected to stall during that period, finally scored with John Strain connecting from the field with 3:51 remaining.

However the Bruins' Terry Cadwell sank a basket with 3:17 to go pulling Bellevue within one again. Mike Renken then tipped in a missed bucket for NWU at the 2:11 mark but Bellevue's Ed Larson made a free throw with 1:16 left.

Strain leaped high to tip in a missed basket with 49 seconds remaining making the score 70-67 in the Plainsmen's favor.

As the Bruins came down the court on the following play a pass went out of bounds and Wesleyan got the ball on the turnover. When NWU brought the ball upcourt, team captain Lyle Hiatt was fouled, a move Bellevue coach Roger Nieveen said was a mistake.

Hiatt hit two free throws with 37 seconds left giving the Plainsmen a 72-67 advantage which sealed the win.

"We should've fouled either Mike Renken or Reidell Lintz instead of Hiatt," Nieveen said. "Hiatt is too dependable and the other two weren't having a great night shooting."

Bellevue outshot NWU from both the field and free throw line on percentages but the Plainsmen used their rebounding superiorty to get second and third shots. Wesleyan had 58 rebounds to 38 for the Bruins.

—'BOWL TRIPS ARE SUPPOSED TO BE FUN'—

Ralston: 16-Day Bowl Drills Resemble Spring Practices

Hollywood, Fla. (AP) — College football squads practice too much before bowl games, says John Ralston, whose teams have won the last two Rose Bowl contests, and the long workouts give them an advantage the following year over non-bowl teams.

Ralston, who recently left Stanford University to become coach and general manager of the Denver Broncos of the National Football League, said Tuesday that bowl practices should be 10 days rather than the permissible 16.

"Bowl games are supposed to be fun trips," he said. "You can't make it a crusade. Five practices during a preliminary week and five during game week is plenty. But you feel like you've got to work out the full 16 days because your opponent is doing it.

"Sixteen days is almost like spring practice. That's why so many bowl teams tend to get stronger the following year. They've had an extra spring practice."

Stanford practiced the full time before edging Michigan 13-12 in the Rose Bowl and Ralston said the second week "just seemed to drag on and on."

"I was a little bit concerned we might possibly not be as dedicated as we were last year, but I think it was just the squad knowing what they had to do to get ready more so than the year before. I know I probably wasn't quite as tight as the first time."

Although Ralston is going to a pro schedule that starts in training camp in July and doesn't wind up its 14-game regular season until mid-December, he feels that the college season is too long.

"Eleven games is a long schedule for a college player," he said. "Now, the season's becoming even longer because it can start a week earlier on Sept. 1. A bowl game isn't like an all-star game. You've got your own players, not strangers, and they don't need 16 days.

"You're supposed to practice to get better and we weren't getting better. Practicing because your opponent is practicing is a poor damn reason.

John, Mack Set Another Meeting

Ames, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State basketball coach Maury John said he will meet with Gene Mack "again Wednesday for another talk and that will be the final meeting — one way or another."

John had met with Mack Tuesday to discuss Mack's being dropped from the basketball squad Sunday. But Mack was still under suspension when the Cyclones met for practice late Tuesday afternoon.

Mead Awarded Top Rung On Class D Cage Ladder

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Mead is in the habit of being rated No. 1. But this time coach Jim Heller and his Raiders hope to stay there.

Mead was accorded the top spot throughout the entire basketball season last year. They justified the ranking by recording 22 consecutive victories through the regular campaign plus the district and regional playoffs.

But then the Raiders were rudely dumped in their first game of the state tournament.

This fall the same athletes were back and formed a No. 1 rated eight-man football team. They responded by winning their first seven games. But then came a loss.

Now, with returning 6-5 all-stater Mike Couch at center, flanked by 6-3 forwards Corky Charles and John Erickson, Mead has rolled to nine triumphs and is No. 1 again in the initial Class D high school top ten basketball ratings for the current campaign.

Of the 145 schools in Class D, five of them — all in the top ten — are still unbeaten.

No. 2 ranked Palmer also has nine victories, and three of those wins were against Class C foes. So Mead has plenty of challengers.

Prior to the other three unbeatens in the top ten listing comes No. 3 Yutan, topped only by Mead, and No. 4 Adams, a Yutan victim which also lost a three-point decision to a top notch Class C Tri County quintet.

Venango, Sidney St. Patrick and Trenton, all with perfect records, claim the fifth, sixth and seventh spots, while Bartlett, Davenport and Clarks round out the top ten.

Clarks, a four-point loser to No. 2 Palmer, gets the final rung on the ratings ladder in a close call over several others.

Nuclear-Powered Ship Savannah To Be Memorial

Savannah, Ga (UPI) — The 595-foot nuclear ship Savannah, a $7 million demonstration of the peaceful uses of nulear power, was hauled up the Savannah River by tugs to become a part of the Eisenhower Peace Memorial

The deactivated ship will b formally welcomed in ceremonies Saturday. It was handed over to the city of Savannah by the Todd Shipbuilding Yard of Galveston, Tex., which carried out deactivation of the ship's reactors.

Savannah, first nuclear merchant ship ever built, was greeted by thousands when it docked here on its maiden voyage in 1962. Only a few hundred spectators saw it hauled in by tugs.

The ship was a joint project of the Department of Commerce and the Atomic Energy Commission to demonstrate the peaceful uses of atomic power. But smaller, more powerful reactors rendered the ship obsolete and the federal government decided it could no longer pay the high cost of running the ship

Frazier Picks Cowboys To Claim Super Bowl

. . . OFFERS NO PREDICTION ON FIGHT

New Orleans (AP) — Joe Frazier wouldn't make any predictions Tuesday about his fight with Terry Daniels, but the world heavyweight champion did pick the Dallas Cowboys to beat the Miami Dolphins in the Super Bowl football game.

Frazier said he favored Dallas because "I know some of the players like Herby Adderly and Bob Hayes. Bob and I were at the Olympics together."

Frazier won the heavyweight title at the 1964 Tokyo Olympics while Hayes, a Dallas wide receiver, was the star dash man of the U.S. track team.

But while Frazier would not make any predictions concerning his fight with Daniels Saturday night on the eve of the Super Bowl, he was an overwhelming favorite not only to win but to win early.

Told most people were picking him to win in a round or two, Frazier just smiled and said, "I hope they're right."

Frazier, who will be 28 Wednesday, sparred four rounds Tuesday. He has been training seven weeks for his first fight since he won a unanimous 15-round decision over Muhammad Ali in The Fight in New York last March 8.

The workouts here — first Frazier and then Daniels — are being held in what is grandly termed the penthouse on the roof of a hotel in the French Quarter. The penthouse is a small structure of unpainted building blocks, steel girders and a bare steel roof.

The biggest crowd yet was on hand for Frazier's workout which consisted of a round of sparring with Ray Anderson and three with Mike Boswell.

Frazier, who looked fast, was in a relaxed mood and was particularly pleased that the fight will be shown on a home-television hookup. The last heavyweight title fight on home television was Muhammad Ali's seven-round knockout of Zora Folley March 22, 1967.

Stock Mart Finishes With Gain

New York (AP) — Stock market prices whipsawed around on the upside Tuesday afternoon, regaining most of the strong and broad advances they had established in the early hours. Trading was active.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks closed up 4.14 at 912.10. It had been up 5.50 at 12:30 p.m.

Monte Gordon, analyst for Bache & Co., commented on current market action by saying it "has to be regarded in the context of the sharpincreases of late 1971, when it went up about 100 points."

The market "now is moving in the zone between 880 and 920" of the Dow Jones industrial index, he added, "and this is kind of a technical correction," a consolidation "during a period when there is no strong news from the economy."

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common shares closed at 57.39, up .22.

There were 996 advances and 499 declines among the 1,172 issues traded. The yearly highs numbered 93 and there were no yearly lows.

The Associated Press 60-stock average rose 1.9 to 332.7. Industrials were ahead 1.5 to 489.1, rails gained 2 to 189.4, and utilities were up .9 to 142.5.

Standard and Poor's 500-stock index was up .33 to 103.65.

The volume leader on the Big Board was Mattel, Inc., off ¼ to 25⅛ on a turnover of 260,800 shares.

On the American Stock exchange, the Amex price index was up .15 to 26.41. Volume was 6.2 million shares, compared with 5.11 million Monday. Among the 1,229 issues traded there were 644 advances and 350 declines.

Corporate bonds were up slightly. Government issues were lower.

Wheat Futures Close Irregular

Chicago (AP) — Wheat futures prices fell 2¼ cents early on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday, but recovered in the closing minutes and ended up on an irregular toue.

Soybeans were higher after an irregular opening, but corn and oats prices were lower. Iced broilers were unchanged to some 25 points higher, but soybean meal was lower while oil closed on a mixed tone.

At the close, wheat was 1¼ cents a bushel lower to ⅛ higher, March 1.61½; corn was ¼ to ½ lower, March 1.21⅝; oats were ⅛ to ½ lower, March 73½ cents; and soybeans were ⅛ to 1½ higher, January 3.07⅝.

Veerhusen Gets Player Honors

. . . BREAKS TOURNEY RECORDS

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

The Mudecas Conference is the oldest prep loop in the state. The league held its 42nd annual tournament during the past week and Kim Veerhusen of Adams set two all-time tourney scoring marks in leading the Hornets to the title.

The outstanding play of the 6-2 returning all-stater earns Veerhusen Player of the Week honors.

Veerhusen pumped in 50 points during the championship game for one record, while his total of 126 counters (a 32.2 per game average) was another.

The Super-Hornet had 48 points in the title clash with five minutes left. He took only two shots during the remainder of the game, hitting one for his 49th and 50th points.

He ripped the nets for 24 field goals on just 38 attempts for a 57.1 percentage. Kim's 50 points was not a career high, however. Last season, in a playoff game to earn a state tourney berth, Veerhusen collected 53.

Others who had outstanding games over the past weekend and deserve special mention include:

Bob McEniry, Lincoln Pius X—His last-second fielder propeled the 'Bolts to a 54-52 victory over Southeast.

Larry Eikmeier, Dodge — Poured in 41 points and captured 25 rebounds to lead Dodge to an 86-70 win over Lindsay Holy Family.

Jerry Stuhr, Bradshaw — His field goal with five seconds left in overtime gave the Bulldogs their first victory of the season, a 51-49 win over Rising City.

Craig Pursley, Lexington — Scored 27 points and pulled down 18 rebounds in leading Lex to a big 75-57 triumph over Lincoln Pius X.

Bill Davis, Trenton — While scoring 44 points in a win over Hayes Center, this 5-11 junior also had 15 rebounds, eight assists and six steals. He's averaging 30.8 a game as Trenton has recorded five straight victories.

Bruce Schomaker, Lincoln High — His 22 points paced the Links to a victory over Southeast and a spot in the statewide top ten.

Joe Kinyoun, Superior — Tallied 25 points in 63-59 triumph over Geneva.

Craig Clarke, Chadron — Hit two free throws in the final 20 seconds to give Chadron a 59-57 win over Crawford.

Ike Baker, Decatur — Sizzled the nets for 32 points from the 15-20 foot range in a 72-52 win over Beemer.

Randy Roth, Milford — Scored 31 points and had 21 rebounds in a victory over Tri-County as Milford captured the Atlas Conference championship.

Black Hawks Place Five On First Team

New York (AP) — Chicago's front-running Black Hawks nailed down five of the six starting berths for the West Division in the National Hockey League's All-Star vote announced Tuesday.

Right-winger Bill Goldsworthy of the Minnesota North Stars was the only non Chicago player named to the first team in voting by members of the Professional Hockey Writers Association.

Left-winger Bobby Hull, the NHL's No. 2 all-time scorer, heads the Chicago contingent. A unanimous choice, he will be playing in his 11th All-Star Game.

Joining Hull and Goldsworthy on the first team were center Stan Mikita, defensemen Pat Stapleton and Bill White and goalie Tony Esposito.

Besides the five Chicago players named to the first team, two more Hawks—left wing Dennis Hull and right wing Chico Maki — were named to the West Division's second team.

Minnesota, which hosts the NHL's silver anniversary all star game Jan. 25, dominated the voting behind the Black Hawks. The North Stars had goalie Gump Worsley and defensemen Ted Harris and Doug Mohns named to the second team.

The only player named to the West squad not from Chicago or Minnesota was center Garry Unger of St. Louis, who grabbed the second team center slot.

The West squad will be completed by Coach Billy Reay of the Black Hawks, who'll be coaching in his second all star game.

Sickness Forces Bryant To Leave Lecture Room

Hollywood, Fla. (AP) — Head football coach Paul "Bear" Bryant of Alabama became ill during a lecture Tuesday and was forced to retire to his room.

The 58-year-old coach had spoken for about 10 minutes to the American Football Coaches Association when he backed away from the microphone and said, "I've got to take a break for a minute," and sat down.

He said later he felt he was going to faint. A few minutes later, pale and sweating profusely he walked to his room under his own power.

Two hours later he reportedly was feeling better. An Alabama spokesman said Bryant did not see a doctor. Bryant has undergone a hectic schedule since the Orange Bowl game Jan. 1 and his ailment was described as a "touch of virus."

Bryant cancelled a speech scheduled for Rochester, N.Y. Tuesday night and Duffy Daughterty of Michigan State took his place.

Montague Returns To Peru Cage Team

Peru — Ananias Montague, junior forward from Chicago has returned to Peru State's basketball team for the second semester after leaving in midseason last year.

Washington (AP) — Charlie Waller, former head coach of the National Football League's San Diego Chargers, has been named special assistant coach of the Washington Redskins, Head coach George Allen said Tuesday.

Bush Named

Los Angeles (AP) — Jim Bush, UCLA track and field head coach, has been named Coach of the Year for 1971 by the U.S. Track and Field Coaches Association.

The award, determined at the NCAA winter convention last week in Miami Beach was announced by Stan Huntsman, University of Tennessee track coach and also president of the coaches association.

It is the first time Bush, starting his eighth year at UCLA, has been so honored.

Indians Draw First Choice

New York (AP) — The Cleveland Indians will choose first Wednesday in baseball's annual winter free agent draft.

The Indians, who finished with the poorest record in the majors, will open the draft and the remaining 23 clubs will follow Cleveland, rotating picks in inverse order of last year's record. The world champion Pittsburgh Pirates will pick last.

The 24 clubs will be linked by a telephonic hookup from Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office and draft selections will be phoned in. About 300 players — mostly graduating high school and college athletes and players selected but unsigned in previous drafts — were expected to be chosen.

Last year, 272 players were chosen in the regular and secondary phases of the winter draft.

"Medical Round-up" appearing in the "Sunday Journal and Star" gives sound advice on how to keep healthy.

Stock Mart Finishes With Gain

New York (AP) — Stock market prices whipsawed around on the upside Tuesday afternoon, regaining most of the strong and broad advances they had established in the early hours. Trading was active.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks closed up 4.14 at 912.10. It had been up 5.50 at 12:30 p.m.

Monte Gordon, analyst for Bache & Co., commented on current market action by saying it "has to be regarded in the context of the sharpincreases of late 1971, when it went up about 100 points."

The market "now is moving in the zone between 880 and 920" of the Dow Jones industrial index, he added, "and this is kind of a technical correction," a consolidation "during a period when there is no strong news from the economy."

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common shares closed at 57.39, up .22.

There were 996 advances and 499 declines among the 1,172 issues traded. The yearly highs numbered 93 and there were no yearly lows.

The Associated Press 60-stock average rose 1.9 to 332.7. Industrials were ahead 1.5 to 489.1, rails gained 2 to 189.4, and utilities were up .9 to 142.5.

Standard and Poor's 500-stock index was up .33 to 103.65.

Blocks of 10,000 shares or more numbered 131, compared with a revised figure of 97 for Monday.

The volume leader on the Big Board was Mattel, Inc., off 1/8 to 25⅛ on a turnover of 260,800 shares.

On the American Stock exchange, the Amex price index was up .15 to 26.41. Volume was 6.2 million shares, compared with 5.11 million Monday. Among the 1,229 issues traded there were 644 advances and 350 declines.

Corporate bonds were up slightly. Government issues were lower.

At the close, wheat was 1¾ cents a bushel lower to ⅝ higher, March 1.61½; corn was ¼ to ½ lower, March 1.21¾; oats were ⅛ to ½ lower, March 73½ cents; and soybeans were ⅛ to 1½ higher, January 3.07⅝.

Nuclear-Powered Ship Savannah To Be Memorial

Savannah, Ga. (UPI) — The 595-foot nuclear ship Savannah, a $7 million demonstration of the peaceful uses of nulear power, was hauled up the Savannah River by tugs to become a part of the Eisenhower Peace Memorial.

The deactivated ship will b formally welcomed in ceremonies Saturday. It was handed over to the city of Savannah by the Todd Shipbuilding Yard of Galveston, Tex., which carried out deactivation of the ship's reactors.

Savannah, first nuclear merchant ship ever built, was greeted by thousands when it docked here on its maiden voyage in 1962. Only a few hundred spectators saw it hauled in by tugs.

The ship was a joint project of the Department of Commerce and the Atomic Energy Commission to demonstrate the peaceful uses of atomic power. But smaller, more powerful reactors rendered the ship obsolete and the federal government decided it could no longer pay the high cost of running the ship.

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

Margarine was invented in France about 1870.

With their hair and fat, yaks are protected from the cold and can lie down and rest without fear of blizzards.

One of the American colonies' first industries was a glassmaking plant in Jamestown, Va., staffed in 1621 by six glassblowers from Italy.

Latin America has accounted for 40% of the International Finance Corporation's business. In its 15 years' existence the IFC has invested $194.7 million in 71 projects in 13 Latin-American countries.

The phrase, "doing a land-office business," originated at the Holland Land Co. Office on Main Street in Batavia, N.Y. The office, built in 1814, is preserved as a National Historic Landmark.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
